Chapter 561 Who Dares to Continue Making Trouble

Lorenzo was always the first to do anything beneficial to the company.

"Should I post it now? Or should I wait until the first of the month? According to our plan, Meridon Fashion Week will take place at that time. We can take the opportunity to increase our popularity. After all, it's the first time you've used Shumland elements to design outfits. I believe it'll cause an uproar, especially in Shumland. They're our main..."

He talked endlessly with all kinds of exclamations. He spoke very fast.

The main reason was that Lamar didn't contact him too much. He was too excited.

Wynter interrupted him in time, "Post it now. I want to see you post it on the company's official website in two minutes. If I don't see it, you can resign then."

In other words, she owned the company.

There weren't many people present who knew Frendese. Those who knew were all at the opposite of the banquet.

Those socialites stood closer to Wynter. But they never learned Frendese. Some ladies had studied Frendese overseas, but they couldn't hear the conversation well. They only vaguely heard Wynter's request for the other party to post something.

Winnie, the only person who had stayed in Frenda for a long time, was stunned.

She stared at Wynter in disbelief and whispered, "Sevie, you..."

Was Wynter Lamar? How could that be?

But it was indeed Lorenzo's voice on the other end. That was a friend she met when holding an art exhibition in Frenda!

Lorenzo's attitude toward Wynter was as if she were the real decision-maker in the company.

Winnie had frozen. She was thinking about the situation.

Wendy was stupid, though. In addition, the medicinal aroma affected her, causing her attitude to change. What are you trying to imply by pretending to make a phone call? Don't think that you can plagiarize anyone at will under the Quinnells' protection!"

"Two minutes are up."

Faced with Wendy's provocation/ Wynter scrolled through her phone.

"There is news on Queenlight Corporation's official website. You all can check it out online."

As soon as she said that, everyone looked at their phones.

The most recent update on Queenlight Corporation's official website was a family photo.

Fabian sat in the center, with Wynter behind him and her brothers on either side.

The background was Kingwood Alley in Kingbourne.

Not to mention the latest high-end outfits they wore. When the guests saw the photo, they were shocked.

"It's the Quinnells!"

"Look! There are also words!"

The official website used Scandone to match the design this time.

As soon as that post came out, it proved Wynter's identity. At the same time, the Quinnells followed the Queenlight Corporation's publicity to join the international market.

Overseas netizens were now asking about the Quinnells in Shumland. Wynter glanced at Wendy. "Ms. Winston, what else do you want to say?"

Chapter 563 Apologize in Person

It was Sebastian. He shrugged off his coat and strolled over from the corner. Compared to Elliot and Tobias, he appeared more like a typical corporate elite. He adorned a diamond wristwatch and sported a stylish backcombed hairstyle. The well-defined angles of his face were complemented by a charming smile.

"Sebastian!" Tobias' eyes lit up.

At this moment, even the company owners made way for him.

After all, Sebastian couldn't merely be viewed as the fourth son of the Quinnell family. He was far too renowned among the Hawford Legal Elites.

Given their industry, they couldn't afford to offend any lawyers.

Sebastian only spared Tobias a single glance before his gaze landed on Wynter. He couldn't help but reach out and ruffle Wynter's long hair. "Wynter is so capable. Others should be praising you. Instead, you're here being slandered."

Wynter felt somewhat uncomfortable when her hair was ruffled.

The words she had prepared beforehand suddenly got stuck in her throat. Yet, in this state, Sebastian felt that this was the Wynter he knew best. He smiled gently and said, "It's all because we are useless brothers. We have allowed outsiders to misunderstand, and now they think anyone can step on my sister."

When he spoke, Arianna instinctively took a step back.

The others remained silent, no longer daring to speak up.

Initially, as the ladies belonged to the same social circle, they felt a subconscious urge to defend the Winston family.

However, they treaded carefully around Sebastian. After all, they recognized he wasn't just a mere junior.

It's no wonder why some referred to him as the smiling fox. That's exactly who Sebastian was. He appeared approachable but his words brooked no compromise.

