

The Heiress' Return: Six Brothers at Her Beck and Call (Wynter Quinnell) Chapter 481

Chapter 481 Don't You Know Who She Is

Maurice spoke up. "Hey fellow, just a word of advice. Hanging around with spirits for too long isn't good for your own spiritual practice.

I'm into that stuff," Wynter said as she dragged James out of the dark hallway with one hand.

She would fulfill the wishes of Carol and Dora and let the law deal with him. And a little editing of the recording was all that was necessary. She was going to make sure everyone knew the whole story!

Maurice hesitated for a moment before rushing over. "Seriously? With skills like yours, not getting into spiritual practice is such a waste! I've never seen a spirit voluntarily submit like that before.

"And is that thing clinging to you a resentful infant? Why isn't it hurting you?" He then bent over and cooed, "Hey buddy!"

Wynter didn't bother to explain. She just struck him at a vital point. Despite the shock to his system, Maurice was even more amazed now! Wynter knew how to strike a vital point!

as some

In the hallway, Dalton knew what Wynter had done, but didn't intervene. He was cleaning up scenes without cameras needed a logical explanation.

With another loud crash, the Special Operation Team members stormed in. Their first move was to rush upstairs to nab the criminal and free the hostages.

All the guests were feeling really bad. Among those who were rescued from the building, only Tobias was rational and alert. The others were all shaken up, including the criminal!

“There was something spooky going on. This wasn’t your usual show!” The criminal grabbed the director Dexter. “This wasn’t acting! She wasn’t acting!”

Due to the footage that had been recorded, the celebrities ended up trending everywhere. They were all a mess, especially Zane, who had lost his heartthrob image.

The media folks were lurking around the set, not giving up their chance at a scoop. They were parked outside the hospital, not to interview Zane, but to catch Lucy! As Lucy’s deeds were out in the open now, her downfall was certain!

Despite some agents rushing in, they couldn’t shield their artists from being caught on camera.

Jacqueline was the only one who didn’t need to salvage Tobias’ image. The first thing she did when she went in was to ask Tobias, “Were you hurt?”

Tobias shook his head, looking around. “Hey Jacqueline, where’s my partner?”

“She hasn’t come out yet. The cameras inside are all busted, so we can’t see what’s going on,” Jacqueline replied, seeing his concern. “But don’t worry. The Special Operations Team members are in there. She’ll be fine.”

Tobias frowned as he said, “No way. I gotta go back and find her.”

“Who are you looking for?” Dalton asked as he and Wynter stepped out together. His bracelet had somehow ended up on her wrist.

Chapter 491 Dont You Know Who She is

The first floor of the hospital was dimly lit, and some hallways were completely dark.

Tobias didn’t even realize Dalton was there.

He hesitated for a moment before saying, “Come on, It’s just a TV show. Do you really have to get involved?”

Upon hearing this, Dalton raised his eyebrow. He caught on quickly. Glancing at Wynter, he asked, "He doesn't know who you are yet?"

"Not yet," Wynter replied, leaning on Dalton. Her lips were pale, but she seemed relaxed.

She whispered, "I didn't have a chance to tell him. I was afraid if I did, he'd rush to protect me, making it hard for me to act.

Upon hearing her explanation, Dalton couldn't help but feel bad for her even though he knew she was fine.

"Next time if you want to do something, just let me know. You've been taking care of me for so long. It's not an issue."

Tobias watched the two of them acting all cozy. His anger flared up in an instant!

Chapter 482 Love Will Always Exist Among Humans

Just as Tobias was about to speak up, a bunch of media folks crowded around him.

"Hey, Kina, other guests were saying some unexplainable stuff on the show. What do you think?"

"There were a few times during the recording when the screen glitched out. What happened then?"

But when they noticed Wynter, the media folks acted like they had found someone more interesting to interview and hurried past him.

"Miss Number 5, as the MVP of this round, you totally rocked it!"

"We all are curious, how did you manage to stay so cool under that kind of pressure?"

"Your problem-solving skills were right on point and super fast!"

