

Seller 107

Chapter 107 Kissing The Android

"Providing pleasure to relieve your boredom, Big Brother," Alina slowly started to disrobe herself, revealing her perky boobs and curvy body.

It wasn't the first time he had seen it but before incidents were just accidents when Alina didn't mind changing before him. But, all of them are just for a few seconds where he excused himself quickly but now, it was entirely different.

In an instant, Mark felt his throat dry and the temperature in his body rose considerably. A certain part became quite active. Before he gets to speak further, Alina pushed the board aside and jumped onto it while tightly hugging him. He felt as if all the strength left his body.

"Which idiot told you that I need it? Get..." Before he speaks further, Alina's lips locked his lip and her tongue invaded his mouth.

Feeling bliss over his body, Mark lost the will to resist and just continued to lie on the floor.

Both of them continued to kiss each other for a whole minute before a certain scream brought his senses back to reality, once again, "You... you... Big Brother, younger sister, what's going on..."

As Mark and Alina looked towards the source, Allen was pointing his finger at him. He looked like he was extremely embarrassed by the situation. For a second, Mark felt as if their ten-year-old kid interrupted while he was having sex with his wife.

"Alina, this is my order, step away and dress up." Mark managed to shout.

"Eh? Is that so?" Alina looked confused for a moment before she left her master and wore the clothes once again.

Mark, whose first kiss in this life was stolen by a robot of all the people, felt embarrassed that he went with the flow for a moment when she kissed him and scolded her, "Where did you get this crazy idea?"

"And Allen, you go downstairs, right now." He sent Allen right away due to feeling extremely embarrassed.

As if nothing happened, Alina calmly reached out to the shelves and showed him the novel she was reading in the past week. "Erotic Adventures of Lai Ben Shan, Vol. 2?"

"This is a fucking erotic novel. Where did you buy this?" He asked the Android in a stern tone.

"At Huqiu city book store when we toured around," Alina answered in a straight tone, not displaying any awkwardness.

"How many novels did you buy like these?" Mark further asked her.

"7 volumes," She answered.

"Destroy all the books that you bought." He immediately gave an order, believing that they are corrupting her. More than corrupted, he was worried that one day, this super beautiful Android would sexually assault him in the name of keeping him happy.

"Not possible, except for volume 2, all of them are locked in system's inventory." She replied as she conjured the dagger and stabbed the book in her hands without hesitation.

Mark stared at her for a while before letting out another sigh, "okay fine. But, from now onwards, you are forbidden to read erotic novels or any novel that's not suitable below 18-year-olds." Remembering her sudden act, he added, "You are also prohibited to do such things with me or any other person of that matter."

"Affirmed, Big Brother," Alina nodded with a smile and gave a salute.

Followed by that, she then spoke to herself, "top solution is discarded. Searching for another solution in the database, 18+ is prohibited. Found viable solutions."

She looked at Mark and said, "A lovely meal is another way to relieve boredom. Another solution is to have a massage. And the final way is to read a book. What do you wish to do?"

Mark eliminated the massage, right away. He feared that she might undress once again. As for the book, he felt that it isn't a bad idea but then, remembering the earlier incident that occurred because of some damn author, he opts for the meal. Moreover, it's been hours since he ate breakfast.

As she was about to leave downstairs to discuss the menu first so that Allen can go out for grocery shopping, Mark stared at her back and touched his lips, "man, she was a damn good kisser. That was amazing..."

"Hmm?" Alina turned around and glanced at her master in confusion. Being connected with minds, she could sense his current feelings. She didn't understand why Mark scolded her when he liked the experience.

Shaking her head, she put aside the thoughts and left the room.

Meanwhile, Mark realized he was just thinking and slapped both of his cheeks at the same time, "get out of it, Mark. She's not even a human. You can't fall into this mess. Just think of yourself that you kissed some silicone doll and forget it. Yes, this doesn't count at all."

As he tried to convince himself, Allen left the store and went to the market. They have had lots of groceries before but everything is locked in the inventory for the past three days and in this world, there's no refrigerator. People who had enough money would buy an Ice Box, which starts from 100 gold coins and freezes the food, then, heats it later.

Mark didn't have it because he depended on the system. The inventory will keep all the ingredients fresh as it is.

So, in these past three days, he depended on Allen and Alina to get fresh groceries and made the food right away.

After having a hearty meal while not forgetting to praise Alina for her cooking skills, Mark decided to take a nap since he have nothing to do anyways.

A few hours later;

He opened his eyes and slowly woke up. The first thing he saw is the familiar floating holographic screen. A smile appeared on it, "Ah, I missed this."

Ding! The system is upgraded to level-2.

Ding! The attribute category is unlocked. Check the system store for details.

*Ding! Your inspection skill is upgraded to Sage's Eye.

*Ding! You unlocked an attachment, silencer. Check the gallery for details

*Ding! The system is upgraded to level-3.

*Ding! The skill category is unlocked. Check the system store for details.

*Ding! You unlocked a new function, Store Expansion

*Ding! You unlocked an attachment, Telescopic sight (scope). Check the gallery for details.

"Oh, I can now use attachments, huh, cool. And there's an upgrade to the Inspection. I wonder what these new eyes would do." He sat on the bed and spoke, "System, Open Skills."

Sage's eye: Allows the user to inspect any non-living thing or living thing and find the details that are of public knowledge.

"Okay, at the very least, it gets easier when encountering strangers." Mark closed the window and then opened the store. He went to the Skill category to see what kind of skills he can buy.

The skill category is divided into two sections, one is Elemental and the other is miscellaneous.

The Elemental section contains the skills that depend on the attributes and the miscellaneous section is full of all kinds of skills from super great to bizarre. Like for example, there's an active skill that increases his drinking capacity, and there's another passive skill that makes him ambidextrous.

Depending on their effectiveness and rarity, the miscellaneous skills were further divided into five divisions, namely, Beginner, Intermediate, Advanced, Peak, and Unique.

Beginner skills are priced at only 100 credits, Intermediate at 1000, Advanced at 10000, Peak at 100k, and each unique skill cost 1 million credits.

The same goes for the elemental section, although they have restrictions unlike the miscellaneous. After all, Mark cannot conjure a fireball when he possesses lightning and Ice Attributes.

As Mark didn't have many credits in the account, he didn't explore it and closed the section and went to the attributes category. It was just like the system told him back then. The seven Basic attributes cost 50k credits, the variant attributes cost 75k, and the advanced attributes like Ice, poison, sound, or acid costs 100k credits.

"Okay, let's see what this store expansion function is." He close the window and spoke, "System, Open Store Expansion tab."

In an instant, the holographic screen with an image of his store appeared before him.

It wasn't just an image. There were slides too. He swiped the image. The new image displayed the interior of the store, then, after swiping it again, the storage room was shown, then his residence where the kitchen was shown, then, it's the bedroom, and the living room.

He scrolls down to see the dimensions of each room.

Below them, there is EXPAND option.

And at the last, there's BLUEPRINT option.