

Substitute B 262

Chapter 262: The New Campus Belle

Principal Tucker of A University is a sentimental person, one of the few intellectuals who favored the Sterling family. The last scandal case was handled poorly by Vice Principal Zhou, who was concerned about the school's reputation, and Sterling family's uproar at T University greatly satisfied Principal Tucker.

It's just that for the past few years, Principal Tucker has been a little frustrated. The academic atmosphere at A University is getting worse, already at the bottom among universities in Aethelgard, and back in the day, he and Vice Principal Zhou were classmates. Now every time there's a meeting, Vice Principal Zhou looks at him like a proud rooster, towering high above him, suppressing him completely. So, despite being only in his forties, Principal Tucker nearly has no hair left on the top of his head.

Serena laughed joyfully, "Principal Tucker, you have a good eye. If you accept my daughter, Serena, I promise you'll be pleasantly surprised in the future."

"Mr. Sterling, I respect you greatly and naturally I like your daughter very much, but the school has rules. Your daughter's entry into A University requires me to first understand her academic qualifications and achievements."

Three months ago, when Jude Crawford left with Hayden Crawford, they erased all memories of Serena Sterling in Bayside. The power of capital was too strong.

And when Serena Sterling was thirteen, she was recommended to the top medical institution T University, which is the same T University that just turned these three away. She refreshed the entire history of T University, setting the latest record in the medical field.

However, when she became a dual post-doctoral fellow at fifteen, Serena was chosen to participate in a secret research project, so all her academic qualifications were sealed into a confidential file by the headmaster of T University, not to be disclosed.

Back when Serena was at T University, Vice Principal Zhou hadn't been promoted yet and was merely a dean. She didn't have a deep impression of him.

The youth genius program naturally had a gap with the regular entrants of T University, and after five years, Vice Principal Zhou might have an impression of her but can't recall it anymore.

The Academy recruits annually from these medical universities; she didn't want the Sterling family to suffer between her and T University, so choosing A University was a fine alternative.

Serena came to the City of Aethelgard this time hoping she could successfully obtain the second treasure box left by her mother.

"Principal Tucker, my previous academic qualifications cannot be disclosed due to certain reasons, but I have here an introduction letter personally written by Dean Vincent Terry of the Bayside Concordiat Research Institute." Serena handed over the introduction letter.

Principal Tucker is from the same circle as Dean Vincent Terry and naturally knows him. He opened the introduction letter and glanced at it, astonished, "I'm quite familiar with Dean Terry, he has high standards, yet he wrote a personal introduction letter for you."

Serena's bright eyes looked at Principal Tucker, "Principal Tucker, you can accept me first. Isn't the joint exam coming soon? You can check my exam results then decide whether to officially admit me. Anyway, I'm confident; if Principal Tucker is willing to invest in me, you absolutely won't be disappointed."

Principal Tucker looked at the girl's eyes, which sparkled with brilliance, dazzling and reassuring with a calm confidence that was infectious. His previously frustrated heart suddenly started racing with anticipation. He had a premonition that this girl might rewrite the history of A University's low ranking!

He's struck gold!

"Alright, I'll accept you!"

...

Serena chose the Traditional Chinese Medicine major. The class bell rang, and Traditional Chinese Medicine class 2 was Principal Tucker's class, yet the students in the class were all laughing and playing, with no serious study atmosphere.

At this moment, Principal Tucker walked in and tapped on the desk, "Students, quiet down."

Being the principal, the students gave him some respect and quieted down, but they were all lying on the desks, sleeping.

"..."

Principal Tucker felt he would soon turn bald; these little brats were so unruly, his psychological pressure was immense, "Students, today we have a new student in Traditional Chinese Medicine class 2. Her name is Serena Sterling. Everyone, welcome the new student."

As he finished speaking, Serena walked in from the door.

Someone exclaimed, "Whoa!"

"Stop sleeping, wake up, the new student... is so beautiful!"

"Don't bother me, the prettiest girl is at T University, she's the campus belle Anabelle Rathborne, could she be prettier than Anabelle Rathborne?"

"That's right, I'll nap first, and later after school, I'll rush to T University to see Anabelle Rathborne; I'm sure today's queue will be massive again."

"Stop talking, quickly look at the new student, she really is prettier than Anabelle Rathborne!"

"A girl prettier than T University's campus belle Anabelle Rathborne?"

The students who were lying on the tables ready to sleep raised their heads one by one, seeing Serena standing next to Principal Tucker.

Serena had already switched to A University's uniform—a white shirt with a sailor collar, a pleated sailor skirt modestly covering her knees, slim and straight legs, small white shoes; that teenage figure appeared delicately graceful, the uncovered milky skin like premium lamb fat, making one unable to look away.

She had tied her jet-black locks into a low ponytail, several strands entwined around her snowy neck, wearing a facial veil that obscured her visage, yet her bright captivating eyes were mesmerizing.

Since her rebirth, Serena's aura had only grown more ethereal and otherworldly.

Wow.

Traditional Chinese Medicine class 2 was collectively gasping, everyone's gaze stuck like magnets onto Serena's form—was she a little fairy?

Having the veil didn't diminish her beauty at all, rather added mystery, urging others to remove it.

Serena stood obediently, her voice clear and sweet as she spoke, "Hello everyone, I'm the new student Serena Sterling. I hope we can learn well together."

Wow, does a little fairy's voice sound this beautiful?

Some students began drooling.

The usually noisy Traditional Chinese Medicine class 2 fell silent, even Principal Tucker found it unusual; indeed, beautiful people have their charm.

Principal Tucker was also curious, how could a family like the Sterlings have such an enchantingly beautiful daughter? In terms of looks alone, the T University's campus belle Anabelle Rathborne would have to concede.

Principal Tucker seemed to already taste the sweetness of victory and could not help laughing inwardly a few times.

"Serena, sit next to Tiana Ford." Principal Tucker pointed to a seat.

"Alright."

Serena sat beside a girl named Tiana Ford. Tiana had never seen such a little fairy herself; she actively helped pull out a chair for Serena.

Serena kindly smiled, "Thank you."

Tiana's pulse quickened; oh no, she's going to pass out!

...

Serena is now the center of attention in the high circles of Aethelgard, especially after a phone call during Anabelle Rathborne's birthday party that rocketed her to fame. The news of her entering the struggling A University quickly spread and reached the ears of James Sawyer.