Chapter 174: The True Genius Girl, Serena!

Shaun Spencer looked directly at Serena Sterling, surprised that someone could restrain Bayside's venerable grandmother. But why was it a little girl?

Serena Sterling raised her hand, and the second needle fell onto Old Mrs. Rathborne's head. She smiled softly, "Madam, I'm not lying. That piece of candy is indeed made from Snow Grass. However, Snow Grass is a medicinal herb, and the tumor in your brain is pressing on nerves, which likely means you usually avoid taking medicine. Your health has deteriorated significantly. This pill can temporarily protect your heart meridian, and paired with my acupuncture, it can temporarily ensure your safety. However, you must undergo surgery quickly. This surgery will not be easy and may be quite risky. But as I said, Madam, you are very fortunate. I'm not just a little fairy; I'm the Daluo Golden Immortal sent by the heavens to save you, and I will do my utmost to save you!"

Old Mrs. Rathborne felt a bit sleepy. The girl's gentle and soft voice seemed to carry a magical power that lulled her to sleep. She murmured stubbornly, "I also said, you are my little fairy."

With that, Old Mrs. Rathborne fell asleep.

Serena Sterling withdrew the Golden Needle, and Piper Pace quickly stepped forward to check Old Mrs. Rathborne's pulse. Shocked, she exclaimed, "The madam has indeed passed this crisis. Her pulse is now very calm."

Yasmine Sterling felt as if she had fallen into an abyss. Her legs weakened, and she took several steps back, finally leaning against the wall to prevent herself from collapsing in embarrassment.

Could Serena Sterling really perform... the Golden Needle sealing technique?

If she hadn't seen it with her own eyes, she would never have believed it!

Serena Sterling was just a country bumpkin returning from the rural areas, a medical failure with only a high school diploma.

They both studied medicine, but Yasmine Sterling wasn't so foolish as to not recognize the brilliance and precision in Serena Sterling's needlework. This was truly at a master level.

Serena Sterling didn't lie; she really saved the madam.

Why?

How could this happen?

What went wrong?

Yasmine Sterling felt that her once-bright life had instantly turned dark. She could no longer see the path ahead or her future.

The entire audience was in an uproar, as everyone witnessed Serena Sterling's Golden Needle sealing technique firsthand,

My goodness, it really was Serena Sterling who saved the madam!

How is Serena Sterling so remarkable? She has no formal education. Wasn't she supposed to be a medical failure?

I don't get it either, but facts speak louder than arguments. Yasmine Sterling was the fake genius girl, and the true genius girl is Serena Sterling!

Because today was a live broadcast, Serena Sterling's bombshell revelation caused an immediate sensation across the internet. The genius girl Serena Sterling instantly topped the trending lists, followed by the word "explosive."

Everyone was dumbstruck, not knowing what had happened. The supposed medical failure had stunningly reversed her fate to become the true genius girl, and everything about Serena Sterling had become a mystery.

People wanted to say something but were at a loss for words. Just a moment ago, they were berating Serena Sterling across the internet, and the next moment, they were being harshly proven wrong by her actions.

It's the first time everyone truly delved into the mystery of the girl named Serena Sterling. Apart from knowing she was sent to the countryside at nine and returned as a substitute bride, they knew nothing about her.

She is always cloaked in a veil of mystery that obscures clarity.

The entire online community fell into a silence, and the whole of Bayside became quiet because of Serena Sterling.

Old Mrs. Rathborne was once again taken to the intensive care unit. Serena Sterling walked out of the medical building, and everyone from the research institute came out, standing at a respectful distance, watching her.

At that moment, Piper Pace approached hurriedly, looking at Serena Sterling with a conflicted expression, "Serena Sterling, I never expected you to possess such astounding medical skills. Now I understand why the director called me overnight, requesting your immediate transfer to the research institute."

As she spoke, Piper Pace continued, "Serena Sterling, I need to apologize to you sincerely. Truth be told, I had a bias against you from the start, so when you and Yasmine Sterling conflicted, I mistakenly believed her. All the honors that Yasmine Sterling received should have been yours. The director returns today, and I will confess everything to him, resign for my oversight, and at the same time, I hope you consider returning to the research institute. The institute needs talented medical professionals like you."

Piper Pace took full responsibility for her work and was accountable for her actions. She now apologized and intended to bear all consequences, but she earnestly pleaded for Serena Sterling to return.

She was the one who drove Serena Sterling away, and now she wished to invite her back.

Serena Sterling's bright eyes looked at Piper Pace, curling her lips into a smile, "Director Pace, I do not blame you, but regarding my return to the institute, I need some time to think about it."

With that, Serena Sterling turned and left.

She did not immediately agree to return to the research institute.

Piper Pace and everyone else watched as Serena Sterling's graceful silhouette departed. In the golden glow of the setting sun, the girl walked lightly into that golden radiance, the breeze gently lifting her skirt and long hair, revealing a touch of enchanting elegance.

Yasmine Sterling also arrived, clenching her hands into tight fists at her sides. She knew that from this moment on, Serena Sterling had already walked into the dazzling limelight, becoming the focus.

At this moment, Piper Pace turned and walked over to Yasmine Sterling, her expression very stern, "Yasmine Sterling, ever since you joined the research institute, I had high hopes for you, but you forgot, medical skills are secondary, character comes first. This time, you maliciously claimed credit for saving someone, misled public opinion, and nearly caused Old Mrs. Rathborne to die. I will make an official announcement criticizing you throughout the institute, and from this moment, you are suspended until the director returns to personally deal with your misconduct!"

Yasmine Sterling's mind buzzed. She knew she was finished. This time it was truly over. She moved her lips to plead, "Director Pace, I..."

Piper Pace didn't want to hear another word from her and left directly.

Piper Pace was gone, leaving Yasmine Sterling standing frozen. She felt the eyes of everyone converging on her, pointing, disdainful, sympathetic, disgusted, looking at her like a spectacle... everything.

At this moment, Joan Alden ran over, "Yasmine, what on earth happened, was it really Serena Sterling who saved Old Mrs. Rathborne?"

Joan Alden still couldn't believe it was true, the person he most despised and loathed, Serena Sterling, turned out to be the real genius girl, so he came to ask Yasmine Sterling in person.

"Yasmine, you should check Weibo yourself. At this moment, Weibo has exploded, and all major journals in Bayside are covering the story of you as the fake genius girl. The institute's announcement criticizing you was also made public immediately, and the crowdfunding account to pay off twelve billion for you was instantly closed. Many mainstream media outlets are publicly criticizing you, stating that your medical fraud and deception of the public is a reflection of a flawed character, with very sharp words."
