

Abandoned Super Cutie Adopted by Billionaire Clan

Chapter 46

The expression on his handsome face was very serious. His voice was deliberately low, but it was not fierce at all “Look at me!

Yvonne looked at him obediently and blinked her big eyes

Damn, she’s so cute. With that thought in mind, Jeremy almost lost his cool, but he still tried hard to look like a cool brother.

He asked with a serious face, “How many times have you done this?”

Yvonne was stunned for a moment. She pointed at the kettle on the coffee table and tilted her head to ask, “Do you mean exacting play with water?”

Jeremy said. “Exactly!”

Yvonne thought. So Jeremy really doesn’t know.

The little girl stretched out a finger, her face full of honesty. “This is my first time.”

Seeing that Jeremy was about to say something, the little girl quickly added. “It’s really my first time.”

Jeremy didn’t say anything and heaved a sigh of relief, thinking, I’m so glad that she never did this before...

He liked to stay hydrated, so he always kept water in the kettle in his room.

He would probably be traumatized for a long time if he found out that Yvonne had been playing with the water in the kettle.

He let go of Yvonne and lay back a little, his expression returning to normal. “You’re not allowed to play with the water in my mug any longer. I need to drink it. I’m not drinking it if you mess with it”

Yvonne nodded obediently. “Alright, Jeremy!”

After agreeing, she got down from Jeremy’s lap and held the kettle that she had just injected her magical power into with an expectant look in her eyes. “Have some water, Jeremy.”

Jeremy was dumbfounded.

He sat up straight, and his face, which had just become happier, returned to normal.

Yvonne urged him, “Just try it, Jeremy. Let me get it for you”

The little girl eagerly held the kettle and stood on her tiptoes to pour water into Jeremy’s glass.

However, he lifted up the glass directly.

Yvonne looked at him innocently. “What are you doing, Jeremy?”

Jeremy felt helpless that she didn’t listen to what he said just now.

Jeremy carried the kettle and walked out. As he walked, he said seriously, “I can’t drink this water anymore. I need to dump it and let the nannies bring some new water over.”

Upon hearing this, the little girl hurriedly went forward and held his leg, her childish voice filled with anxious pleading. “Please don’t do that.”

Although it was a bit difficult for him to walk with her holding his leg, it did not stop him from walking, so Jeremy dragged her along “Don’t dump it! Please, Jeremy. Just try it. Please!” Yvonne begged and wheedled.

Unfortunately, Jeremy was unmoved. He was very persistent in dumping the water,

His face was full of rejection. “I won’t take a sip”

Yvonne looked up at him with teary eyes and said. “Then leave it to me if you don’t want it. I want it.”

With what she said, Jeremy really stopped and looked down at Yvonne’s teary face. His expression changed slightly and looked as if his heart had softened

However, he still rejected mercilessly, “No. You’re not allowed to drink it either. It might give you diarrhea.”

Yvonne whimpered. She was really crying because she felt terrible.

“It’s not like it’s something valuable. I’ll get Lillian to pour you some new water. With that dragged Yvonne out with him.

Seeing that there was no way to salvage the situation, Yvonne rubbed her eyes and got down from his leg

She looked around and finally pointed at the flowers planted in the flower bed outside the living room. Her heart ached as she said. Then could you please water the flower with this, Jeremy? Don’t waste it.”

Jeremy knocked lightly on her head. His tone was neither light nor heavy when he said, “Little baddie, you know it’s a waste of water, but you still played with it.”

Yvonne covered her head and felt like crying.

It seemed that she had to use another way next time.

Yvonne watched helplessly as the water that she had spent a lot of magical power on was poured on those flowers. She felt totally terrible.

After Jeremy watered the flowers, he pulled the little girl back.

Yvonne’s attention was still on the water that had been used to water the flowers. She kept looking back when she was dragged away.

Jeremy y said, “Alright now. I’ll get the servants to buy an iPad and send it to your room. There’s a toy room next to your room. There’s a home theater downstairs... If you’re bored, just go to the nannies, and they’ll take you to play.”

Jeremy said a lot. It was not until the last part that he emphasized, “In short, no more playing with water.”

Yvonne looked like she was crying. She lowered her head dejectedly. “Okay..”

After Jeremy carried her back to her room, the little girl lay weakly on the bed and let out a long sigh like an adult,

She thought, “What a waste! I put so much magical power into the water.

Exhausted. Yvonne closed her eyes and began her afternoon nap.

Her heart wouldn’t ache when she fell asleep.

Outside her room, Lillian asked all the nannies and tried all kinds of mineral water in the house, but she failed to find the kind that tasted like the water she tried

The next day, Lillian came into Yvonne’s room with a fruit platter.

She was already used to the rich floral fragrance in Yvonne’s room.

After entering, the first thing she did was look at the balcony. When she saw the lush flowers, she was stunned.

However, she suppressed the surprise in her heart and said. “Ms. Adler, these are the grapes I bought this morning. They’re already washed. Try them”

Several nannies wanted to come to Yvonne’s room to deliver fruits, but none of them could beat Lillian to it.

Yvonne was still thinking about the water. She held her chin with a worried expression.

Coincidentally, there was a picture book on the table in front of her. Lillian thought that Yvonne was troubled by her studies and did not disturb her. After putting down the fruit plate, Lillian gently closed the door and left.

After thinking for a long time. Yvonne could not think of a plan that would work. She came back to her senses and saw the green grapes on the table from the corner of her eye.

The grapes were very big and beautiful. They looked sweet.

She reached out and stuffed one into her mouth. It was just as she had imagined. It was indeed

She held the grape in her hand and looked at it for a few seconds. Suddenly, she had an idea.

She wondered that since the energy inside her could be drunk, could it also be eaten?

very sweet

At the thought of this, she plucked another grape and clenched her fist tightly. Her fingertips glowed with green light.

A few seconds later, a sweet grape smell wafted out from her hand.

It was a pure fruity fragrance that made one feel sweet just by smelling it.

Usually, grapes like this, although they tasted very sweet, were odorless.

Yvonne couldn’t wait to take a bite and then narrowed her eyes in bliss.

It was sweeter than sugar, but not too sweet at all. Instead, it had a refreshing fragrance.

After Yvonne finished more grapes, she looked at the remaining ones on the fruit platter and chuckled.

Five minutes later, the little girl knocked on Jeremy’s door with her fruit platter.

When the door opened, the first thing Jeremy saw was the grapes that Yvonne was holding up with all her might.

Yvonne’s soft voice sounded. “These are for you, Jeremy.”

Before Jeremy could say anything, the other two youths standing beside him spoke first.

Ethan Gregory said, “What a cute kid. Jeremy, is she your sister?”

Darren Winslet said, “Let me help you with that. Stop holding it up. It’s quite tiring. Just come in, little girl.”

These two were Jeremy’s good friends. They usually came over to play video games with him on the weekends.

The two of them were very easygoing. After knowing Yvonne’s name, they kept asking her questions to get to know her.

Yvonne’s face turned red. She really wanted to leave now, but she still mustered the courage to tell Jeremy. “Don’t forget to have the grapes, Jeremy. Remember that” The content is on En.novelxo.com! Read the latest chapter there!

“Got it. You can go back to your room now,” he said softly as he stroked Yvonne’s hair.

After the door closed. Yvonne rubbed her hands excitedly, wondering. I’m sure Jeremy will love the grapes I just gave him! The content is on En.novelxo.com! Read the latest chapter there!
