

Chapter 279 Leilany Is Back

Arielle felt embarrassed and wasn't sure what she should say. "No, Mrs. Mayfield..."

"I'm sure you have sense enough to understand the meaning of my words. I'll leave then. Go and have your check-up."

Vivienne stood up before another word could be spoken.

After Vivienne left, Emily was able to realize something about her words. "What exactly did she mean? Does she mean that you are harassing the Mayfield family? Or did she just say the Sherman family is too greedy?"

"Did you just figure all that out?" Arielle's eyes were narrowed with envy and hatred.

It was all Melissa's fault!

If Melissa and her two children weren't involved, there was a good chance she would have been married to Everett and would have been a part of the Mayfield family by now.

"Bitch!" Arielle yelled loudly, anger washing over her.

The more she thought about it, the more upset she became. She picked up some of the cups next to her and threw them onto the floor.

"Hey! Don't hurt yourself."

Emily frowned and came over to grab Arielle's injured left hand.

"Remember that your arm is still wrapped in gauze and injured. We're also very close to Everett's room. What if he were to hear all that noise?"

"I don't care! Everything has been ruined! Our efforts have been in vain!"

Arielle continued to scream and couldn't stop until she'd smashed everything on the table.

"Yes, we still have some time." Emily sighed to release her pent-up anxiety. "Maybe I can find you someone else. I promise I would find a family just as prestigious as the Mayfield family."

"Absolutely not." Arielle's voice was resentful as she stared off into space. "Even if I'm not allowed to marry into the Mayfield family, I still won't allow Melissa to do so. Not her or those two little monsters she calls children!"

After she'd had the meal in Everett's ward, Melissa returned to her office. She was worried that Everett was going to behave badly again.

It was difficult for her to deal with such a shameless rogue.

Like always, she looked through the patients' cases and the operation plan. She felt exhausted.

She didn't have anyone who could help her, and overtime was needed most nights.

"I sure wish Leilany would come back."

"Are you admitting that you miss me, Melly?"

That voice sounded exactly like Leilany's!

Melissa thought maybe she was hearing things, but she looked up at the figure standing at the door and immediately stood up in shock.

"Leilany! Why did you return so suddenly?"

"I missed you, of course." Leilany smiled widely and gave Melissa a hug. "I was right. You can't live without me. You must be overwhelmed without me to help you with these jobs."

"You won't always be an intern here. After you finish your internship, you will be a formal doctor and I still have to do these myself." Melissa stared at Leilany as she made that statement happily. "You look very happy. Did you figure out the problem with your graduation?"

"Almost done."

A serious look crossed Leilany's face as she sat down on the chair across from Melissa.

"The problem I had was supposed to be small and the school told me that they would investigate it. The male director, however, had stopped my internship. The school asked me to sign up for it again since my internship was cut short."

"That stupid man!" Melissa frowned at the situation. "No matter. If it
