

Sanctuary: A Hidden Pack (New Edition)

Chapter 5 Files

Keir "Keir, we will be back in five days. Make sure the borders stay protected, and I want a report every evening and every morning, is that understood?" Our Alpha says, and I tell him who will be reporting to him as I will be looking after my Daughter, that she is my first priority. "I have given the Warriors strict instructions, and they know what to do if something happens; no one will get into the territory without them knowing, Alpha." I answer him, and even though he wasn't pleased when I told him I would be staying with Lakota, he doesn't say anything to me. Jace has his arm wrapped around Jane's shoulder as he leads her towards one of the cars, and she looks at me with a smirk on her face as if to say, "Look what I did." I truly hope they will never have offspring and that this Pack will slowly die down as more and more Pack-members leave. I watch the cars pull away from the Pack-house, and I keep watching them until they are out of sight before I head up to the Gamma floor. I ask one of the Omegas if she can bring up breakfast for three, because I know that neither Lakota nor Lance had any breakfast yet, and neither did I. Through the mind-link, she tells me she will be bringing our meals up every time and that she will clear them out as well, until the day the Alpha returns from his trip. "That way he will think your head start isn't that big, if he decides to come after you." She says. I walk onto our floor to find our door ajar, and I hear Lakota and Lance talking in the living room. "Breakfast will be here shortly; I'll be right back." I say as I walk towards my room to take a shower and change into some clean clothes. By the time I walk into the living room, breakfast has arrived, and I sit down in an armchair with a plate. "Lance, tomorrow night Lakota and I will be leaving the territory. We already know where we want to go, and we have the means to do what we want to do. Lakota and I want to vanish into thin air and keep as far from other Wolves and Lycans as we can, just living our lives out in peace. Lakota figured out on her own what happened to you, and she wants you to accompany us, if you want to." I say to him before I dig into the food, and I let him think about what I just told him, to think about whether he wants to join us or not. None of us say a word as we enjoy our breakfast, but I can tell that Lance is talking with his Wolf in the meantime, and I am curious as to what both of them think about what I just told them. I see him smile from time to time, and I think I already know his answer, but I will wait for him to tell me himself. "Gamma, Bolt and I would like to come with you and Lakota. There is nothing left here for us, and we don't want to be faced with Jane on a daily basis." Lance says after we have all finished our breakfast. "Then I suggest you pack a backpack with the things you want to take with you. And leave the title at the door, will you?" I reply. I see Lakota slumping down on the couch before I hear a knock on the door, and from the way she is acting, I think that Doc is on the other side; through the mind-link I explain to Lance what she is doing. I open the door for Doc and invite him in to check on Lakota, but I know he will find the same weak, Wolfless female as he did yesterday. "Gamma, it will take her a few more days to regain her strength, but I am positive she will recover completely from the rejection. Too bad some idiotic Lycan didn't appreciate your Daughter." He says, and I see Lance looking at him with a confused look on his face. "Sorry, Lance. I thought the Alpha explained to you that Lakota got rejected by a Lycan she ran into when she left the territory the other day, and with her being Wolfless, it will take a lot longer for her to recover. I am just glad Jace found her when he did and brought her back to the Gamma floor. I am not sure what would have happened to her if Jace hadn't, but thank the Goddess we don't have to think about that." Doc says as he walks towards the door, and I can see that Bolt is near the surface, ready to take control. "Bolt, he is under Alpha order. He knows the truth, but he can't tell anyone." I tell him through the mind-link. It takes Lance a few moments to get full control back, but once he has it back, he asks why the Alpha would do that. "Because he doesn't want anyone to question Jace's heir; he doesn't want anyone to find out he did to his fated Mate what Jace wants to do to me, and that is to force me to bear the next heir to this Pack. While he and Jane are acting as the loving parents of my Pup, while they act as if they belong together." Lakota says. I ask her how she knows this. She tells us what she overheard exactly, and it is a good thing Jace and the Alpha are not here right now; Lance and I would have ripped them apart. I leave Lance with Lakota to get our files from the Pack's Archive, and the same Omega from earlier tells me she will warn me if anyone is coming. It doesn't take me long to find Lance's file, but for some reason, I can't find my file or that of Lakota, and I wonder where he could have hid those.