"Were there really twins in the game? That NPC actor Lana seemed really off."

"The other guests were all spooked. We heard that even Mr. Stavios from Mt. Dragon showed up. Is that true?”

The cameras weren't just focused on Wynter. Several of them were also pointed at Dalton.

He looked up and gave the reporters across from him a quick glance, saying, “Hey, you guys... instead of all the gossip, shouldn't you all be concerned about the truth?”

Wynter touched her purple sugilite pendant at her waist. Her gaze was soft. “I can assure you that there are no made-up stories in this show. It's all facts.

“I'll keep an eye on the case progress. Later, my lawyer will ask the court to reopen the case and prosecute Bystander Number 1. Let the deceased rest in peace.

“Mr. Lyons intends to use the show as a platform to tell everyone that if your parents aren't treating you right, remember, it's not your fault. Some people just aren't meant to be parents.”

Wynter glanced over at the director team nearby. “And remember folks, trust in science. Don't believe in superstition.”

Huh? Did that mean there were no spirits? The media folks were puzzled and immediately raised their microphones to ask more questions.

But the Special Operations Team members immediately came over to disperse them.

Some scenes might have been leaked. But as long as they didn't catch Kaspar on camera, it would be easy to explain.

And with Wynter's final words, nobody cared anymore if it was supernatural or not. Some were convinced that supernatural stuff had happened. Others suggested that the production team hired talented actors.

“If they're actors, the production team is really unlucky to get two criminals in one season.”

“It's too bad we couldn't see some scenes. What's the story's ending? Did the twins get their revenge?”

Chapter 402 Love Will Always!

“I just heard Miss Number 5 say she's going to seek a prosecution! Can't wait for that!”

When folks started watching the TV show, they were scared at first. But now that the show was over, everyone was more interested in what happened to the bad guys.

Some people felt sorry for the twins and left messages on their own.

“Kids, heaven’s all joy. You’ll love it.”

“I’m pregnant. If you two don’t mind, and you wanna reincarnate again, come find me, okay?”

“Yeah, me too! I love daughters. Momma will love you.”

“For the first time, I hope they’ll have another life.”

Long ago, in Shumland, all the power of the gods came from belief and prayers. The more people believed, the stronger their power was.

Every loving word and blessing turned into fortune, falling into the purple sugilite pendant.

Wynter felt a warmth around her waist as Leo bounced on her shoulder. “Master, you’ve got followers!”

Followers? Wynter glanced down. Her fingertips were stained with blood, sliding over the white pearls again.

Carol and Dora felt a warmth and spiritual power. They knew it was purifying them, so they emitted a faint glow. Regular folks couldn’t see it, but Kaspar could

Chapter 483 Yvette Faced Embarrassment

Kaspar stood up after taking a moment to ponder.

Maurice was stunned. “Master, that’s “Wow, look at that,” chuckled Kaspar, his silver hair catching the light as he glanced down the stairs. “An evil spirit turning into a holy one, stepping up to save lives when it counts. Not bad. My apprentice is definitely talented at spiritual practice.”

Maurice was puzzled. He asked, “Apprentice? But Master, that young lady said she’s not into spiritual practice!”

Kaspar didn’t care about that. If he wanted a disciple, he would do whatever it took to get one!

Downstairs, the Special Operations Team members had kicked out some of the media to maintain order. Meanwhile, a few celebrities snapped out of their reverie as a chilly breeze hit them.

Lucy snapped out of her daze and immediately grabbed her assistant, Nana Ewing's, arm. "Get PR to deny the abortion. Spend whatever it takes."

Nana winced from her tight grip. "Lucy, the footage's already out there. Everyone's seen it. We can't spin it.

"No way we can't spin it!" Lucy grabbed something nearby and threw it at Nana. "We've handled bigger messes before. Are you dumb? Figure it out!"

Originally, no one had noticed that she was awake. But with her outburst, some entertainment reporter came over. Now, the whole nation knew what kind of person Lucy really was.

