

Chapter 560 Try Her Best To Save Her Children

After pondering for a moment, Melissa stood still, gripping the badminton racket in her hand.

The kidnapper smirked and said, "What's the matter? Won't make a move? Afraid I'll overpower you again, like last time?"

His tone dripped with sarcasm, but Melissa remained unfazed.

"Come on!"

Melissa forced herself to stay calm. After all, maintaining composure was her best weapon against the kidnapper.

"Here I come!"

The kidnapper snickered, lunged toward Melissa, and swung his fist. Just as his massive fist was about to collide with her face, Melissa sidestepped, evading his attack.

"Well done!"

The kidnapper hadn't anticipated missing his target.

He was taken aback that the woman could dodge his strike.

Moments ago, she'd given herself little chance, waiting until the last second to dodge his incoming fist.

It seemed she was quite audacious!

A sinister grin spread across the kidnapper's face. The woman had piqued his interest.

"Alright, you're inexperienced in boxing and you're a woman, but you've got guts! I'll entertain you for a bit!"

The next instant, he approached Melissa from behind, lifted her, and hurled her onto the nearby lawn.

Dazed, Melissa lay facedown on the lawn, unable to rise for some time.

The kidnapper chortled. "Don't be so stubborn. Admit defeat and beg me now, and I might let you go! You're so beautiful; I can't bear to mar that pretty face!"

Melissa clenched her fists, struggling to rise. She leaned unsteadily against a nearby pole for support.

"I can do this!"

The smile on the kidnapper's face vanished when he saw Melissa stand up.

He didn't think she'd be so stubborn!

Annoyed, he tugged at his collar and furrowed his brow.

In all his years, he'd never met someone like her.

What an extraordinary woman!

"I used nearly half my strength earlier. Even if you look fine externally, you must be suffering internally. I bet your organs are in pain. Are you sure you want to keep fighting me?"

Melissa spat out blood. "Come on! Why are you dilly-dallying? Can't defeat me without all the chatter?"

"I'm just trying to be kind!" the man retorted, visibly annoyed. "But I'm curious. Why do you keep daring to challenge me?"

Melissa smiled. At that moment, her bloodstained teeth and trembling body made her appear fragile, as though a gust of wind could knock her down.

"Because I'm a mother, a mother of two. I have to protect them."

Mother?

The kidnapper was momentarily taken aback. He saw that Melissa had < Chapter 560 Try Her Best To Save Her C...

 +120 Points at most mustered the courage to protect her children. Despite her vulnerability, she was braver than most men.

Seeing Melissa like this, he was suddenly reminded of his own mother. When his family had been drowning in debt, she had begged alongside him on the streets to raise him.

Though he had spent years living a life of crime, most of his ill-gotten gains went to his mother.

Had it not been for her, he would have perished in the streets, frozen to death. He wouldn't be standing here today.