

Star of Space 319

Chapter 319 Let her wait!

"To be honest, I really don't have the time to play around with boring people. Not everyone can waste my time.

"Well."

At this time, the guard was really stunned.

His second prince was still listening outside. What this little girl said was so straightforward that he didn't even know how to reply.

"This...the doctor's girl..."

"Please tell this guard brother to the housekeeper of your princess's residence. I will wait another half hour. If I still can't see the eldest princess by then, I will discuss the treatment in the future. Anyway, I can afford to wait. "

Lin Caisang said it bluntly without giving him a farewell speech.

Guard: "..."

What he said made people really confused.

She could afford to wait, but the eldest princess couldn't afford to wait. She watched the eldest princess lose weight day by day, and she couldn't even speak while lying on the bed. If it weren't for the thousand-year-old mountain ginseng to hold her breath, I'm afraid... ..

"Ms. Langzhong, please wait a moment. I'll go talk to the housekeeper right now." That's all he could say.

Lin Caisang said nothing more and went back to her room to close her eyes and rest. As for the eldest princess, she must be cured. But although doctors treat illnesses and save people and put benevolence first, they are not without temper and can be manipulated by others. flat.

Since they want to be proud, then she will show them proudly and see who can defeat whom.

"Second Prince, look at this..."

The guard left in a hurry, and not far from the courtyard gate, he saw the second prince with a livid face, and he opened his mouth to persuade.

Unexpectedly, the Second Prince didn't give him a chance to finish his words, and directly glared at him sideways.

"Shut up!"

It's not like he didn't hear what the girl just said.

Just a little girl, how can she have the confidence to dare to speak like this in the eldest princess's house? I don't know what to say.

"Let her wait. Don't give her dinner today. Let her starve. I don't think she can get out without someone from the house to take her."

Huh, I still want to fight with him. Can his majestic second prince be compared to a little girl with no hair? Are you talking nonsense? Then just leave her alone!

"this....."

When the guard heard this, he was stunned.

"Second Prince, I see that the lady in charge is not a simple person. Maybe she can really cure the illness of the eldest princess. Do you think... should I ask my subordinates to inform the housekeeper..."

"Can't you hear what I say? Let her wait!"

When the second prince heard what he said, he frowned and snorted coldly.

"If you dare to go past me and tell the butler, I'll see if I don't twist off your head and use it as a football! Do you hear me?"

"Yes, my subordinate heard it."

The guard had no choice but to answer.

But procrastinating like this is not an option, and the doctor's girl's words don't sound like a joke. What if you are really offended and make the person angry?

Should he secretly inform the housekeeper?

...

Half an hour later.

Several maids suddenly came into the quiet little courtyard, and the leading nanny walked slowly to Lin Caisang, who was concentrating with his eyes closed.

"This girl, the housekeeper has asked us to come and ask you to diagnose the princess. Please."

Lin Caisang opened his eyes, looked at the serious grandma, nodded, and stood up.

"Let's go, lead the way."

Finally, she was able to see the eldest princess. If the eldest princess could be diagnosed with any kind of poison today, the next thing would be easier to handle. She left the small courtyard with her grandma and two maids.