However, it was Oliver who took the biggest hit. Zane would be saved by the Lawton family. They had the funds to protect him, so there would be less negative press for sure.

Out of all the celebrities on the show, only Tobias came out with good press. Even the haters who used to doubt Tobias were changing their tune now.

Zane used to diss Kina. But now, it's obvious who's the real deal."

"Wow, Kina really impressed me this time!!

"I'm totally into Miss Number 5. She's awesome! I wonder who she is?"

These comments were exactly what everyone wanted to hear. Many folks were eager to find out more.

about Wynter.

On her phone, Yvette, who was still waiting for updates, clenched her fists. Her eyes were glued to the interview on the screen.

"You just love ruining my good luck, huh? This is so frustrating!"

Yvette had hoped to use this chance to get in with the Quinnell family. But why was Wynter always around? And where did she learn her fighting skills? Ewan and Wanda never told her about that.

Could it be Harriet pulled some strings to get her trained? Thinking of the possibility, Yvette grew furious. Harriet was unbelievable! How could she choose to help an outsider instead of her own granddaughter?

Tobias was supposed to be killed today by a falling piece of equipment as he tried to rescue someone. Following that incident, Ultimate Survival would've been axed because of its bad luck.

There was also some twin case going on. But who cared about that? The real focus was on these celebrities! They were all scared out of their wits.

Today's show was super messed up. Some shots were incomplete, he never revealed.

Yvette had no clue about any of this. But Tobias being gone was a fact! Yet, here he and well! This meant everything she knew from her past life was off!

Yvette reminded herself to stay cool. She needed to figure out if Tobias dodged the danger himself or took a hint from Yvonne to avoid the falling equipment.

Chapter 484 The Oppressive Aura From Wynter

"Yeah! Just because my plan didn't work out doesn't mean it's a bust! I gotta reach out to Yvonne to double-check!"

With that thought, Yvette immediately called Yvonne. However, she discovered that Yvonne's phone was turned off.

Outside the hospital, Yvonne still hadn't settled down. Upon seeing Lucy almost losing it, she regretted ever joining this TV show.

Lucy told others there were ghosts there and that Wynter could communicate with spirits. But no one believed her.

The production team insisted, "It's all scripted." If it wasn't scripted, the show would be over.

When Oliver and Zane saw Wynter, they couldn't help but shiver in fear.

Yvonne felt the same way. Her friend, Joan Dobbs, sat beside her. When the Special Operations Team members approached them to ask some questions, her face turned pale.

They had thought it was all over, but they still had to be questioned.

"Wynter was with them." Joan's gaze landed on Oliver. Her voice was soft, but everyone present could hear it.

"Don't go blurting out stuff." That was a warning. It made Yvonne flinch.

Oliver, who used to be cocky, now sounded obedient. "We won't blabber. Don't worry."

In the hospital, everyone saw how Wynter kicked the serial killer away in one swift move.

But that wasn't even the main thing. The real deal was that she could communicate with spirits! And those spirits even had her back! Those in the entertainment world didn't dare to mess with her.

Folks in the circle were into fortune-telling and changing their fates. Especially back then, those Southern celebrities would often seek out masters to make it big.

Oliver had been in the circle for a long time and had seen it all. So, his attitude toward Wynter was nothing but respectful.

There used to be a saying that went, "Never make enemies with anyone, especially Arcane masters". If they really got riled up, it would only bring trouble!

The Special Operations Team members didn't expect to get much information from them. After all, this kind of case was really tricky to handle. They even needed help from the Special Unit.

Wynter, who was their main focus but not easily questioned, gave them a hint. "Maybe you guys should check out who picked these fandom people."

Someone hurriedly wrote down what she was saying. Their main focus now was on Wynter's abilities.

Chapter 454 The Oppressive Authority From V

"Normally, in your situation, we'd need you to register."

Wynter nodded, showing she was cool with it. After all, they could say they believed in science and not superstition to the public. But for certain people, the authorities had to keep an eye on things.

