

S.P.E.C.T.O.R 637

Chapter 637: Elemenace's suggestion

"He's not completely stupid then," Emma remarked.

"You don't get to where he is by being stupid," Elemenace replied before smirking as she added, "Though like all men, he tends to sometimes think with his dick rather than his brain."

"Why are all men like that?" Emma asked with a laugh.

"I have no idea, it's like they have an extra brain in their dicks that sometimes overrules the normal brain," Elemenace replied before joining Emma in her laughter.

"Well, don't you two seem to get along well?" Lorelie asked with a smile.

"You think so?" Elemenace replied while looking at Emma before adding, "I guess we do, not that there is anything wrong with that."

"Of course not, it just means the harem will have an even better dynamic after you both join," Lorelie said with a wink.

"Both," Emma began before Elemenace added, "Join."

"What are you against the idea?" Lorelie asked in a teasing tone before adding, "I already know that you want to join, Emma, just from how you look at Adam and you, Elemenace already said that you wouldn't be opposed to it."

"Is it really that easy to join?" Emma asked in disbelief.

"It is for you, I mean, you're already travelling with us after we dragged you out into space, it only makes sense to reward you for your commitment by making you addicted to Adam's cock," Lorelie teased.

“Addicted?” Emma repeated as her mind started to wander.

“Has your mouth always been this filthy? I swear, you seemed like the perfect lady when I saw you in the holovids,” Elemence remarked.

“Every celebrity has two personalities, one they show in public and one they show in private,” Lorelie replied before adding, “Any celebrity that claims otherwise is lying.”

“Makes sense, but I’m not sure I want to agree to join before Revi, so let’s hold off on that for now,” Elemence replied.

“Why not? Surely she wants her best friend to be happy?” Lorelie asked.

“I’m sure she does and I expect she would agree to let me join if asked, just not before her,” Elemence replied before adding with a smirk, “She’s already pissed at Rowena for becoming Adam’s girlfriend before her.”

“Really?” Lorelie asked with interest.

“She told me about it previously,” Elemence began to explain. “She was ok with you and Stacey beating her because you were both already dating Adam before he travelled back in time to the Siege of Fenix Nest. However, Rowena wasn’t and she apparently raged for a good while in her room after learning that she had beat her to it since she had been waiting for Adam for two thousand years.”

“Yeah, I can kind of understand where she’s coming from,” Emma remarked before adding, “If I had promised to reunite with the love of my life after many years, only to find that he had gotten with someone else, I too would be pissed.”

“Yeah, so I don’t think letting anyone else become Adam’s lover before her is a good idea, especially now that the two of them have reunited,” Elemence stated before shivering slightly as she added, “Even I have no idea what she might do if that were to happen.”

“Could she do something dangerous?” Emma asked in concern.

“We Phoenixes are creatures connected with the element of fire and fire is the most combustible of elements. This means we can easily lose control of our flames, causing them to run wild if we are not careful,” Elemence explained.

“You mean she could end up burning something down or blowing something up?” Lorelie asked in surprise.

“It’s possible, though highly unlikely. Because of her age, Revi is one of the most powerful of our race and with age comes experience,” Elemence replied.

“Aren't you two the same age? I mean, you attended school together, right?” Emma asked.

“I said she was one of, not the most powerful,” Elemence replied while winking.

“I think I might also wait a little while before I think more about this,” Emma said thoughtfully.

“Good idea,” Elemence said with a chuckle.

After hearing her comment, Lorelie leaned in close to Emma before saying in a flirtatious tone, “If that’s what you want, but feel free to make a move on me anytime, Emma.”

“Pardon?” Emma asked in surprise.

“Didn’t you just say that only members can play with each other?” Elemence asked.

“I did, but you have both already agreed to join, right?” Lorelie asked with a smirk and as the pair nodded in confirmation, she added, “Then I see no problem in it, I mean, I am going to be lonely tonight without Stacey here.”

“How will you be lonely? Adam is here?” Elemence asked in confusion.

“He’s still being punished and sleeping on the sofa,” Lorelie replied while shrugging.

“What did he do to deserve that?” Elemence asked in curiosity.

“Come join us tonight and I will tell you,” Lorelie replied with a wink.

“Are you sure this is Adam’s harem and not yours?” Emma asked with a sigh, causing Lorelie to giggle.

“Let's discuss this later, as there is something more serious I believe we need to discuss if you plan to make the group relationship bigger,” Elemence said in a serious tone.

“And that would be?” Lorelie asked.

“Creating a hierarchy for the women in the harem,” Elemence replied.

Lorelie gave a confused look before saying, “I told you, Adam likes to treat us all equal.”

“And it’s fine for him to do that, but answer me this. Are women joining the group relationship to be with Adam or for their own personal gains?” Elemence asked.

“I would hope it's the former; it is his harem after all,” Lorelie replied.

“I’m still not sure about that,” Emma remarked.

“Then what about Rowena? She joined the harem for Adam and one of the clauses for joining is that you want to be with him,” Lorelie retorted.

“But can you guarantee that someone won't come along and be fake about wanting to be with Adam when in reality they want to get close to one of the women, or use the power the group has acquired for their own personal goals?” Elemece asked.

“Only if Oracle Andromeda joined,” Lorelie replied in a sarcastic tone.

“Yeah, good luck with that,” Elemece replied with a chuckle before continuing, “While it's fine for Adam to treat us all equally and even for us to treat each other equally, I believe that a hierarchy needs to be established in order to protect the group from itself.”

Lorelie thought for a few minutes as she watched Adam discussing something with Eri in the distance before she nodded and said, “Ok, we will bring this up with Rowena and Stacey after they return, as it's not something I can decide myself. But what you say makes sense, although I'm guessing you're wanting Revi to be the leader of the hierarchy if we go down that route?”

“No,” Elemece replied before explaining, “While her age and position do give her the right to be considered for that position, the fact that she won't be by Adam's side the entire time doesn't make her a good choice.”

“You mean because she won't be able to travel with us?” Lorelie asked in understanding.

“Exactly. While she is travelling with you all to Aqua Primus for a vacation, she plans to leave things in the hands of the councillors.

This is fine in the short term, but she can't stay away for too long and will have to return here to run the empire.”

“What are you going to be doing while she's away on Aqua Primus? Are you going to be assisting the councillors or do you also get time off?” Emma asked curiously.

“As her assistant, I thankfully get time off,” Elemece replied.

“Oh, what do you plan to do for your vacation?” Lorelie asked.

"I'm jealous of Revi being able to go and relax on the beach, so I plan to vacation on Ligeia," Elemence answered.

"Ligeia?" Emma asked curiously.

"It's the home planet of the Sirinian race in the Leucosia Galaxy," Elemence explained.

"Why go there and not to Aqua Primus?" Emma asked before adding, "I'm guessing they're both water worlds, right?"

"You're right, the reason is that Ligeia is in sector six, while Aqua Primus is in sector fifteen, making it far closer," Elemence replied before adding in a jealous tone, "Also, unlike some people, I don't have a ship that can jump me anywhere in the universe instantly."

"So why not come with us to Aqua Primus?" Emma suggested.

"Huh!" Elemence replied in surprise.

"That sounds like a good idea, you should come join us," a voice suddenly cut in, causing the three women to turn and see Revi walking towards them.

"You're back, how did it go?" Elemence asked.

"As expected," Revi replied before explaining what happened during her universal senate summons.

"You lost your temper and ended up breaking the holographic projector?" Elemence asked with a sigh.