

Chapter 586 Lukas Is Back

The private hospital didn't have many patients, thus allowing Melissa to have a leisurely morning.

In the afternoon, a nurse informed her that someone awaited her in the lobby.

Melissa quickly shed her doctor's uniform, slipped into her own clothes, and hurried to the lobby.

"Mrs. Green?"

Melissa was taken aback to find Tracy. Wasn't she supposed to be tending to Leilany?

With her eyes swollen from crying, Tracy abruptly dropped to her knees in front of Melissa.

Shocked by what Tracy was doing, Melissa hurriedly helped her up.

"Mrs. Green, what are you doing? Did something happen?"

Tears welled up in Tracy's eyes as she sobbed, "Something has happened to Leilany."

"What?" Upon hearing this, Melissa was seized by anxiety. Leilany was her closest friend. Her voice trembled as she asked, "What happened to her? Mrs. Green, please stand up. Tell me what happened."

Shaking her head, Tracy confessed, "This is all because I was too stubborn to let you treat her. Last night, she had a seizure and fled from the ward. I wasn't there at the time, and the caregiver happened to be away. She vanished after leaving the ward. I don't have any idea what to do, so now, I've turned to you. Please help me find Leilany. I'm begging you!"

Melissa's mind went blank. Why would Leilany run away? She wouldn't have left unless she was deeply troubled or stimulated by something.

In all honesty, even if Tracy hadn't sought her help, Melissa would have spared no effort in finding Leilany.

"Mrs. Green, don't worry. I'll do everything I can. Please have a rest. I'll arrange for a search party right away."

"Thank you so much! Thank you so much!" Tracy repeated, overcome with gratitude.

After comforting Tracy, Melissa immediately called Everett.

"Everett, Leilany's missing. Can you help me find her?" Melissa's voice was laced with anxiety, bordering on desperation.

Everett couldn't bear to hear Melissa so distressed. Melissa's friends were his friends, too.

He promptly ordered his assistant to organize a search party.

"Mrs. Green, I've asked Everett to assist in the search. He has many resources at his disposal. I'm confident we'll find her."

Upon hearing Melissa's reassurances, Tracy felt a wave of relief wash over her.

"Leilany is truly fortunate to have a friend like you. I'm at a loss for words to express my gratitude."

Lukas had been temporarily relocated from the hospital to further his studies last month. Today marked his return to Andeport. His first plan upon landing was to call Leilany for a pick-up.

He dialed her number, but there was no response.

This struck Lukas as odd because Leilany had always been prompt in returning his calls. Perhaps she was too occupied to pick up his call.

He maneuvered himself and his luggage to the roadside and took a seat.

Before he left, Leilany had staunchly insisted on fetching him upon his return. She had playfully threatened to leave him stranded at the airport if he attempted to return without her.

A smile tugged at his lips as he reminisced about Leilany's humorous antics.

He then glanced at his phone, her radiant smile lighting up the screen.

Leilany had requested him not to contact her during his time away so as to maintain his focus on his studies. Had it not been for her request, he would have definitely reached out to her.