But just as she was about to fill out the forms, Kaspar barged in and said, "Registration? That's not necessary! She's my apprentice!"

"Your apprentice?" The Special Operations Team members were shocked. "You took on an apprentice?"

Wynter looked up with a light smile as she said, "Master, you're a real joker."

Kaspar grinned at her, "Wynter, Mt. Dragon has nothing else but authenticity. In the future, if you want to hunt spirits, go for it. If you wanna talk about the Arcane Way, go ahead. There's no need to hide like you did today."

"Master..." Wynter wanted to refuse.

Kaspar sat down and got into character quickly, sounding pretty sad. "I'm 101 this year. I'm the only one on Mt. Dragon without an apprentice. In a few years, when I'm gone, there won't even be anyone to honor me."

The Special Operations Team members felt that it wasn't their place to interfere.

The head of Mt. Dragon was highly sought after for teachings. Kaspar had made it clear. He wouldn't take on any apprentices, no matter if they offered him gifts or not.

Chapter 485 She Is Your Sister Wynter

Wynter grinned. "Sorry, Master. But I already have a mentor."

"You've got a mentor?" Kaspar dropped the act. He frowned as he said, "You can't even break a spell properly, let alone understand the Arcane Way! How do you have a mentor?"

Wynter shrugged, tapping her lucky coin. "I wasn't into it. I just picked up some theories while Atwater lectured."

Kaspar looked deflated. "You really have a mentor?" After saying that, he suddenly perked up and said, "Where's he at? I want to talk with him about the Arcane Way!"

"I've looked for him too," Wynter said with a faint smile. "If we're meant to meet, it'll happen."

Kaspar couldn't take the hit. "Apprentice, give me a moment," he said.

For the first time in his life, as the head of Mt. Dragon, he felt like he had missed out on some real talent.

"I'll find you another day!"

He had to come up with a win-win solution! Who needed a mentor who didn't teach? He could do better.

As long as he managed the sect better, he could be a mentor to Wynter. That guy who hadn't shown up? He could be second in command!

Karpa's eyes sparkled. The decision was made. He was heading to the Arcane Way Sect right away to announce it!

While everyone was still giving their statements, Tobias had already said everything he needed to. After that, he went straight to meet Dalton. He needed an explanation for what had just happened.

"What you just did was not cool," Tobias said bluntly. His blue hair fell over his eyes, making him look more intimidating than ever.

Jacqueline knew he was really pissed off. So, she quickly grabbed his arm. "Hey, Kina, what are you doing? This is Mr. Yarwood!"

Despite being the company's top agent, it was Jacqueline's first time meeting their major shareholder. She was surprised to see how young Dalton was.

When she first met him, she thought she could really boost his popularity. After all, his charisma was just off the charts.

But soon after, she got a call from the company telling her she had to be ready to answer any questions

Dalton had.

Jacqueline was now worried about Tobias. He was always straightforward and had offended his boss.

After all, he wouldn't even join them for a drink at social events. Last time, a producer tried to take advantage of him, and he ended up knocking the guy out.

Chapter 485 She & You Sister Wynter

Tobias didn't bother explaining his strange behavior to Jacqueline.

But then Dalton suggested, "Hey Jacqueline, why don't you step outside first? It looks like Kina wants to talk to me in private."

Despite him wording it as a suggestion, Dalton had made it clear to her that Jacqueline had no choice but to leave.

With no one else around, Tobias didn't need to hide his identity anymore. He turned to Dalton and said, "You're still engaged to Wynter."

"Others might not dare to mess with the Yarwood family, and my dad might prioritize you in everything. But I'm not like them. If you ever hurt Wynter, I'll make you regret it. Even if I end up injured!"

As Tobias spoke, his gaze grew darker.

Dalton kept his tone casual. "I haven't done anything wrong."

But Tobias couldn't hold back his frustration and said, "Look, I might not be as sharp as you. But I can see what's going on here!"

"I thought by now you could figure out who she is," Dalton said, glancing at some of the footage that had been provided by the production team.