"Mrs. Winston, reputation should never be risked in a dispute. While the Winstons and the Quinnells share a close bond, the Winstons aren't an ordinary family. Even someone as young as Ms. Winston should grasp that baseless accusations of theft come with consequences," he remarked.

"Either Ms. Winston apologizes now or we'll pursue legal action"

Sebastian's words were deliberate. "When it comes to applying moral pressure, I believe I am better at it than Mrs. Winston."

"Sebastian, I didn't mean it like that," Arianna interjected, wanting to explain.

Sebastian smiled. "Mrs. Winston, I'm not concerned with your intentions. I've conveyed my stance clearly. Usually, I don't involve myself much in the fashion industry.

"I just searched about Lamar, which is also my little sister's brand. With her influence, the baseless accusations made by Ms. Winston earlier could tarnish the Winston family's reputation.

"The recent performance of the Winston family's stocks appears to be rather ordinary."

"You know me," Sebastian added and looked at Arianna. "I don't mind helping the Winston family again."

Chapter 564 Repaying Kindness With Vengeance

As soon as he spoke, everyone at the banquet assumed that there was something wrong with Wendy.

Wynter couldn't help but raise her head to glance at Sebastian.

His statement was too strong. If the Winston family didn't apologize, they would publicly acknowledge their lack of upbringing. This would only make the situation more uncomfortable for them.

Sure enough, Arianna was anxious. "Sebastian, it's all a misunderstanding," she interjected.

With that, she pressured Wendy again. "If you don't apologize today, don't ever come back to the Winston family!"

Wendy realized the seriousness of the situation as soon as she heard this.

She felt slightly anxious as her mother's expression didn't seem like she was joking.

"I-I'm sorry." Wendy's eyes welled up with tears. Even though she still felt resentful towards Wynter, she knew she couldn't show it anymore.

She clenched her fists, half-bowed her head, and said, "I shouldn't have slandered you without knowing anything. I was w Please forgive my ignorance and foolishness."

Wynter looked over and calmly responded, "As far as I know, Ms. Winston has done this more than once. You look down on anyone who's new to the circle, which I understand. Similarly, please understand that as an individual, I don't want to forgive you. After all, stabbing me in the back was malicious."

"I have no misunderstanding with Ms. Winston. However, my grandpa is here today. He's nostalgic and often tells me about how he and his old friends used to get by," she explained.

"According to Mrs. Winston's implication today, if the Winston family and the Quinnell family are well- acquainted, the Quinnell family is expected to show deference to the Winston family.

"Mrs. Winston probably forgot who injected funds into the Winston family's business and saved it from collapse when the policy had just opened.

"My grandpa has never been one to be swayed by favors, and he's always taught me that way. It's just that today's a special occasion. I would like to ask something."

"The Quinnell family doesn't owe the Winston family anything," Wynter asserted, her eyes dark and clear. The Winston family's hostility toward me is inexplicable. Is it just your daughter like this, or is Mr. Winston also like this?"

In an instant, the blood drained from Arianna's face, leaving her complexion pale and frightening.

"Wynter, about this-" Arianna interjected.

Wynter didn't wait for her to finish. "Mrs. Winston, this matter reflects the intentions of the Winston family as a whole."

This sentence caused a commotion in the entire banquet hall.

"Yeah. Come to think of it, the Quinnell family really did a favor for the Winston family."

"At that time, the Winston family was on the brink of bankruptcy. They were scrambling for funds everywhere. Without the Quinnell family's assistance, they would've gone under."

"Why does Ms. Winston come off as more arrogant than Ms. Quinnell? It's like repaying kindness with vengeance."

"Who knows how the Winston family raised her..."

Arianna felt unsteady as she listened to the speculations around her.

Unexpectedly, as soon as the child opened her eyes, she spat at her. Arianna felt utterly repulsed.

Now that she's grown up, she's even more aggravating than before!

The Quinnell family shouldn't have brought her back.

Arianna kept her thoughts to herself, though her face betrayed guilt.

She knew she had to say something. Otherwise, the Winston family's reputation would suffer!

So, Arianna cleverly called out to Shane, "Shane, please clarify things for our Winston family. We truly didn't mean any harm. Clyde always reminded us not to forget the kindness of the Quinnell family."

