

Chapter 525 You're Like A Person

Melissa felt relief wash over her as she stayed in the room where her mother used to live in. As a plus, Joyce's garden was perfectly quiet, and nobody disturbed her.

She didn't come here to enjoy her life, though. She had to discover the secrets of the Carter family as soon as possible, and whether the poison had anything to do with them.

In only a few days, she had met everyone in the Carter family except Joyce's second son, Fabian Carter. So, she planned on finding a way to meet him and figure out what he was all about. She asked around to find out where he was, before taking Mona to the villa.

A bodyguard guarded the door. "What's your business here?"

"Hello, I'm Mrs. Carter's doctor. I'm here to meet Mr. Fabian Carter."

Everyone in the Carter family knew now that Melissa had moved into Joyce's quarters. It was understood that Melissa was very important to Joyce, so no one dared to deny her requests.

"You're here to see Mr. Carter? He happens to be home today. I'll inform him right away. If it's convenient, I'll take you inside." The bodyguard smiled politely.

"Great, thank you."

About ten minutes later, the bodyguard came back to them. "Mr. Carter is ready to see you. Come with me."

Melissa followed the bodyguard, and Mona was about to follow them, but was stopped by the bodyguard.

"Mr. Carter specially told me to let only Dr. Sherman in."

Mona was Melissa's bodyguard, and whenever Melissa was out of sight for more than a moment, Mona's anxiety would rise. As she heard the bodyguard, Mona felt this feeling again.

"I'm Dr. Sherman's assistant. Why can't you let me in? Is this some Carter family rule? Why am I allowed to go anywhere else?" Mona retorted.

"Doesn't Dr. Sherman just want to speak with Mr. Carter? She doesn't plan to treat him. What use would you be inside?"

"You!"

"Forget about it, Mona," Melissa interrupted. Fabian was obviously vigilant enough to ask Melissa to come in alone. He didn't seem to be a loser like Karl said... "Mona, we are guests of the Carter family. You can rest assured that nothing will happen to me."

Mona was worried that Melissa would be in danger if she went there alone, but they would become suspicious if she pushed any further to follow her in. She gritted her teeth. "Fine, I'll wait outside."

Melissa followed the bodyguard through a long corridor, finally coming to the living room. The room was the brightest one in the home, but the windows were blocked by heavy curtains. The room was dark, and it took Melissa's eyes a moment to adjust. She stood still, not wanting to trip over anything.

"Come. Take a seat, Dr. Sherman." A voice drifted from the sofa in the corner. Melissa squinted in the darkness to see a small, thin man sitting on the sofa, his legs crossed. He stared at her firmly.

Melissa was shocked. The man seemed to be suffering from long-term malnourishment. His head was large but his body was very small. If he didn't have any brightness in his gaze, she would have surely thought this man was a mummy.

Fabian sighed as she finally approached him. "You really are just like her."