Tobias, who was always protective of Wynter, couldn't stay calm. "How would I know who she is? I just met her today. I admit she's impressive, but....."

"She's Wynter," Dalton said calmly, a hint of amusement in his eyes. "My fiancée, and your sister."

Chapter 486 Tobias is Feeling Regretful

Suddenly, Tobias froze in disbelief! His mouth was left hanging open, and he was unable to utter a single word. His mind kept repeating Dalton's words. "She's your sister, Wynter."

On the screen, they just happened to play the scene where he refused to allow the other person to call him. He had just rejected Wynter on the show publicly?

Tobias grabbed his hair in frustration, his annoyance evident. Luckily, he was handsome enough to get away with it. Otherwise, he would look foolish with that expression.

There was quite a contrast now. The big-shot celebrity was finally being exposed. Tobias felt a bit flustered. He paced back and forth in the interview room, filled with regret.

How did he even manage to blurt out those words “Don’t love me, it’s pointless!” back then? Why hadn’t Fabian given him a heads-up that Wynter was coming for the show?

Tobias wanted to meet her. But he was worried about his recent attitude and felt like a lost cause. He couldn’t feel happy.

Elliot was right. Wynter was just the same as when she was little. She was smart, charming, and even better than they imagined! Tobias could sense that Wynter had been protecting him throughout the show.

Initially, he just saw her as a girl with a strong sense of justice. But now, he realized Wynter may have come specifically to help him out, especially considering Wynter’s behavior on the show wasn’t typical of an ordinary person!

“Wynter showed up because she sensed I was in trouble, right?” Tobias exclaimed. His face lit up with surprise as he looked at Dalton. “She’s into fortune predictions!”

Dalton glanced at him and replied, “I’m not sure. You can ask her later. But about this... shouldn’t you handle them?”

With that, Dalton tapped open a profile page of Tobias’ fan blogger on his phone. She went by the name LoveKinaSoMuch” and had a lot of followers.

“Am I the only one who thinks she was too close to Kina on the show? Is Miss Number 5 not a newcomer? Just curious,” LoveKinaSoMuch wrote, sharing lots of pictures and giving her take on things.

“Kina warned her not to get too close. But Miss Number 5 kept shadowing him during tasks.”

This sparked some drama in the fan community.

After all, LoveKinaSoMuch had always been a big fan of Kina. She had even posted some amazing photos, making it seem like she had some real connection in the circle.

She always managed to predict Kina’s next moves, giving off the impression of true love.

The other fans, who hadn’t watched the full show but only the edited clips, started criticizing Wynter online. Some even threatened to expose her real identity!

Meanwhile, Yvette, who was watching the drama unfold, was pleased with the outcome. She couldn't reach Yvonne by phone. But she didn't want to see Wynter's popularity skyrocketing.

So, she decided to use her own online account, one she had worked hard to build up.

Spending money and buying influence, she aimed to stir up some buzz and infiltrate the fan community. That would give her some online clout.

After all, fans loved celebrity gossip. What was the point of someone doing a livestream about being sick?

They had already given the money back to Margaret. She didn't believe Wynter could communicate with spirits!

Act Fast:

Chapter 487 Toblas is Protecting Wynter

Yvette didn't believe Wynter could communicate with spirits. Wynter had only learned the medical skills from Margaret. Yvette thought she was just bluffing.

If Wynter really knew about fortune predictions, why didn't she show it back when she was in Southdale?

Yvette was not convinced as she had consulted Ewan about it.

Ewan had been doing well in Kingbourne lately, landing numerous construction projects with her assistance.

On the other end, Ewan said, "Wynter? Fortune predictions? She's a jinx! Can't even pass school, what does she know about it?"

"She's in Kingbourne too?" Ewan couldn't help but raise his voice, now fond of mimicking the way locals spoke. "And she dares to show up in front of you?"

Ewan and Yvette were different now compared to before. Especially Yvette, she was mingling with the upper class.

When Ewan was in Southdale, he didn't think there was much of a difference between t here and Kingbourne.

