

Chapter 1446 Successful Comprehension

Liam entered a quiet, secluded cultivation. He was determined to maintain his strength at its highest level during this time.

As his consciousness slowly submerged into the Sea of Laws, he quickly entered a meditative state.

While immersed in the world of the Sea of Laws, his consciousness became clear and ethereal.

His initial plan for the seclusion this time was to comprehend the law power deeper.

Just as he concentrated, ready to choose one of the law powers he already knew, he unexpectedly sensed a connection.

Liam discovered that within the Sea of Laws, a particular law power had unexpectedly connected with him.

Upon a closer look, he recognized it as the law power of the fire element, one of the five elemental law powers he had been striving to master.

He had already mastered the law powers of water, metal, and wood through various treasures and fortunate experiences.

Along with his natural mastery of the law power of the earth element, the law power of the fire element was the only one missing from his five elemental law powers.

Liam couldn't help but feel excited after unexpectedly connecting with the law power of the fire element.

If he could comprehend the fire law power this time, he would be one step closer to mastering all five elemental law powers.

This was a rare opportunity for him.

Without further hesitation, Liam immediately tried to establish a connection with the fire law power.

He shut his eyes firmly and began the process of comprehension.

To Liam's surprise, the fire law power didn't resist his presence much. Instead, it flowed smoothly, as if naturally guiding him toward understanding.

Although it wasn't as cooperative as the death law power he had encountered before, the comprehension process proceeded relatively smoothly.

Furthermore, Liam already possessed spark metal, which made the entire process smoother. He didn't encounter the challenges he had previously faced when trying to grasp other law powers.

But he didn't let his guard down. He understood that gaining the fire law power's acknowledgment was only the first step. The key aspect was whether he could effectively integrate the fire law power into his body.

Thus, Liam remained focused, relying on his unwavering willpower to withstand the invasive effects of the fire law power on his body.

Time flew quickly in the Sea of Laws.

By the fifth day, Liam's consciousness gradually began to awaken.

As he examined his body, his eyes lit up with joy.

With a casual flick of his hand, a crimson flame suddenly sparked at his fingertips.

The flame blazed fiercely, sending out waves of intense heat.

Liam exhaled deeply and felt his mind relax considerably.

He hadn't anticipated that the fire law power, which he had pursued so relentlessly, would present itself to him in such a way. Not only that, but he had seized the chance and successfully refined it.

Although his current mastery of the fire law power was only at 1%, making it much weaker compared to the other law powers he had mastered, he was still extremely happy.

His successful mastery of the fire law power brought him a step closer to uniting the five elemental law powers.

He only needed to comprehend the fire law power more, and soon, he would be able to master the five elemental law powers.
