Chapter 283: Serena Sterling Dances

Anabelle Rathborne was surrounded by many people,

Annette, look, T University is about to perform!

Our baby act is the most explosive, no one can surpass us, we're just waiting to see T University's joke.

T University's cheerleading team is probably the worst.

T University might have a lot of popularity, but everyone is waiting for their performance, obviously to... see them make a fool of themselves.

Anabelle was no exception, she was looking forward most to T University's Serena Sterling's performance. It would be an embarrassment for Serena to perform and make Anabelle look even better. This time she wanted Hayden Crawford to see who the real star was.

Annette, wipe your sweat with a towel.

Annette, have a sip of water.

Anabelle sweetly thanked everyone, and her gaze fell on Hayden Crawford's tall and striking figure on the viewing platform. She was determined to win him over.

Look, T University is performing!

Anabelle quickly raised her eyes as Serena led T University's cheerleading team onto the stage.

This time, T University's cheerleading outfit was a white T-shirt with a black pleated skirt below. The design was very simple, but the simplicity made these young girls appear particularly pure and charming. They had their long black hair tied up in high ponytails, and the short white T-shirts would slightly reveal their snake-like slender waists, adding a hint of tempting allure to their innocence.

Anabelle's pupils shrank intensely. This time, all the university girls were competing to outshine each other, none wanting to fall behind, so they chose colorful and vibrant cheerleading outfits. But T University chose the purest and simplest white, and as soon as they entered, it was like a breeze that captured everyone's attention.

This is when Anabelle heard the discussions around her,

Wow, why is T University's team so good-looking this time?

Look at Serena Sterling in the center position, that's C University's campus queen, rumored to have shot up to No. 2 on the campus beauty chart overnight.

That campus queen is really beautiful, her temperament is so ethereal, like a little fairy.

Not just like, I think she is the real-life little fairy.

Anabelle looked at Serena Sterling in the center position. This was her first public appearance after unveiling, she had her hair in a high ponytail, revealing a palm-sized stunning face. The girl was in great shape, with exquisite curves. What was most striking was her delicate and ethereal temperament, very fairy-like.

As soon as Serena Sterling appeared, she instantly became the focus of the entire audience.

Anabelle was so angry she dug her nails into her palms. At this time, her teammate Hailey whispered, "Annette, what's going on with T University this time? Is there a master minding things behind the scenes?"

"Don't worry, let's see what dance they're doing first," Anabelle sneered. Although T University's looks were up this time, if they couldn't dance well, it didn't matter.

"Yes, it's well known that they don't have much dance foundation, I don't believe their dance can surpass ours!" Hailey said confidently.

Then the music started playing, a very sweet "honey".

On stage, Tiana Ford and the others were already sweating with nerves, they took a deep breath and quickly composed themselves.

Serena Sterling stood gracefully in the center, not nervous or stage-frightened at all, her bright and dark eyes shone as the music began, leading everyone in the dance with small, delicate movements.

Leah Thorne choreographed this "honey" very simply, left hand resting on the heart, right hand making a circle... the basic moves are just that, compared to Anabelle's hot "baby", the difficulty is miles apart.

However, with these moves performed by girls in white T-shirts and black skirts, they appeared cute and adorable, with a slight touch of cheekiness that struck right into the hearts of the young male audience.

With a snap, the basketball team captain from T University accidentally dropped his water bottle, staring in a daze.

Serena Sterling had a dance background, easily mastering this "honey", and halfway through the dance, they turned around, and Serena raised her eyes, that tall and striking figure on the viewing platform suddenly appearing in her vision.

She suddenly saw Hayden Crawford.

Now Hayden Crawford was also looking at her, she didn't know if her eyesight was too good or if his gaze was too overt and straightforward, she could clearly see his deep, narrow eyes lingering on her, casually scanning her up and down.

That was the way a man looks at a woman.

Serena Sterling's pretty face suddenly flushed with a suspicious blush, dancing this playful little dance in front of the man she liked made her heart inevitably feel a bit shy.

But thinking about his vile conduct and his insistence on accusing her of seduction, what did she have to fear?

Serena Sterling followed the music, placing her small hand on her slim waist and swaying her hips directly in front of him.

On the viewing platform, Hayden Crawford's eyes suddenly darkened, his Adam's apple moved slowly twice, she still dared to deny she was trying to seduce him, now she dared to sway her hips in front of everyone in broad daylight, if that's not seduction, what is it, she's getting bolder.

Hayden Crawford didn't know how much effort she put in to seduce him, he just felt that everything about her, her palm-sized stunning face, her dark, bright eyes, her slender and delicate young body, were all things he liked.

He noticed her style of dressing, she liked wearing pure and gentle or sweet colors, and even this "honey" dance, all kept his eyes fixed on her.

He never dared to think that a girl would suddenly appear in this world, as if custom-made for him, fulfilling all his fantasies and affections for a girl.

Hayden Crawford also felt he was being very unusual lately, like today, he intentionally mentioned to Principal Tucker at T University, and even agreed to stay and watch these cheerleaders dance.

He never used to do these things.

He seemed to have been influenced by her in some unseen way.

By this time, the "honey" dance was nearing its end, and Serena Sterling led T University's cheerleading team in bowing and exiting the stage.

Ahhhhh!

The whole place erupted with screams, some even took out small horns to blow, the atmosphere had already surpassed Anabelle's opening performance.

Serena Sterling ended with a "honey" and became the queen of this basketball game cheerleading competition.

Hailey was stomping her feet angrily, "Annette, T University was so despicable this year, they must have guessed our routine and went against it. As soon as their 'honey' hit, our 'baby' seemed too overly hot, not like what college girls would dance, these guys now love the soft and sweet 'honey' type, it's trendy, they've completely nailed what guys like, easily stepping over us to rise to the top."

Anabelle of course knew this, now their "baby" act became an accompaniment, this time T University played a perfect psychological game.

How did T University get so good suddenly?

Anabelle looked up, and suddenly saw a lazy and charming figure in the crowd, it was... Leah Thorne!

It was Leah Thorne!

When Anabelle looked again, Leah Thorne had already disappeared.