But when they actually came here, he realized that Southdale was nothing compared to Kingbourne. The wealthy and powerful here were the real deal!

"Grandma's probably tagging along too." Yvette decided to call Ewan herself, thinking s he could find out more about Margaret from him and take advantage of her.

But Ewan was not keen on reaching out to Margaret. "So what if Mom's here? She always thinks that Wynter's the best. She is old now, so why is she still coming to Kingbourne? Doesn't she tire of it?"

"Maybe she's here for Wynter's schooling." Yvette guessed.

Ewan sneered coldly. "Mom's been poor her whole life."

"Dad, no matter what, she's still Grandma," Yvette said, lowering her gaze. "I want to visit them with your one day."

Ewan frowned. "What's the point of visiting them? If Wynter can't get into a Kingbourne school, Mom's gonna expect me to take care of it

"Dad, try to see things differently," Yvette said, looking displeased. "Remember what I told you—people in Kingbourne care about their families."

Ewan figured he had a good chance to take Margaret along and get some sympathy. Upon seeing her difficulty moving, maybe it would make the other person feel compassionate.

“Alright. I will go along with your plan. You set it up.” With Ewan’s agreement, Yvette started getting things ready.

Chapter 467 Tobias is Protecting Wynter

As for what was happening online, the more people criticized Wynter, the happier Yvette felt. The fans had Yvette’s back. Yvette figured that if she couldn’t do anything, neither could Wynter!

But just as she was feeling good about everything, a notification suddenly popped up on her phone. It was marked with a star.

As soon as Yvette clicked on it, her eyes widened! It was Tobias! He actually reposted her blog post with his main account! Taking a look at the content, Yvette’s face turned pale. Tobias’ anger was clear in his words

“I’m really grateful for my partner’s help on the show. Without them, I might’ve been kicked out early. My partner is smart, kind, and fair. I hope everyone can see through the shady edits. I’ll find out who started these rumors!”

When Tobias posted this, it surprised not only his fans but even regular internet users..

After all, Tobias had a lot of scandals on him, but he never bothered with them. Now, he was actually standing up for his partner?

Chapter 488 The Families Still Looking Down on Wynter

Wasn’t Tobias worried about losing big fans or getting dissed? Clearly, he didn’t give a damn about that. Nobody was more important than Wynter. That had come straight from Tobias himself.

And just like that, the fans' attitudes changed. Someone quickly released the original footage.

"Kina's fans have to be cautious. Miss Number 5 is now the MVP."

"The whole story revolves around Miss Number 5. Without her, it wouldn't be the same. She doesn't need anyone else's fame!"

"Exactly! It's weird how this big fan of Kina suddenly starts dissing Miss Number 5 and sharing sketchy pics. Something's not right."

"Not only that, their comments are super biased. Miss Number 5 is blowing up, no doubt."

"Miss Number 5's interactions with that NPC are what's truly mesmerizing. When I watched it, it felt like she was healing them."

@LoveKinaSoMuch, what's up with these edits? What are you trying to say?"

Suddenly, the online drama shifted to Yvette herself. Even her loyal followers were puzzled by her recent actions. Those who had her back before were now giving her hell in the comments.

As Yvette scrolled, her heart raced. She knew that she couldn't control the comments.

Feeling wronged, she explained online, "I only saw those pics because someone else posted them I was misled.

"Sorry for the trouble. It's my bad. Post deleted, taking a break from updates."

After that, she logged off. Some people bought her explanation, but others didn't. Yvette's plan had backfired, and instead, Wynter gained a bunch of Kina's fans.

After all, with Kina backing up Wynter like that, Kina fans had to stick up for her too! Plus, in the original footage, she was seriously cool!

Yvette was fuming mad! She thought she would mess with Wynter online. Instead, she was the one who screwed up her fan account!

"Why? Why did Tobias defend her?"

Yvette never saw that coming. In her past life, Tobias never said a word online. Thinking about it made her clench her teeth even harder!!

too scared to do anything else. Well, at least she still had Margaret as a connection to

But she was to

While Yvette was busy with all that, Alexis, the head secretary at the Quinnells, noticed t he buzz her account was creating.

