

Substitute B 297

Chapter 297: Driving a Luxury Car to Her School Gate

Serena this statement caused everyone to gasp in shock. What? She actually publicly challenged Aethelgard's prestigious university's flower and top student, Anabelle Rathborne?

Anabelle not only has high popularity and a good reputation, but she also works very hard in private. Every time she submits answers, they're impressive. She is Principal Tucker's favorite and has high expectations. No one has dared challenge her so far.

Now Serena Sterling has just arrived, having been rejected by T University, and is now at A University, where she ended up at the bottom of the exam rankings. Yet, she brazenly challenges Anabelle Rathborne.

This scene really shocked everyone. How could she have such confidence?

Anabelle curled her lips into a smile, "Serena, are you serious? Do you really want to challenge me? Why don't you go back and think it over? I feel that if I were to compete on stage with you, it would truly be bullying."

Anabelle is full of confidence. In the joint exams, she really looks down on Serena. It's not about comparing looks and beauty; it's about the accumulation of knowledge and wisdom.

Now, the brilliant sunrise bathes the earth in a splendid golden hue. Serena Sterling stands bathing in the sunlight, her clear water-like eyes calmly looking at Anabelle, "Anabelle Rathborne, if you didn't hear me clearly, I'll say it again—I want to challenge you in the upcoming joint exams. Do you dare to accept the challenge?"

Anabelle was stunned by Serena's current spirit. She hummed, "Alright, Serena Sterling, I accept the challenge. Let's see who excels in the joint exams!"

"Okay!" Serena nodded.

Tiana Ford was inspired by Serena's courage. She realized that if Serena dared to challenge Anabelle, then what should she be afraid of? She quickly stood up, "Serena, how can I let you fight alone? We said yesterday, we share honor and shame together. Although I can't challenge Anabelle, in this joint exam, I will give my all to push A University into the top five!"

Soon others stood out, whether male or female, they stood by Serena one after another, "I'm joining too. Back in the day, I entered A University ranking twelfth in the province, but I've been slacking off for the past two years. I'm not sure if picking up the books again will feel unfamiliar!"

"I'm also joining. My grades aren't good. I barely got into A University, having not studied seriously before. I wonder if studying hard now will surprise myself!"

"I'm also joining, striving for A University's honor. Every extra point counts!"

Everyone stood up, their voices powerful and robust. They wanted to fight alongside Serena. They wondered if in the future, knowing Serena is the 15-year-old double postdoctoral fellow who set the historic score in the medical field, they would laugh at themselves for being naive to dare to compete against T University.

On the other side, T University's students' expressions changed repeatedly. This scene reminded them of yesterday on the basketball court where A University showed unity, and they displayed surprising potential. Now they are pulling the same trick again.

T University's students suddenly got a bit scared, fearing history would repeat itself.

Anabelle forcefully clenched her fist. She had to admit Serena easily influences others. Joining A University, she hasn't been changed by it but has changed the entire A University.

The students around her used to be sluggish and lazy, but now standing by her side, they are energized and full of vibrancy.

Anabelle's gaze cooled, "Alright, we'll see each other at the joint exam!"

Anabelle led T University's people away.

Principal Tucker arrived early, naturally seeing what had happened just now. Now looking at the students around Serena, radiant and full of fighting spirit, they seemed alive. Principal Tucker contentedly hummed, this is what youth is all about.

Principal Tucker experienced the most reassuring day in history. He walked around the entire A University with his hands behind his back inspecting. The students who could never be awakened before now sit up straight, starting to listen to the teachers' lectures. Although many didn't understand and secretly cursed, they would quickly pick up pens and crazy borrow notes from their desk mates to catch up.

It's impossible to leap to the top, but as they've said, every extra point counts. Those who used to hand in blank papers aim to score more than ten points.

Principal Tucker strolled back to his office and looked in the mirror. He was amazed to find a hair growing on his bald spot.

Wow.

He grew hair!

...

In the blink of an eye, it was afternoon and time to end the school day, but the students in Class 2 of Traditional Medicine hadn't moved.

"Serena, lend me your notebook to take home. I'll have the servants at home make copies, and distribute them to more classmates tomorrow."

"Jeez, you're bringing your household servants to study with you!"

"My parents gave up on me a long time ago. Tonight, I'll bring home a test paper, and I'm sure my parents will touch my head and ask with concern, 'Son, are you okay?' Haha."

The class was filled with laughter and cheer. Serena also curved her red lips into a smile as she picked up a pen to make a more detailed and understandable note. This is incredibly simple for a genius student.

The joint exam questions from previous years are all in her head, and she has roughly guessed the exam patterns. She's preparing to make exam papers to share with everyone.

At this moment, her phone rang with a call coming in; it was Zane Crawford.

Serena pressed the button to answer, "Hello, Zane."

"Serena, I'm at your school gate right now, come out for a moment."

Zane Crawford came!

He's waiting for her at the school gate now!

Serena quickly picked up her phone and ran outside, soon spotting Zane Crawford's slender figure at the school gate, leaning against the silver Maybach car body, quietly waiting for her.

The Maybach, a world-class luxury car, is always of the quality type, especially in silver it looks even more premium. The luxury car fits well with Zane Crawford's aura, like the car and its owner.

It's time for school to end, and T University's students are coming out, all screaming,

"Oh my god, quick look, who is that!"

It's Zane Crawford, our T University's pride!

Senior Crawford is one of the two legends of T University!

The other legend of T University seems to be a 15-year-old double postdoctoral fellow. However, the information about this person is sealed, quite mysterious!

Back then, Aethelgard's major universities were flourishing and thriving, all vying for the top spot. T University became famous because of Senior Crawford and this 15-year-old genius double postdoctoral fellow, creating a sensation throughout the medical field. Thus, T University rose to its peak, never being surpassed.

Senior Crawford is truly so handsome, undoubtedly the most prestigious young man in Aethelgard.

Who is Senior Crawford here to see? It's unknown if he's visiting a certain girl; if so, that girl would be over the moon!

Just then Anabelle Rathborne also walked out and immediately saw Zane Crawford.