Chapter 51

Chapter 51

In the classroom, Yvonne took out a lot of fruits from her backpack

There were apples, grapes, oranges, and so on.

She gave all the fruits to Anna.

Anna buried her head under the table and took a bite of the grape. She squinted her eyes in bliss.

She finished it in two bites and held Yvonne's hand with sparkling eyes, feeling extremely touched.

"Yvonne, let's be good friends forever!"

Two dimples appeared on Yvonne's chubby face as she grinned.

She leaned on the table and said softly, "Anna, I bring more for you tomorrow!"

Anna widened her eyes and rubbed her hands happily.

She was thinking. That's amazing! I'll tell Dad and Mom that I'm going to marry Yvonne!"

In the evening, the two girls parted ways at the school gate.

Yvonne saw the familiar chauffeur and ran over. The moment she opened the door, she almost thought that she had got to the wrong car.

Jeremy was squeezed into the backseat. There was a young man in the front passenger seat and one in the backseat.

Darren saw Yvonne and said, "Hey, do you remember us, Yvonne?"

Ethan asked. "Can you get in the car yourself? Do you need me to carry you?"

Yvonne felt that the two of them looked a little familiar. After being stunned for a while, she remembered that these two were the people who had played video games with Jeremy yesterday.

The little girl obediently hugged her backpack and greeted them softly, "Hey, guys."

Darren was sitting in the front passenger seat, and Ethan was sitting in the backseat.

Ethan wanted to carry her in, but the little girl threw her backpack on the car and climbed up by herself.

"Wow, you're so awesome, Yvonne!" Ethan said in surprise,

Darren turned to look at her with a smile. "Good job, Yvonne

After praising her, he turned to look at Jeremy, whose face darkened, and deliberately chuckled. "Jeremy, why aren't you praising Yvonne!"

Jeremy's temples throbbed. For the first time, he felt that Darren and Ethan were so unpleasant.

He thought, 'First, they kept pestering me to go to my house after school. Now, they're trying to sow discord between me and Yvonne. They're so despicable!

On the way to the Adler family's place, Ethan and Darren kept asking Yvonne questions.

Ethan said, "Yvonne, your hands look so tender and soft. How did you take care of them?"

Darren said. "Your face looks so cute, and you've got great skin. I wish I had a sister like you

Jeremy could not stand it anymore. However, Ethan was sitting between him and Yvonne, so he could not carry her over

"Will you two shut up?" Jeremy's voice was cold. Leave my sister alone."

The atmosphere in the car fell silent for a few seconds. Then, Ethan leaned closer and smiled shamelessly. "Are you mad, Jeremy?"

Right then, the car stopped at the entrance of the Adler family's place, Jeremy did not want to stay with the two boys for a second longer. He quickly opened the car door and went to the other side to carry Yvonne out.

Unexpectedly, Darren beat him to it and picked up Yvonne.

The little girl looked dazed and helpless. She looked at Jeremy and called out for help, "Jeremy

Jeremy went up to snatch the little girl back and gave Darren and Ethan a kick each. "Stay away from my sister?"

The two of them howled indignantly as they were beaten up.

Ethan's voice was especially loud when he said, "Not cool, Jeremy. You like your sister, and I like your sister too. Shouldn't we be on the same side? Why are you hitting me?"

Darren echoed, "That's right!"

Jeremy clenched his fists harder after hearing this

However, these two troublemakers were cautious. When they entered the house, they first looked around the living room. They looked very polite as they asked carefully. "Is Mr. Adler at home?"

Jeremy asked Lillian, who said that Kelvin wasn't home.

Upon hearing this, Darren and Ethan stopped pretending and became back to themselves again.

They didn't stand on ceremony but got to the point.

Ethan said truthfully, Jeremy, to be honest, we're here to freeload fruits"

Afraid that Jeremy would reject him, Ethan rubbed his hands and begged, "Please, Jeremy. Ever since I tried your grapes, I can't eat any other fruits."

Jeremy was puzzled. "Are they that delicious?"

He wondered, "Those grapes aren't that delicious. Lillian always buys the same kind. How come they make the grapes sound like they're something valuable?"

However, thinking that it was just fruits, he didn't mind and nodded casually. "Sure. If you can't finish them here, you can take the remaining ones with you."

He sounded quite generous. Yvonne widened her eyes in shock.

She had specially touched those fruits this morning and wanted Charles and Jeremy to have them.

The little girl's adorable face looked quite sad.

Her heart hurt so much that she couldn't breathe.

Jeremy did not know what she had done for him. Even outsiders knew that the grapes were delicious, but he did not know.

That was because he was unlucky and would miss it every time.

Chapter 31

Looking at the fruits that Darren and Exhon hand packed. Jeremy inexplicably felt that the scene looked familiar.

like the time when Robin ate and took everything on the table yesterday

Thinking of Robin, Jeremy took out his phone and searched

Because he was staring at his phone, he didn't notice that Vonne port down her backpack and walked toward the kitchen.

Other than the soup and time-consuming dishes, the rest of the food in the kitchen would be cooked only when the Adler family returned

Anyway, it didn't take long to rook a few dishes.

Lillian put the sliced bacon onto the pan first. Yvonne tiptoed to get the ingredients in the basket.

Lillian suddenly turned around and smiled when she saw Yvonne. "Ms. Adler, are you hungry? Dinner will be done soon."

She thought that Yvonne was there because she was hungry.

Yvonne smiled at Lillian in embarrassment. A few minutes later, she went out with a small piece of cucumber given by

Lillian

In the living room. Ethan and Darren packed the fruits and began to call their chauffeurs to pick them up.

Just then, the two of them smelled a very fragrant smell. It was frittata.

They had just eaten a lot of fruits and were not hungry at first, but after smelling the nice smell, they could hear their stomachs growl

They looked at each other and called their chauffeurs in unison, telling them not to come over yet.

Soon, dinner was served on the dining table.

Kelvin had a party tonight and wouldn't be coming back, so Jeremy, Yvonne, Darren, and Ethan were the only ones eating there.

Looking at the table full of delicious-looking dishes, Darren quickly picked up a piece of meat with his fork and put it in his mouth

The next second, he held his face in his hands blissfully. "Damn, it's good!"

Ethan echoed, "It's so delicious, Jeremy. Why is everything in your house so delicious? Even the air here is fresher than anywhere else!"

Jeremy was looking at the news on his phone and did not reply.

He was only thinking. "The Pallas's cats that were lost in the wee hours of the morning have not been found yet?"

"Where did they go to? Why aren't the people who saw them reporting it?"

There are so many of them. This will lead to trouble.

Just then, among the flowers outside the floor-to-ceiling window, a small gray head popped out.

Immediately after, more than 20 heads popped out of the flowers.

Robin's unsmiling face actually revealed an expression of success.

"They've finally begun to eat. After saying this, Robin was the first to rush out of the grass like a wild rat. "Folks, it's time to Immediately after, all the Pallas's cats followed Robin to the door.

Such a huge commotion naturally could not escape the eyes of the people in the house.

Fihan exclaimed, "Holy shit, what is that?"

Darren shouted. "Look, there are so many stray cats! I think it's the famous Pallas's cat from the zoo!"

Jeremy was dumbfounded. The chicken he was holding with his fork fell onto his plate with a clatter, and he muttered to himself in shock, "Robin' Holy shit..."
