Chapter 62 Take Grandpa for a walk outside

In the yard, the voice of third uncle Lin Baiyi rang out, as well as the happy shouts of Lin Changyi and Lin Caiqing.

Lin Caisang, who was sitting by the bed, put the jade book in her hand into the golden bead space, then got up and went out. She knew that the wheelchair must be ready.

"Sangsang, come and see how this wheelchair is, do you want to try it?"

As soon as the door was opened, Lin Baiyi's bright eyes stared at her and asked with a smile.

"Done? Really fast."

Lin Caisang glanced at the wheelchair in front of Lin Baiyi and walked over.

"Uncle Third, have you tried it?"

"No, you try it first." Lin Baiyi shook his head.

He has made this thing, but he still doesn't know how to use it. The two big and two small four wheels are so flexible, and he doesn't know if they will slide around. What if he falls and falls? manage?

"How about Third Uncle try first?"

Thinking that he might actually fall, he didn't want Lin Caisang to try it first.

"I'd better try it first."

As Lin Caisang spoke, he sat on the wheelchair and twisted his body.

"Grandma, please make a thinner cushion and put it on top. It will be more comfortable."

"good."

Lin Lu answered with a smile.

"Sangsang, third uncle is pushing you."

"No, I'll try it myself."

Lin Caisang shook his head and refused. He held the two wheels beside him with both hands and slowly turned them. The wheelchair also moved forward. After walking about seven or eight steps, he only turned one wheel and turned the wheelchair around. Keep walking.

"Grandma, do you think this is okay?"

"Okay, okay, it couldn't be better."

Lin Lu looked at her rotating wheelchair and couldn't say anything bad about it.

Outside the yard, Lin Changhong happened to be back carrying a hoe. Seeing this situation, he couldn't help but interject, "Sang Sang, this wheelchair is great, but it can't be used when walking downhill."

Lin Caisang: "..."

Her eldest brother really had a keen eye and saw the shortcomings of this wheelchair at a glance.

But there's no way around it. It's so realistic to use local materials. Where is she going to get the materials for brakes or something? We can only leave it at that.

"Sang Sang, don't listen to your brother's nonsense. This chair is good enough. We don't want your grandpa to go to town alone to buy things or go downhill. He is the only one who is troublesome."

"Actually, it's okay to go downhill. Grandpa will use this wheelchair more and the strength in his hands will be developed. Just hold the wheels tighter when going downhill." Lin Caisang also smiled and stood up.

"Besides, grandpa is naturally accompanied by someone when he goes out, so it's okay."

"Yes, Sang Sang is right." Lin Changhong smiled.

"Third uncle, please try carrying me out. The weather is nice today, so I will take my grandfather for a walk outside."

"good."

Lin Baiyi responded, and then went to the room to carry Lin Laogong out. He lingered for a long time and changed the old man into the latest clothes.

Sitting in the wheelchair, Lin Laogong was extremely happy. He kept praising his granddaughter for his clever brain and his son's skillful hands, so that he, the old man, could enjoy the blessings of having children and grandchildren. He was anxious to go out and see his old friends.

"You go out for a walk, and I'll cook." Lin Lu said.

"Grandma, I won't eat anymore. I've made an appointment with Brother Mo Lian to go to town to sell prey. I'll keep a chicken." Lin Changhong said.

"No need, I still have a lot of meat at home. I'll sell whatever chickens I have left..."

Before Lin Lu finished speaking, she heard a scream mixed with crying coming from the yard next door. Everyone in the yard frowned in confusion.
