

Submit 566

Chapter 566 Great Wits Have Short Memories.

In the direction of the doorway, Zane led his men to unload. the breakfast, emitting a tempting aroma, The children's eyes shone with star-like light. For them, even having breakfast was a difficult thing to achieve. After a few of Zane's men finished distributing breakfast to the children, Lucia stood aside and watched them devour their food. She smiled.

Zane came over, lowered his voice and asked, "Lucia, when they're done with breakfast, what are you going to do after that?"

Lucia was stunned by the question, and her face gradually became serious. She took a deep breath and pondered for a moment before saving softly, "First, count out the children who are not orphans. I will take them to the police station to check their account information and see if we can get some clues."

Zane then asked, "What about the rest of the children who have no father or mother?"

"I'm going to take them to the Child Protection Society to register and see if there are any families willing to adopt them. Then I'll take them to the welfare houses I've chosen and do a site visit. It it's suitable, they'll be in the welfare house first."

When Zane heard that, he froze and said, "That's a tough task. With so many children and so many things to do, it will be very time and energy consuming for you."

He paused and added with some concern, "Lucia, are you planning to take the whole process by yourself?"

Lucia took a deep breath, nodded gently and said, "I'm sure I wouldn't feel at ease if I wasn't in charge of the whole process from start to end."

Zane advised gently, "But your legs... Besides, will the police department cooperate with you? Finding identification information for these children who have no clear identity is not an easy job."

Lucia slightly frowned but did not know what to say. Just then, an abrupt ringing of her cell phone interrupted her thoughts. She snapped back to her senses and hurriedly fished out her phone. There was an unfamiliar number flashing on the screen.

before answering the words fell. Soon, a clear male voice came, "Don't memories?"

voice caused Lucia to be slightly stunned before she responded. She said, "Darnell?"

said, "Why are you so surprised? Didn't you make a note of my phone

She lost his cell

And now he knew she forgot to make a note of his number laughed awkwardly, took a deep breath and said, "Sorry, I forgot...

through, "Where are you now? Have you gone to look he helped her to find Garnett. He told

But last night she couldn't wait to a soft voice, "I've found him."

gently, "You did it so quickly."

and replied, "I went here

How is the situation? It doesn't sound like you're saying "

How do you know?"

smiled and asked, "Go ahead. What's having breakfast over there. She was touched. Thinking of his job, she hesitated and confessed, "This is a criminal gang that abets children to beg for money. There are more than twenty children homeless and the address?

you want to do?"

going on. Maybe I the address. It was only ten minutes before an SUV stopped in front of Sunshine Plant.

to report, "Lucia, Darnell's he spoke, Lucia looked up and saw Darnell. He was wearing a military uniform and walked in. He was tall and handsome in military uniform and had a powerful presence that was intimidating. When they first met, serious this time. He was like the light, shining brightly were surprised to see him. They came together to whisper, "Look, look! Policeman..." "He's not a policeman.

"He's so handsome..."