

S.P.E.C.T.O.R 636

Chapter 636: Lorelie and Elemence

“Then what is?” Lotelie asked with a small smile.

“I wish to discuss Revi joining and what place she would hold in the group since she’s the Phoenix Empress.”

“You believe that just because she’s the Phoenix Empress, she should hold a position higher than the rest of us?” Lorelie asked with a frown.

“Well, that is generally how these things work,” Elemance replied before continuing, “If the emperor or empress didn’t marry an influential and powerful member of their own race, which is most common, then they would marry someone of similar rank from one of the other races.

Normally, the idea of her marrying Adam would not go down well with the members of the council and other influential members of our race; however, once it becomes known that he is, in fact, the Black Knight from back then, they won’t have anything to complain about.

After all, who else is more suitable to marry the leader of our race and be the father of the next ruler than the hero who saved our race?”

“While I understand what you're saying, you should know that Adam treats us all equally and that there is no hierarchy in our harem,” Lorelie replied.

“So there isn’t a definitive leader amongst the three of you?” Elemence asked in mild surprise.

“No.”

“Do you plan to keep it as just the four of you after Revi joins, or will there be more in the future and if so, exactly how many?”

“Why not just tell me what you can bring to the family, since you're obviously so interested,” Lorelie replied.

“She's both my Empress and best friend. I naturally want to make sure that she won't be hurt by joining your group relationship,” Elemence replied defensively.

“Uh-huh, for Revi, sure,” Lorelie replied unbelievably.

“But to answer your questions, I do believe there will be more in the future, though we have not set a limit, only that they need to be faithful and bring something to the family.”

“Hmm,” Elemence replied as she fell into thought.

“What are you two discussing that's causing you to hang all the way back here?” Emma asked as she came over and joined them.

Lorelie looked towards the other three to find that Tephe was excitedly showing something she found interesting to Adam and Eri.

“It's more my fans asking for pictures and autographs than the conversation,” Lorelie replied with a smile as a few more members of the Phoenix race, who were her fans, came up to her.

“Must be tough being so popular,” Emma remarked with a smile.

“It has its pros and cons like everything, but I do enjoy interacting with my fans,” Lorelie replied.

Only after she waved to them as they left did she turn to Emma and say, “I would have thought you would be interested in seeing everything Fenix Nest has to offer; this is your first alien world after all.”

“I am, it's all so fascinating and there are so many new things,” Emma replied.

"I'm happy to hear that you're enjoying our planet. Feel free to ask me any questions you may have," Elementence stated with a smile.

"Thank you," Emma replied gratefully.

"To answer your original question, however, we are discussing something I'm sure you're interested in," Lorelie said with a wink.

"Oh?" Emma asked curiously.

"Adam's harem," Lorelie replied in a suggestive tone.

"Oh!" Emma said again before she avoided Lorelie's eyes as she asked, "Why would you think I would be interested in that?"

"Oh please," Lorelie replied while rolling her own eyes before she said, "We have seen how you look at Adam, it's obvious you're interested in him, so why hide it?"

"My my, he is popular, isn't he?" Elementence said with a chuckle while looking towards Adam again, who was patting Tephe's head for some reason.

"Of course, you think I would take some mediocre man as my husband?" Lorelie stated proudly.

Elementence smiled and shook her head at Lorelie's bragging before she turned to Emma and asked, "So what will you bring to the family, since it seems you plan to join in the future?"

"Wha... what?" Emma asked in surprise as she flushed slightly.

"Emma is who we are trusting the future operation and success of our business empire to," Lorelie said with a smile.

“Business empire, huh?” Elemence repeated as she gave Emma an appeasing look, which quickly turned into a smirk as she asked, “Like the idea of Adam fucking you from behind as you lean over the desk in your top-floor office, do you?”

“Ohhh, now that’s an interesting idea, I might have to try that in the future,” Lorelie said with sparkling eyes.

Emma flushed even more at Elemence’s suggestion as she asked, “You’ve experienced such a thing?”

“I’m not as innocent as Revi,” Elemence replied with a wink before adding, “I’ve had a few individuals come satisfy me in my office when work was piling up and I needed a release, or when the urge took me.”

“You're going to have to quit that if you ever consider joining,” Lorelie warned.

“What?” Elemence asked in confusion.

“The only people we can have sexual activities with are Adam and the other harem members,” Lorelie explained.

“Is that right?” Elemence asked with interest before adding, “And Adam’s ok with you having your activities without him?”

“He’s fine with it,” Lorelie replied before explaining, “Rowena’s not really into playing with other women, so it’s generally just Stacey and me playing together when Adam is keeping Rowena company.”

“So Diva Rowena and Stacey have never...” Emma began to ask before letting the question hang in the air.

“No. As I said, Rowena is not really into playing with other women and while Stacey swings both ways, she’s not really interested in playing with her grandmother,” Lorelie replied.

“It’s probably the Brood part of her with how they don’t like to share their mates with other Brood,” Elemence replied before adding, “It was surprising when Revi told me that they were both dating Adam.”

“As you said, it must be a Brood thing,” Lorelie replied while shrugging.

“Hmm,” Elemence replied thoughtfully before smirking as she asked, “Then what about Adam? Is he bound by the rules of only playing with the group members or himself?”

“Haha, not sure why he would want to play with himself when he has such beautiful girlfriends,” Emma replied after laughing.

“Neither am I, but I know that in some group relationships, the owner doesn’t abide by the same rules as their members. Take that idiot Narven, for example.”

“Oh? What are the rules of his group relationship?” Lorelie asked curiously.

“His members can only sleep with him while he can fuck anyone he likes, even non-group members,” Elemence replied while showing a look of disgust.

“Why would anyone agree to be part of such a group when it has such shitty rules?” Emma asked in surprise.

“Narven is a powerful and influential Dragon. Many women bless their good fortune to become part of his group, while others don’t have a choice,” Elemence replied.

“Don’t have a choice?” Emma asked while Lorelie frowned as she suspected she already knew the answer.

“Slaves, or more precisely, sex slaves,” Elemence replied with disgust.

“I figured,” Lorelie said with a sigh.

“That’s actually a thing?” Emma asked in shock.

“It’s more common than many would like to admit and before you ask, it’s not just women, as there are plenty of male sex slaves out there,” Elemence answered.

“Drotas has several male sex slaves,” Lorelie said with a sigh.

“As in the owner of Drotas Entertainment, the entertainment company you used to be signed to?” Emma asked.

“I see you’ve done your homework,” Lorelie said with a smile.

“Well, they are a rival entertainment company, so it’s part of my job, also you mentioned them previously on stream,” Emma replied before asking, “So how does the enslavement work? Do they wear collars or something?”

“That used to be the way in the past,” Elemence replied as she began to explain. “Nowadays, they have what is called a slave implant placed in the back of their neck. Depending on the level of servitude we’re talking about, the implant can range from giving mild electric shocks as punishment to outright killing the slave.

Although some slaves do still wear collars since some of those who own them still like that tradition.”

“Why would they like that tradition?” Emma asked while frowning.

“Generally, they do it to remind the slave of their place since the implant is not visible and also to embarrass them when they're out in public. Others see it as a status symbol since in the old days only the rich and powerful could own slaves, unlike now, where anyone who can afford one can own one,” Elemence answered.

“And Narven has sex slaves?” Lorelie asked.

“Unfortunately for them,” Elemance said with a sigh before adding, “Honestly, if Revi weren’t who she is, I think Narven would have made her his sex slave by now. It’s only thanks to the fact that the elders of the dragon race respect her and that her enslavement could start a war that he hasn’t dared do it.”