

Chapter 598 Emily Made Trouble

Melissa frowned, immediately thinking of someone, and asked, "Where is she?"

Worried that the woman might target Melissa if she spotted her, Mary warned Melissa, "That woman looks really aggressive. I'm afraid she'll make things difficult for you. It's better if you stay here."

"This is a hospital. No matter who she is, she can't cause a scene here and disturb the other patients."

"Alright, I'll go with you. If something happens, I can help you out."

"Okay."

The two of them took the elevator and arrived in the lobby.

When Melissa caught sight of the woman in the lobby, she frowned.

It was Emily causing a scene.

She sat in the hospital lobby, yelling and cursing Melissa, accusing her of being ungrateful.

Onlookers gathered around, and even the hospital director was among them. He tried to reason with Emily, but her spiteful words left him speechless, his face growing darker by the moment.

Melissa hurried over and exclaimed, "Emily, this is a hospital, not your home. Please behave yourself."

Spotting Melissa's arrival, Emily bellowed, "Melissa! If I don't come here, where else am I supposed to find you? I've called you countless times over the past few days. Did you answer? Besides, I'm your stepmother. If you'd just picked up the phone I wouldn't have to come here and cause trouble."

It was true that Emily had been calling Melissa, but Melissa had already figured out Emily's intentions. She hoped Melissa could help get Arielle released from prison.

Arielle deserved everything she was going through.

Unwilling to entertain Emily's words, Melissa simply blocked her out. However, she hadn't anticipated Emily showing up at the hospital and causing such a scene.

The director pointed at Emily on the floor, wearing a long face. "She's your stepmother? Since it's a family matter, you should handle it well. Don't let your personal affairs tarnish the hospital's image."

"Got it. I'll take care of it," Melissa nodded.

With an upset look, the director left.

"Emily, the onlookers have left. Can you please get up now?"

Emily wiped tears from her face and retorted, "I just want to ruin your reputation and expose the kind of person you truly are!"

"Emily, what will you gain from doing this?"

Melissa had completely lost her patience with this woman. Dealing with such a shrew was truly exhausting.

"Gain? I don't care about gains. I just want my daughter out. If you don't help, I'll come here every day until the hospital fires you!" Emily spoke fiercely.

"Fine, I'll find someone to teach you a lesson."

Melissa didn't pay much attention to her words and made a phone call.

Half an hour later, Howell stormed in, seething with anger. The moment he entered, he saw his wife sitting in the lobby, yelling.

In an instant, anger surged through him, accompanied by a deep sense of shame.

He had worked tirelessly for years, determined not to be looked down upon by others as he had been in the past.

But now, all his efforts seemed to crumble at the hands of this woman.

If people recognized Emily for who she truly was, Howell knew he would be subject to disdain.

Our ads aim to provide better support for authors.

