

Star of Space 481

Chapter 481 Are you still afraid that you can't tame a woman?

...

In Jian'an City.

In another house, the man looked at the two black-clad subordinates in front of him with a heavy gaze. His cold tone made it seem as if he would cut off the heads of the two subordinates at any time.

"Gone?"

"Yes, leader, that person is gone."

The two subordinates were also dripping with cold sweat, their eyes were wandering, but they did not dare to look at their leader and responded weakly.

The next moment, there was only a "bang" sound, and a teacup fell in front of their feet. The two of them did not dare to move, for fear that if they moved, their heads would be separated from their necks.

"Tell me clearly, how could a good person disappear?"

The two subordinates in front of him are his most powerful people. He knows very well how good they are at doing things. How could they lose track of each other? Are you kidding him?

"I don't know why I disappeared."

One of the subordinates swallowed and glanced at the leader.

"The two subordinates followed carefully. They were also very careful about the man next to the girl and followed closely, but they just disappeared. When the two subordinates chased them to the secluded alley, At that time, there was only one horse left, and the two men and the carriage and horse were gone. "

This is what they find strange. If the two people and the horse disappeared at the same time, it is possible that they rode away. However, the horse was still where it was, but the carriage frame was missing.

Are those two people still stupid enough to run away with that carriage frame on their backs?

Or maybe the carriage has become so sophisticated that it doesn't even need a horse to pull it, so it can take the two of them away by itself?

How is this possible?

"Um?"

The leader was also confused by what he heard. He frowned and looked at the person who spoke.

"What did you say? Say it again."

"Chief, you heard it right. The two people disappeared along with the carriage frame. When the subordinates got there, only the horse was still there." The subordinate repeated it again.

Hearing this, the leader's mouth twitched wildly.

How could he report this matter to his master? Would his master believe such a strange thing?

"What about the horses?" he asked his subordinate.

"The subordinate went there later, and the horse disappeared. It may have been taken away by those who took advantage of it." The subordinate replied.

leader:"!!!"

How is this possible? In Jian'an City, even an ownerless horse cannot be taken away directly, okay?

Otherwise, once someone loses something and reports it to the government, if the government finds someone's fault, the crime will be very serious.

There is a very important point about the laws of Ran Kingdom, that is, the laws of other counties and cities are far less stringent than those of Jian'an City. This is the foot of the emperor. Anyone who dares to mess around here is the same as throwing something away from the tiger's mouth. .

Who dares to do this.

He took a deep breath and looked at his two subordinates.

"Now you immediately take her to the door of Zeng's house and keep an eye on her. Wasn't that girl rewarded with ten thousand acres of fertile land by the emperor? Send people there to keep an eye on her. As soon as they arrive, they will be captured immediately."

Now he couldn't care less about the method he had thought of before. He had long felt that the 'good' method his master had thought of was of no use at all.

Just take the person down directly!

"Yes, chief."

One of the subordinates' eyes flashed with excitement when he heard the leader's instructions.

They finally don't have to follow Lin Caisang every day. How easy it is to just capture the person. Bring the person back. If she doesn't obey, just tame her until she obeys. Isn't she just a woman? There are so many men here, so they are afraid. Can't tame a woman?
