

Seller 126

Chapter 126 Dungeon Of Taslan (Final)

Being high-level warriors, their reaction was instant. The little princess controlled the inanimate bird to get away from there. The old man also moved away, thinking that it was aimed at the beast. Meanwhile, the overlord pushed its legs against the ground and jump high.

Surprisingly, they saw the heat warhead projectile change its directions like some kind of fireball spell that locked onto Pan Enlai.

It was also too fast that didn't let him try dodging away. He was left with no other choice and poured ether energy to power up his body just before it reached him and detonated, creating a powerful explosion enough to blast away the free-falling Taslan.

The Elder crashed onto the ground with heavy injuries. Taslan's legs were slightly injured but it healed itself pretty much quickly and stood up its feet.

Meanwhile, the Elder grunted in pain and look in the direction of the battle tank while spitting a mouthful of blood. "That metal thing with an elephant's trunk-like weapon. I heard of it before. Is that him?" He furrowed his brows.

The little princess of the Shang Dynasty, meanwhile, had a look of anger. "Who is this that dared to interrupt my battle and hurt my prey? And what in the hell is that thing? A puppet?"

But, before all of them even think of the next action, Mark made the next moment as he didn't have time to introduce himself, yet.

He took the communication device and hurriedly gave away the order, "Do it, now."

Alina immediately pushed onto a dark-green-colored, fist-sized button. From the smoothbore cannon, grenade launcher, and machine gun, energy was gathering at a rapid pace.

*Ding! Checking your ether energy points. You had 51642 ether points. You passed the requirement.

*Ding! Your current intelligence stat is at 5.0

*Ding! The maximum attack strength of Battle Tank-V is restricted to 9.0. The attack strength has been readjusted.

*Ding! The target is locked.

A concentrated beam of energy was released by the three weapons and hit at one spot, forming a huge energy sphere.

Upon sensing the power in the sphere, the two powerful Spirit Warriors as well as the overlord of the dungeon trembled involuntarily in fear.

"Does he want to destroy every one of us or something? I need to leave the place. The egg doesn't matter." Shang Jiao's eyes shifted to the portal nearby the man-faced spider. She made the judgment in an instant and flew towards it.

The old man of Mt. Hua Sect, on the other hand, made a different decision.

He flew forward to the tank with high speed, believing that he was the target. After all, he was ambushed earlier. So, he wanted to destroy it before that energy sphere completes.

8, 7, 6 5, 4...

Within five seconds, the heavily injured elder covered the large distance. He clenched his fist and punched the battle tank with all of his strength.

A large dent appeared on the battle tank while it was pushed back for nearly 10 meters, reducing its durability by more than 20%.

Mark was shocked when he received that notification but he just shook his head with a smile, "it doesn't matter. Everything is over in 3, 2, 1, Boom..."

The energy sphere, which is about the one-fifth size of the man-faced Spider, was fired.

As soon as he realized that the target wasn't him, the elder of Mt. Hua Sect sighed in relief but then, his facial expression changed when he realized that the pillar and the egg were in the way of that attack.

To his surprise and Mark's surprise, the huge sphere passed through the pillar and moved towards its sole target.

As a beast king, its senses were powerful. It instantly estimated the power lies in the sphere and knew that it cannot handle it.

Pushing its legs against the ground, it took a great leap towards the sideways when the attack is only a few meters from it but the energy sphere that locked onto it made a sharp turn and flew towards it.

Before it even landed on the ground, the beast was hit by the energy sphere. Once it was it, the energy sphere sunk into its body, instead of causing an explosion like the heat projectile.

Once all of the energy was sucked into its body, the man-faced spider blew up and its blood scattered all over the surroundings.

"I guess the modern weapons are better than summoning beasts, after all." Mark nodded to himself as he started to receive a series of notifications.

Ding! You completed the Emergency Quest, Clear the Dungeon. **

Ding! You unlocked Fragmentation Grenade.

Ding! You unlocked Concussion Grenade.

Ding! You unlocked Anti-Tank Grenade.

Ding! You unlocked Stun Grenade.

*Ding! You unlocked Sting Grenade.

*Ding! You unlocked Smoke Grenade.

*Ding! You unlocked the Tear gas Grenade.

*Ding! You unlocked the Molotov cocktail.

Mark was greatly satisfied with the reward sent by the system while the adventurers, who were busy fighting in other regions, went into a frenzy as they found all the monsters disappeared in front of their eyes.

However, soon enough, his expression turned serious as the barrier around the pillar disappeared.

Even after witnessing everything, Elder Pan of Mt. Hua Sect couldn't stop himself from getting greedy and flew towards the pillar at his fastest speed. Within just a few seconds, he already arrived at the bottom of the pillar and is now flying higher to reach for the egg. All of a sudden, something pierced his back. He screamed in pain. "Argh..."

Mark let out a smile as he watched it on the screen, "hmpf, do you think I will sit here in silence and let you take it?"

As soon as he unleashed the skill of the Battle Tank, he ordered Alina to kill the old man and return with the egg if possible.

Using her teleportation ability, Alina managed to reach the bottom of the pillar within a fraction of a second even before him, and using her skill, she turned invisible, waiting for him.

Eventually, he fell for an ambush.

Both of them started fighting together. Mark watched it for a while before he received a notification from the system and started to feel dizzy and weak, all of a sudden.

Ding! The effect of the advancement pill is over. For the next 10 hours, your stats will be affected by 90% debuff.

He sat on the floor and closed his eyes to take some rest, eventually falling asleep.