"I understand, I understand," Shane responded, trying to redeem himself at that moment. "Do we really need to explain the relationship between the Winston and Quinnell families? Wynter has just returned and is overthinking things."

"But Wendy, she should exercise more restraint in the future," Shane continued, appearing to scold Wendy while actually downplaying the issue.

"You often speak impulsively, without considering the consequences. Luckily, I'm here today to help clear things up. Wynter won't take offense."

"If we have... clarified your actions today, it could have caused a rift between the Quinnell and Winston families."

"I've worked alongside your father for years. Your mom and Mrs. Quinnell are good friends as well. You should also grow closer to Wynter in the future," Shane advised.

Wendy replied helplessly, "Mr. Quinnell, I understand. I'll definitely change in the future."

"It's good that you're willing to change. You're still a good kid," Shane remarked, feeling he handled the matter fairly. He then turned to Wynter and said, "Sevie, you should also show some sisterly tolerance."

Wynter remained emotionless, but her three brothers couldn't contain themselves any longer.

Especially Sebastian. He even questioned whether the person before him was truly his father.

While Shane had always lacked independent thought since he was young, he wasn't foolish. Sebastian wondered if the benefits the Winston family secretly provided to the Quinnell family had become significant enough for his father to disregard everything.

Sebastian stepped forward, about to speak.

Then, Wynter's laughter broke through. "Mr. Quinnell, you seem incapable of discerning the appropriate occasion. Was Elliot's demeanor not clear enough just now? Or do you believe that I, your recently discovered daughter, am easily manipulated?

"Why do you keep popping up everywhere?" Wynter's smile was faint as she approached Shane.

"At first, I didn't want to engage with you. After all, you're still Grandpa's son.

"So you found a sponsee to pacify her," Wynter said, a hint of amusement in her voice.

Chapter 566 Marie's Grand Entrance

When that familiar voice resounded, everyone froze for a moment.

Marie's unexpected arrival caught everyone off guard, especially in the midst of today's banquet.

After all, the memory of her last appearance at a banquet still lingered vividly in everyone's minds.

In the thoughts of the ladies, particularly Arianna's, they assumed Shane would have admitted Marie into the hospital. They had disregarded Marie, so no one had asked any questions.

At this moment, Marie wore a burgundy fishtail evening gown. She immediately attracted everyone's attention as soon as she entered the banquet hall.

Marie had fair skin and a pair of deep, clear eyes. Time had left almost no traces on her face.

She retained her cold and noble demeanor. People used to call her Hawford's Red Rose-she was delicate yet fiery.

Her temperament contrasted sharply from Wynter's. At first glance, one would not associate the two together.

As Marie roached, the striking resemblance in their gestures and expressions became evident.

The people only then realized that this was indeed a true mother-daughter pair.

Before her arrival, the ladies present could still vie for attention. But now, they all became supporting characters.

Marie was exceptionally beautiful, so much so that it almost enchanted people's hearts.

Winnie was stunned. She murmured, "Marie, are you... feeling better?"

Arianna had the same question in mind.

Clearly, Marie had suffered from madness before.

The last time Arianna saw her, Marie was kept by Shane like a canary. Her eyes were vacant, and she couldn't give a coherent answer even when spoken to. Though she no longer hurt people as before, she still didn't seem fully recovered.

"If I still haven't recovered, it seems like everyone here might truly think that our dear Sevie has neither a father nor a mother," Marie said with a graceful smile. "Of course, my dear friends wouldn't think so. Am I right, Ms. Yeaton and Mrs. Winston?"

Marie singled out these two women, making her intentions very obvious.

Wasn't Winnie trying to use Marie's name to suppress her own daughter?

Marie had come personally to assert that her daughter was precious!

Such directness left no room for doubt.

Their reactions varied from one another.

Winnie had never expected Marie to address her so directly.

Chapter 567 The Brothers Dominated the Scene,
"The Quinnell family is quite mysterious. I suspect there's something fishy going on. But it's strange, if it?"

