

Star of Space 46

Chapter 46 You can carry the whole thing to my house

"Sister picking mulberries, I'm so sorry. I apologize to you on behalf of your sister-in-law Yilu. She is such a reckless person. You must not be as knowledgeable as her.

Ban Yilu gritted his teeth and refused to apologize. In the end, Ya Jinghong had no choice but to lower his face and apologize for Ban Yilu.

"Of course not." Lin Caisang smiled and shook his head.

Is she as good as a crazy woman? Doesn't it look like you have no style?

"Brother Jinghong, you should take your sister-in-law to treat the wound. I think the wound is quite deep. If it is not treated well, it will easily leave scars."

She deliberately emphasized the word 'leaving scars' and glanced at Ban Yilu behind Ya Jinghong with a cold gaze.

Sure enough, upon hearing these two words, Ban Yilu suddenly screamed, covering the other side of her uninjured face with her other hand, and ran out of the yard like crazy regardless of Ya's shock. .

After this commotion, everyone who was not named by Ya Molian to help left the yard, leaving only two couples, Ya Enxi and Ya Yufeng, to help.

...

Looking at the half piece of pork in front of him at Yamolian's home, Lin Caisang looked at the sky speechlessly, and couldn't help but wonder, what can he do with the more than one hundred kilograms of pork?

Can you finish eating?

"Ahem, this... is too much, right?"

With a slight cough, she looked at Ya Enxi and Ya Yufeng, who were smiling so hard that their faces almost wrinkled, and then looked at Ya Molian on the other side who was still busy removing bones and cutting meat, preparing for the three families to share the other half of the pork.

It's a pity that people didn't look at her at all, as if she didn't exist.

"How much is this? It's only half. By the way, Enxi, cut some pig meat for Changhong and the others, take the pig belly with you, and that..."

"besides?"

Listening to Ya Yufeng's words, not to mention Lin Caisang, even Lin Changhong couldn't help it and interrupted him with a loud voice.

"Brother Yufeng, this is the wild boar that Brother Melian shot." He reminded.

I couldn't help but mutter in my heart: Otherwise, you can carry the whole thing to my house.

"I know, your family has the largest number of people, isn't it? Brother Mo Lian is alone, as well as me and your brother Enxi. Now that we have no children, where can we finish the food? The pig's blood needs to be cooked later. I can't finish it. Doesn't the mulberry-picking girl like it? Then I won't give it to you, that's fine."

Ya Yufeng asked while looking at Ya Molian's back.

"But how much does that much pork cost? We won't be able to finish it all when we take it home, and it will spoil if we leave it. Besides, I'm too embarrassed to take it for nothing. How about I pay for it?"

Lin Caisang hesitated and asked.

At this moment, she couldn't help but wonder if Ya Molian knew something. Did he know that she was the one who saved him in the bamboo house that day?

This is impossible, right? How can a person who is almost dying of pain know who saved him?

Just teasing her.

But if you don't know, why did Ya Molian do this today? After hunting such a big wild boar, most of it was given to her, and she could tell that Ya Enxi and Ya Yufeng specifically named it, and it was for her!

"No, no, no, how can I ask you to pay money? They are all from the village. Sister mulberry picker, you are out of sight now, aren't you?" Ya Yufeng quickly stopped and signaled that he must not accept money.

"As for this meat, if it goes bad if left alone, just marinate it with salt. It's not hot now, so you can marinate the meat. Does the mulberry-picking girl have no salt at home? That's no problem. Brother Mo Lian has plenty of salt at home. Brother Lian..."

As he spoke, he looked at Ya Molian and saw that Ya Molian had put down his work and entered the kitchen.