

Chapter 385 I Miss You

"What?"

Aloys' voice instantly intensified, becoming harsh and cold.

Someone was bold enough to poison Melissa in this manner. If they hadn't found out about it sooner, the results would have been unimaginable.

Lindsey and Merrick were also implicated.

"Melissa, don't freak out. I'll catch the first available flight and go back as soon as possible."

"No, Aloys. Just stick to your original plan. I'm calling to first ask you for a favor," Melissa said quickly.

"What is it? Just tell me."

"Here's the thing. I had a physical examination before, but I didn't find anything, so I wish to send the blood samples and the bottle of liquid to the laboratory at my university abroad for testing. They are quite professional in this aspect."

Aloys responded promptly upon hearing this, "I see. Later, I'll have my people arrange a private jet for you. You only need to prepare the samples."

From five years ago until today, only Aloys could extend a helping hand without reservation.

Melissa felt warm within.

She smiled and turned on the hands-free button as she looked at the two eager children in the back seat.

"Aloys, would you like to talk to Lindsey and Merrick?"

"They..."

When Aloys began speaking, there was a chattering sound coming from the other end of the line.

"Mr. Brustin, this is Lindsey. I really miss you. When will you be back? And don't forget our birthday presents."

"Mr. Brustin, it's Merrick. We haven't heard from you for a while now. Why haven't you called us? We haven't seen you in a very long time."

Aloys felt both thrilled and guilty after hearing the ruckus and childish voices.

Melissa watched from the side as the two kids huddled forward closer to the phone, eager to speak with Aloys.

She couldn't help but interrupt them. "All right, let Aloys talk first."

The two kids stopped talking when they heard this and looked at the phone screen.

Aloys laughed and added dotingly, "I already know that you two miss me. I also miss you a lot. Well, after I'm done working, I'll come back to visit you, okay? I'll be there soon."

"Really? This time, you didn't stay with us for our birthday. You've always celebrated it with us before."

"I know, and I'm sorry." Aloys felt guilty after hearing this. "I'll bring you birthday presents when I go back, okay? I selected each unique present for you."

"Okay."

The three of them talked for a while longer before hanging up the phone.

Melissa put her phone down and comforted the two kids when she saw their sad looks in the rearview mirror.

"Didn't Aloys just mention he'd be back soon? We can meet him then."

As she talked, a text message appeared on the phone screen.

There was an address, which could probably be the transfer location.

Melissa stepped on the gas and got to her destination twenty minutes later.

Before she could even get out of the car, someone came to the window and took the storage boxes away.

"Please go back, Miss Sherman. We will send these overseas. Mr. Brusitn will personally send them to the laboratory."

"Okay, thank you."

This level of efficiency was not something an average person could achieve.

Aloys must have instructed them to do so while he was on the phone earlier.

Melissa sped off after turning the car around, contemplating.

She owed Aloys a favor again today. Even though she couldn't repay him, she had to at least treat him to a big meal upon his return.