Chapter 188 The Families Still Looking Down on Wynter

He adjusted his glasses, and summoned the PR department, clearly ready to make the next move.

Yvette had better back off now. If she didn't, Alexis was going to make Tobias and Wynt er's relationship official, with Tobias's approval, just to make a statement. And that gorg eous one in the show? That was Wynter!

Fabian had the same thought. He put on his reading glasses and watched the playback again. "Wynter, couldn't stand to see injustice. Look at how many people she saved bac k in Havenlight County."

"Yeah. Just got a call from the Keller family. They wanted to thank Ms. Quinnell." Alexis grinned as he poured a cup of tea for Fabian. "The guy from the Keller family even said she saved his career."

Fabian was really proud of Wynter. Not because she had hung out with some powerful f olks, but because of what she did.

"With Wynter as a descendant of the Quinnells, I feel like I've done right by our ancestor s." Fabian stood up, leaning on his cane. "Once the invitations went out, how did the fa milies react?"

Chapter 489 Your Fiancé's Secret

"They all want to see Ms. Quinnell, but some comments are not very pleasant," Alexis re ported truthfully. ". Some people think that Ms. Quinnell is not qualified to attend their so cialite gatherings because she came from the countryside."

Fabian's gaze darkened. "Clyde called earlier. He said congratulations, but between the lines,

he implied that Wynter would embarrass herself at the banquet. Our little princess does n't care about status, but they're all talking about that.

Suddenly, Fabian remembered something. “Go tell Dalton about this.”

“Mr. Yarwood?” Alexis double-confirmed.

Fabian nodded. In a few years, Dalton would marry Wynter. Fabian needed to make sure that Dalton truly wanted to protect his granddaughter.

Though he was an old man who had lived half his life, sometimes he couldn’t see through Dalton.

At the same time, after everyone finished recording their statements, the celebrities were all picked up by their respective MPVs.

No one cared about Lucy. She looked like a beggar on the streets with her disheveled hair. She had to wear a mask even when getting into the car. Besides her assistant, no one paid her any attention

Her manager’s first words upon seeing her were, “You breached your contract. All your endorsements are terminated. Also, I’ll take you back today. After you return, you’ll follow the company’s arrangements.”

When her manager advised her not to use this method, Lucy complained about her manager’s incompetence.

Now that the scandal had been exposed, the wealthy lady, whose marriage Lucy had ruined, became aware of her existence.

Originally, the lady had kept quiet. But now that her family’s disgrace was all over the TV, what else did she have to fear? She slapped Lucy as soon as she arrived. The slap was swift.

“I should’ve slapped you when you came to my house flaunting your pregnancy and mocking me as an old hag. If you want that scumbag of mine, then have him!”

Lucy’s assistant knew how arrogant Lucy used to be.

When the lady had just given birth and was taking care of her baby. Lucy had sent over photos of her kissing the lady’s husband. She even said they were a pair made in heaven, unlike the lady, who was old, ugly, and fat.

As a result, the lady, as an elderly parturient, almost fell into depression. But fortunately , she recovered.

Lucy's assistant merely glanced at the lady when the latter slapped Lucy. seeing that, Lucy went berserk.

Chapter 489 Your Fiance Secret

Are you on her side or mine? Don't you know to stop her when she hits me?"

Before the assistant could speak, the media turned their attention to them again. Only then did Lucy become afraid and immediately get into the car.

She was already facing hefty penalties, so she couldn't afford to have any more negative Images exposed. What she feared most turned out to be these intangible things.

For people who lacked basic human decency, perhaps death wasn't a punishment. The true punishment laid in the perpetual fear they lived with, much like what Lucy was enduring now.

"Satisfied?" Wynter stood in a secluded corner, seemingly talking to herself.

She deliberately chose a shady spot that still had a hint of resentment from the hospital.

The little resentful infant, Leo, contentedly sucked on its pacifier while lying on her shoulder.