Mrs. Quinnell is fine now, why hasn't her husband mentioned

"Yeah, very strange indeed. Mr. Quinnell had always portrayed himself as a doting husband, yet he seems oblivious to his wife's recovery."

All those present were sharp-minded, especially the women who despised men who pretended to be extremely loving but were actually absent husbands.

"Now I'm starting to think there's something fishy about Shane's insistence on adopting that little girl, Naomi."

Seeing the situation, Shane hurriedly wanted to intervene. In fact, when Marie arrived, he wanted to take control of the situation, as he did before.

But his three sons left him no room.

"I am your father!" Shane roared in frustration, losing his composure completely.

Sebastian chuckled lightly. "You don't have to be. As long as my mom is happy, I can be her lawyer."

As soon as he said this, it was as if their trump card was revealed.

Previously, with Marie absent, the three brothers had been somewhat restrained. They feared their actions might sadden their mother if their father reacted badly.

But now, it seems unnecessary. It turns out that their mother was also on their side.

The entire room was stunned.

"What does Sebastian mean?"

"What else could it mean? He's advocating for his parents' divorce."

If Shane really divorced, all the relationships he had worked so hard to maintain would be destroyed in an instant.

"You-you!" Shane was so angry he almost spat blood. Sebastian had been at odds with him since childhood, always scheming against him. Now, it was even worse.

"Watch your image. Your shareholders are all watching," Sebastian reminded him.

Shane narrowed his eyes and clenched his fists. "Is it because Sevie has spoken to you all? She's young and full of resentment. You're all adults, yet you listen to her!"

"Mr. Quinnell." Elliot, who usually spoke the least, finally spoke up. He glanced around at everyone. "What transpired today was initially a family matter for the Quinnell family."

"My younger sister is someone who wouldn't even cry out in pain if she were wronged. She never complains. Perhaps our father, Mr. Quinnell, isn't even aware of this.

"When I was in the village, I was on the brink of death in a cellar. If it weren't for my younger sister, I would have perished long ago.

It would have been evident had she considered Marie's character more carefully.

Why had she seemed to forget everything and solely focused on protecting Naomi?

Winnie shook her head in disbelief.

Observing Winnie's reaction, Naomi realized that the effects of the medicinal incense were nearly Naomi never expected for Sebastian to show up. He was the brother she dreaded the most.

Chapter 570 What Goes Around Comes Around Divorce?

The whole scene fell into silence. Even Shane was stunned.

"Divorce?" He widened his eyes and stared at Marie in disbelief. "You want to divorce me?"

He knew the Whitman family's values better than anyone else. How could they raise a woman who would mention divorce so casually?

Stetter

Wasn't she always the one who strictly adhered to conventions?

Couldn't she have discussed it privately with him? Why did she have to air it out in public and embarrass him in front of everyone?

Shane seemed to not even recognize Marie anymore. Anger was evident in his eyes.

"You're having another episode!"

Shane reached out to grab Marie's arm. "Let's go, come with me to the hospital!"

An episode?

Was Marie's mention of divorce considered an episode?

Some people were still confused.

However, Wynter wasted no time. She firmly grasped Shane's wrist. "My mom contemplated keeping those documents private to spare the Quinnell family. Be sensible and leave quietly."

Shane gritted his teeth and looked at Wynter with a mix of fear and hatred in his eyes.

The medium was right; Wynter was indeed a threat to the Quinnell family!

He needed to find a way to defuse the situation.

Although he knew it was wrong, a recurring thought plagued Shane's mind. "If only she hadn't returned, if she hadn't been discovered, none of this would have occurred," he thought to himself.

"I'm your dad!" Shane's composure shattered. "Do you wish to see our family torn apart?"

"Shane, stop tarnishing your daughter's reputation." Marie, in stark contrast, appeared more like a normal person than Shane.

"From the beginning until now, have you felt no remorse? How true was your love? I reserve the right to determine the fate of my marriage. You may leave. The attorneys from the Whitman family will be in touch with you," Marie stated firmly.

At that moment, the gaze of many business partners were fixated on Shane. They had chosen Shane over Fabian because he was the son-in-law of the Whitman family.

Now, faced with such a situation, only a fool would continue to support him. He had no idea how to
