Chapter 334 This orchid is called passion orchid

Since then, people in the Liang Kingdom have spread rumors that the eldest princess lived alone because she felt sorry for her benefactor's ex-husband as a punishment for herself.

But these are all rumors, and she naturally won't believe them. There is no real feelings or true temperament among the royal family. They are just topics used to confuse the people and win their favor.

"Aunt Bai, take the young lady to the eldest princess's study." Seeing her nodding, the eldest prince immediately ordered to Aunt Bai beside him.

"Yes, Your Majesty."

Aunt Bai responded and looked at Lin Caisang.

"Ms. Langzhong, please come with me."

"Um."

Lin Caisang responded lightly.

The two of them left the room one after another, and the eldest prince followed them because he was worried.

...

After a while, Lin Caisang came to a somewhat dilapidated courtyard under the guidance of Aunt Bai. According to Aunt Bai, the eldest princess's study was in this courtyard, and the eldest princess's daily life was Live here.

"here....."

Lin Caisang frowned slightly, feeling that this place looked familiar.

But the next moment, she chuckled and shook her head.

Having lived in the countryside for a long time, you are familiar with yards like this. Which family in their Ya Village doesn't have a yard like this? But she was really surprised that the dignified eldest princess of Liang Kingdom, who lived such a luxurious life, actually liked to live in such a courtyard.

Isn't this just doing it yourself?

"Ms. Langzhong, this is the eldest princess's study." Aunt Bai brought Lin Caisang into a small room and said to her.

For a nun who is used to living in the eldest princess's mansion, this study seems to be really small, but to Lin Caisang, it is not. This study is as big as her room.

"Um."

Lin Caisang nodded, and his beautiful eyes looked around in every corner of the study.

After a while, her eyes fell on a pot of orchids on the high table. She walked over with delicate steps, raised her hand and lightly tapped the hanging orchid leaves with her index finger.

"This orchid is well taken care of. Is it also an old thing left by the consort?" she asked.

"no."

Aunt Bai immediately shook her head.

"This orchid is called Bai Xianglan. It was a gift from the abbot when the eldest princess went to Fangyin Temple to offer incense three months ago. The eldest princess has always sincerely worshiped the Buddha and will definitely take care of the things given by the Buddhists herself."

"oh."

Lin Caisang lowered his head and chuckled, then responded lightly.

"Fangyin Temple? Aunt Bai, I came to Jian'an City for the first time. I wonder if there are many temples near Jian'an City. Is Fangyin Temple famous?"

While asking Aunt Fang, she picked up the so-called passion orchid and walked outside the house.

"Why....."

Aunt Bai didn't stop anyone. She watched the pot of passion orchid being taken away by Lin Caisang, and quickly raised her legs to chase after her.

"Ms. Langzhong, this is the eldest princess's most..."

'Clang!' sound

Before Aunt Bai could say anything, the pot of passion orchid slipped from Lin Caisang's hand and hit the ground. The pot shattered into pieces. She screamed and rushed toward the passion orchid on the ground.

How can you drop something from the Buddhist family? This is a serious sin against the Buddha. If the eldest princess finds out, she must be scolded to death.

"Oh, Miss Langzhong, this is...hey, what is this?"

However, before he finished his exclamation, he saw a small dark red cloth corner in the exposed soil.
