

Substitute B 501

Chapter 501: Now, I No Longer Love You

Serena's small face was pale, in fact, she felt like her shoulders were about to break, but she didn't make a sound.

Before coming, she was afraid that her pregnancy would be exposed, so she forcibly altered her pregnancy timeline with a needle. Even if he brought a hundred, a thousand doctors to check, the result would be the same.

Hayden Crawford let go of Serena Sterling, kicked a chair nearby, and it shattered with a "crack".

He felt like he couldn't breathe, so he started smashing the vases and lamps in the room, even swiping all the documents off the desk with a "whoosh".

All of a sudden, the entire room became a mess. The doctor and those two nurses retreated to the corner, too scared to even breathe.

It was the first time Corvus witnessed his young master so out of control. The self-control that Hayden was most proud of always crumbled in front of Serena Sterling.

Hayden smashed everything, leaving nothing unharmed. He, with his tall stature, stood by the floor-to-ceiling window, pulling at the buttons of his shirt in a frenzy.

Two buttons were torn off violently, revealing his delicate male clavicle. Now, filled with rage, his entire demeanor was cold and menacing.

Serena was a bit worried about him. Although she cured his insomnia in Bayside, the paranoia and fury buried deep in his heart might re-emerge.

His current uncontrolled and gloomy state reminded her of his episodes in Bayside. He was showing signs of relapse.

If he had another episode this time, his condition would become even more severe.

"Hayden..." Serena stepped forward.

Hayden didn't let her speak, he reached out and rudely pulled her into his arms, "Serena, you lied to me, indeed the prettier the woman, the more deceitful! You said yourself in the forbidden area, as long as I didn't sleep with Annette Rathborne, you wouldn't leave me, but now, how many days have you been with Seth Sullivan before you couldn't wait to sleep with him?"

"Serena, you know my bottom line, you know my reverse scale, yet you still betrayed me. How could you conceive someone else's child?"

"Serena, have I treated you too well, to the point where you now recklessly trample on me, repeatedly crushing my genuine feelings for you? I'm a fucking fool!"

Hayden shouted out this sentence and then shook his head, "No more, I will no longer spoil you. I spoiled you before because I wanted to, now you must listen to me!"

Serena looked at him, "What do you want to do?"

"What do you think?" Hayden slowly curled his thin lips into a mocking and bloodthirsty arc, "I once said, don't push me, or I won't know what I'll do."

Saying this, Hayden's sinister gaze fell on her stomach.

In his eyes, Serena saw a ferocious hatred, her pupils constricted, she quickly used her small hands to protect her belly, "Hayden, what exactly do you want to do?"

"Serena, you betrayed me, I will make sure Seth Sullivan is wiped off the face of the earth, and you, obediently get rid of the spawn in your belly for me, I will imprison you, and wait until you cleanse this filthy body to serve me again!"

Serena gasped, retreating constantly, "Hayden, you can't do this, you can't touch my child!"

Hayden coldly watched her protect that spawn in her belly, she could discard his child at will, yet protect Seth's child like this.

Hayden had never hated anyone so much before, now he hated her, really hated her, really.

Forcing himself to look away, Hayden feared he couldn't resist killing her. He narrowed his sharp gaze to the doctor beside him, "What are you waiting for, go prepare the abortion medicine!"

Wiping cold sweat, the doctor replied, "Yes, yes."

...

Soon, the doctor brought over a bowl of black medicine, trembling, "Young... young master, the abortion medicine is ready."

Hayden pressed his thin lips together and commanded, "Pour it down her throat!"

"Yes." The doctor walked towards Serena.

Serena kept retreating, shaking her head in resistance, "I won't drink the abortion medicine, Hayden, you can't do this, I will definitely not drink it."

Hayden sat on the dark red sofa, staring at Serena with a sinister ferocity and repeating in a deep voice, "Pour the medicine down her throat!"

The doctor looked at the two nurses, "You two come over and hold Miss Serena down."

The two nurses quickly moved forward, grabbed Serena, and the doctor pinched Serena's nose with one hand, trying to force the abortion medicine into her mouth with the other.

"No! No!" Serena kicked out, hitting the doctor.

The doctor, unprepared, was hit and stumbled back a few steps, spilling all the medicine in the bowl.

Nobody expected Serena to have such strong combat ability. The doctor, embarrassed and scared, looked at Hayden, after all, she was the young master's woman, they dared not deal harshly, "Young master, we can't handle Miss Serena, what should we do?"

"A bunch of useless!" Hayden reprimanded, then took a new bowl of medicine, striding towards Serena.

Breaking free from the nurses' restraint, Serena quickly ran to the balcony. It was nighttime, the cold wind from outside blew in, causing her dress to flutter noisily.

She watched Hayden approach step by step, "Hayden, don't come any closer. If you do, I will jump from here!"

Hayden paused, after a few seconds, he lifted his leg again and walked towards her, "Serena, before you always used yourself to threaten me, now you're using the spawn of Seth Sullivan to threaten me, don't you find yourself disgusting? Before, you always relied on my love for you, now, I've stopped loving you!"

He said he no longer loved her.

Serena felt a sharp knife deeply thrust into her heart, causing her unbearable pain.

But, this was good.

Even if she couldn't cure her fleeting youth, even if she died, he wouldn't grieve or shed tears for her.

"Fine, Hayden, you said this yourself. Remember these words, keep them in your heart, don't forget, in the future, if you show any sign of still loving me, I will ridicule you and look down on you!"

In her clear eyes, tinged with crystalline tears, Serena slowly curved her red lips, then quickly turned around, leaping off the balcony with her slender body.

She really jumped down.