

Submit 506

Chapter 506 Jeanne Goes Crazy

As soon as Lucia finished, Jeanne was already staring at her with wide eyes and some shock, and soon, the shock on her face turned to anger, "Lucia, you know everything. Why did you set me up?"

She had indeed sent someone around Olivia. It was originally for other purposes, but she didn't expect it to come in handy in this matter as well, otherwise she wouldn't have known so much,

The more Jeanne thought about it, the angrier she became. The anger rushed to her head, and she stared at Lucia, asking viciously, "Are you trying to turn me in?"

Before Lucia could answer, she saw Jeanne approaching her fiercely, stretching out her two hands and then grabbed her neck. Jeanne moved so quickly that Lucia was completely unprepared. She was grabbed her neck and pushed back. The ground near the rockery was not very flat, so she stumbled back a few steps and almost fell down.

Suddenly, her head hit the rockery with a thud, and her whole body was pushed backwards by Jeanne. She was pressed against the rockery, with no way out.

Jeanne clenched her teeth and said with hatred, "Lucia! It's all because of you! You made me what I am now! Now you still try to harm me! You wanna turn me in! I'm not gonna let you do that! Go to hell! Lucia, you should have died!"

Her eyes were red, and her whole body was taken over by anger. She was completely out of her mind. Her two hands were stuck on Lucia's neck, and she pushed Lucia back with force. Lucia only felt like a bundle of hemp rope tightly tied around her neck, making her unable to breathe, or call for help. She stretched out her hands, trying to pull Jeanne's two hands away. But Jeanne was with brute strength, and coupled with the location advantage, Lucia was no match for her.

She struggled to make a sound, "Jeanne, let go of..."

There was no one else. Usually people did not come to the rockery. Plus the two of them hiding in the back of the rockery, people passing through the little park in the distance would not notice it at all. In addition, Lucia's neck was strangled by Jeanne and she could not make a loud sound. There was no way to call for help.

Jeanne looked fierce, stared at Lucia and refused to let go. "Lucia, you should have died! And your two bastards! If not for Paula that bitch to protect them last time, they would be the ones who were in a coma in their sickbeds!"

were like a thunderclap that exploded in Lucia's ears. She had been struggling to find her, she did everything! But at this time, Lucia's neck was tightly strangled by Jeanne. It became more and more difficult for her to breathe. Her face turned from red to blue, and her arms struggled so badly. She was like a dying fish, opening her mouth to try to breathe, but her consciousness diminished little by little, and her killed by Jeanne like this?' Lucia thought with the last of to lose consciousness suddenly, a black figure flashed next to her. And then, she vaguely saw a man appear behind Jeanne, and also felt her legs limb. She leaned towards the rockery, gasped and her hands. An unbearable looked at the fainted Jeanne on the ground, and then at the at her, said nothing, and left. man looked familiar. Before she could step and quickly chased after the man. After a few steps, a light bulb went off in Lucia's head. A picture came into her mind, and the man's face,coincided with that. her steps to chase after him. If this had helped her, she could not easily pass up the opportunity presented to her. and walking along the sidewalk for a while, Lucia's voice slowly recovered and man seemed to know that she was following him, and when he heard her voice, he turned around. There was no look of surprise on his face. He just stared and her throat also felt a little pain. She swallowed her saliva then eagerly cheered up immediately, his head, with the corners of his eyes drooping. Seeing this, Lucia also felt a little lost. She paused, thinking of what just not believe remote that no one would see them. Then how did he rush over