Chapter 330 Can't Save You

"Ms. Langzhong, please wait a moment, I'll report it right away.

He looked at Ya Molian next to Lin Caisang, then turned and entered the princess mansion.

"It seems that the entire Princess Mansion knows the news about my assassination." Lin Caisang looked at Ya Molian with a smile and said semi-sarcastically.

"I'm afraid it won't stop."

Ya Molian sneered and glanced at the other guards.

"How do you say this?" Lin Caisang asked him in a low voice, puzzled.

"When we came all the way just now, didn't you see that there were more patrol guards in Jian'an City?" Ya Molian reminded her.

It must be that Xiao Sangzi was assassinated in the princess mansion yesterday. The emperor was worried about the safety of the eldest princess, so he ordered more patrol guards. Otherwise, even under the solemn emperor, there would be no need for a sentry every ten steps.

If people from other countries saw it, it would be a joke!

"How did I know that I took a carriage directly from the entrance of the palace yesterday and didn't see the patrol guards on the street at all." Lin Caisang said extremely innocently.

She didn't stay on the street too long yesterday. She just went to heal the scholar whose face was disfigured. She really didn't know anything about other things.

"It turns out it's all because of me."

She realized.

"It's not all because of you. The dignified eldest princess's palace is treated like a deserted place by such a young person, and she can take people's lives at will. It's no wonder that the emperor is angry.

Yamolian said.

"Did you save someone on the street yesterday?"

Suddenly, he thought of the doubts in his heart and asked.

If this girl hadn't shown her hand on the street, a young doctor and a woman would definitely not have been noticed by others. At most, they would have been regarded as a frog in the well who didn't know the depth of the well. How could he do anything to her?

"How can anyone be saved?"

Lin Caisang felt that she was really more unjust than Dou E.

"Yesterday, before I was going to unveil the emperor's list, I heard someone talking about a scholar who had his face disgraced. I was just kind-hearted and thought I could save him if I could, so I gave him a bottle of scar removal ointment. It's nothing, right?"

In this world, saving someone can save you from trouble, which is really scary.

Yamolian: "..."

There was really nothing he could do with this girl.

"Little Sangzi, this is the foot of the emperor. If you want to get involved with the royal family, your every move will be under the surveillance of others. How can you act recklessly?"

"I didn't expect this to happen. I will be careful in the future." Lin Caisang said.

If she had known earlier... In fact, no matter how early she knew, she would still have to save the people who should be saved. Otherwise, what is the purpose of studying medicine? Is it just a child playing house?

After a while, the housekeeper of the Princess Mansion hurried over, nodded and bowed to Lin Caisang, and welcomed her in with Ya Molian.

Because Ya Molian was a man, it was impossible to see the eldest princess and could only wait in the front yard. Lin Caisang was taken by the housekeeper directly to the main courtyard where the eldest princess was.

"Brother, this is not true, is it?"

The second prince was outside the eldest princess's room, listening to the palace guard coming to report that yesterday's doctor's daughter had arrived, and he was still in a daze until now.

"Okay, now that everyone is here, the second emperor brother must not be reckless anymore. Auntie's body is the most important thing. If you let your father catch you doing something wrong again, I can't save you."

The eldest prince looked at his younger brother and warned him carefully.

Of the brothers, the second emperor's brother was the most mischievous. He did not care about anything they did together and had no sense of propriety.