"She doesn't deserve to be my mom. It's a good thing she didn't give birth to me. Otherwise, I'd only suffer with her."

With the nourishment of the hospital's resentment, he became even wiser than before.

"Master." Leo blinked. "Can I stay by your side too? I can be your spirit companion."

Wynter raised an eyebrow. "You also know about spirit companions?"

"I've seen it before. That's how that guy hurt me." Leo accidentally revealed some information.

Just when Wynter wanted to ask him in more detail, he spoke up again. "Master, the girls have something to tell you. It's about your fiancé."

Chapter 490 Personal Burdens on Dalton

"Dalton?"

Wynter raised an eyebrow, somewhat surprised. She had long known that Dalton had countless personal burdens. Was there something else?

“What’s wrong with him?” Wynter indicated that Leo should continue.

Leo shook his head. “It’s better to have the girls tell you.

Upon hearing his words, Wynter lowered her gaze and touched her purple sugilite pendant.

Following that, a soft voice came through. “Carol, do you want to tell her or should I?”

“You tell her. You felt it stronger than I did,” came another clear voice.

The purple sugilite pendant glowed, and Dora spoke as if reminiscing. “I feel like I’ve seen your fiancé in the underworld, Master. There’s something familiar about him. I can’t pinpoint it, but it scares us.”

“Yes, it’s quite scary,” Leo chimed in. “When he walked in, I thought I was done for.”

Wynter chuckled. “Don’t exaggerate it.”

“I didn’t!” Leo shook his head, pacifier in his mouth.

The twins were also worried. “Master, Leo is right. There must be something wrong with your fiancé. But with our abilities, we can’t see through his soul.”

“Master, can’t you see through him?” Leo asked Wynter, as he suddenly remembered something. “Master Atwater said you can do anything.”

Wynter replied casually, “Atwater likes to tell tales.”

But there was one thing for sure—

Dalton was indeed unusual. Otherwise, Wolf wouldn’t be so concerned about him and be unable to deal with him.

Wynter had always thought it was because of his noble destiny. But now that everyone was saying he was frightening, there had to be something she didn’t know.

“Legend has it that there’s an underworld lord who’s very skilled at bewitching mediums. But it’s been almost a hundred years since he last appeared.”

The twins continued, “The person who promised to help us seek revenge borrowed the power of that lord. He left behind many things that could easily harm others.

“Master, could spirits be bothering your fiancé? Is that why we find him familiar?”

Wynter froze. Spirits?

“I’ll find the time to take a look.”

The twins finally felt relieved, and the purple sugilite pendant returned to its normal state . Wynter continued to ponder the words of the children.

Meanwhile, the subject of their conversation earlier suddenly appeared. He gestured for his bodyguards. to stay back and walked over himself.

He was wearing a trench coat and carrying a black umbrella. It had been drizzling for a while now. Wynter didn’t care. But obviously, the heir of the Yarwood family couldn’t get wet in the rain.

Dalton’s face was cold and pale, with sharp features. His almost perfect face, combined with his gold- rimmed glasses, gave him an air of sophistication and danger.

“Master, use my resentment to take a look at his true nature. I’ll hide now,” Leo sald suddenly.

It was clear that Leo was genuinely afraid of Dalton. After speaking, he hid in the copper coin hanging around Wynter’s neck.

Dalton seemingly caught her gaze and smiled faintly. His lips were almost colorless. The bracelet on his wrist stood out in the gloomy weather, appearing particularly bright red .

Instinctively, Wynter wanted to see him more clearly. As she touched the copper coin, she lifted her gaze again and saw his true nature,

The bracelet on Dalton’s wrist turned deep red. It was hanging by his hand like an invisible thread.

His skin was as pale as paper, but his body emitted a black mist as if countless demons were brewing inside him. They were bound by Fankrit inscriptions on his body.

However, that alone wasn’t really remarkable. What caught Wynter’s attention was the potent blend of fortune energy and black mist enveloping his spirit.

Was that what Atwater meant by countless personal burdens?
