

Supremacy 431

Chapter 431 - The Peaceful Sea Zone.

Felix didn't bother to even glance at the boulders bridge as he did the unexpected by lying down on his blue sandy path.

While he was lying down on his stomach, he had his arm extended forward, continuing to pump out blue sand without an issue!

Whoosh!!

"Landlord's speed had further increased yet again!" Dallas commentated, "It seemed like the peacefulness of the sea is the perfect place to pull off this posture!"

Everyone was smart enough to realize that relying on this posture in the city was nothing but asking for trouble.

However, in this zone? Felix's kept wheezing by unhindered, bridging the gap slightly every second!

'If only those bastards were fighting each other.'

Felix cursed while focusing on the five frontrunners, who were too close to each other yet no one was throwing a single ability!

He figured out that it was highly likely for them to be in alliance.

He didn't know its terms but he believed that none of them would turn on each other until the last 5 kilometers or 2 kilometers!

'Queen, show me the ranking.' Felix requested.

//

1) Valkyrie's Cry

2) Dreams Nocturn

3) The Speedster

3) Shadow Hound

4) Bladetaur

5) The Summoner

6) Unpaid Landlord.

7) The Last Soul

..

39) Holy Grail.//

'So 39 players are still alive.' Felix thought while glancing behind him. Immediately after, he noticed that a pack of players was chasing after him from distance away.

It appeared that most of them were totally fine as their speed was still good enough to keep them in the marathon.

No one was weirded out by this as everyone had figured out that the earthquakes and building collapsing might sound like the apocalypse but for peak 2nd stage bloodliners? It would not get them killed that easily.

If it wasn't for so, the game wouldn't have included those disasters as they had no intentions of massacring everyone right off the bat.

The only reason the rest of the players died was either due to the beasts or other players interfering in their escape and survivability.

'They wouldn't be a problem to me.' Felix focused back in front and requested, 'Asna remind me of those 5 players' abilities.'

Asna munched on a snack while informing him about their abilities. It took her a short while to finish since she had to give a short explanation of each ability.

Felix still remembers a couple of abilities but not all of them.

'They should slow down eventually. Otherwise, they wouldn't be able to reach the finish line.'

Felix reasoned this based on their information as Asna had told him that their speed was based on abilities and not a mutation.

This meant, their elemental energy was the one taking the hit instead of their stamina.

Since they had entered some fights with beasts on their way to the beacon, it was expected that it wouldn't be enough to let them sprint from the start to the end.

Hence, Felix simply kept chasing behind them, waiting patiently for them to slow down.

"The Marathon had entered a stalemate." Dallas asked with a faint smile, "But for how long?"

Seconds went by then minutes, the players had already crossed a couple of kilometers on the sea or under the sea, yet no sight of land could be seen.

Everyone was slowly getting agitated as they knew that the sea peacefulness wouldn't last forever.

If the timing of the disaster was the same as the city zone, then it should be happening right now.

Hence, Felix kept vigilance to the max, focusing mostly in front of him and at the sides, knowing that it was impossible for the Tsunami to strike from behind.

Sure enough, a long black line had emerged in the horizons, making Felix narrow his eyes in focus at it.

A couple of seconds later, that line got bigger and continued to grow in Felix's eyesight until his heart skipped a beat after knowing that it was finally here!

"The 1st obstacle of the 2nd zone is here! THE GREAT TSUNAMI!"

Dallas shouted while extending his hand at the screen that wasn't showing the players but a towering tsunami, reaching at least 500 meters in height!!

It was even taller than the Empire State Building, making it possible for this tsunami to fully drawn out Newyork city if it got hit!

"Holy shit! How the hell are they going to survive that!"

"Hahaha, this is too exhilarating!"

"Switch the camera to the players! I want to see their expressions!"

Dallas didn't need to be told by the viewers as he had split the camera into two, showing both the tsunami and the players.

By now, the tsunami was visible to even the players behind Felix.

Hence, their expressions were priceless when they realized that they were literally in the middle of nowhere while getting stormed by almost half a kilometer tsunami!

When Dallas told them about the sea zone obstacles, he mentioned tsunamis!

But they never expected that it was going to have such a horrifying size that would put other tsunamis to shame!

Yet, before they lost their cool, they looked at the large boulders and their eyes brightened up.

They instantly figured out that the boulders must be strong enough to withstand the tsunami's power since the game wasn't going to leave them without a way out!

Thus, every player had rushed to secure one boulder for himself!

Felix also dropped down to the biggest boulder near him and quickly tested its hardness by hitting it with his enlarged tail.

THUD!

The noise produced was loud alright, but the results were satisfactory as the boulder's surface only ended receiving tiny cracks that were not even an inch long.

Upon seeing so, Felix hastily climbed down to the boulder's base that was way thicker than its peak.

Then, he snapped a finger, forcing out pitch-black sand from his pores. He quickly controlled them by mental energy to encase himself with the boulder!

"Landlord is not taking any chances." Dallas said, "He decided to add another layer of protection! For those who don't know...That black sand is ten times tougher than normal sand!"

Not much reacted to the information since by now, the news of Felix's three known attributed sand had already been out in public for months.

Hence the moment Felix used his black sand, his intentions were understood!

But, he ended up still surpassing their expectations as Felix took another step and hardened his black sand with his hands and legs still clasp into the boulder!

That made him get instantly affixed in his place without having his head and torso getting affected!

'That should be more than enough to survive it.' Felix thought while stopping releasing sand.

He had full control of when to release or stop. But if he decided to deactivate it, everything would disappear.

'Let's check on others.' Felix turned on his infrared and x-ray vision and focused on the five frontrunners.

He saw that all of them were somewhat in the same position as him, hanging in the air.

He couldn't see exactly what abilities or strategies they used to reinforce their defense, but he felt that it wasn't going to be as good as him.

After all, Speedster was a lightning Elementalist while Valkyrie was a wind Elementalist and the rest also had elements related to movement speed or offense, unlike Felix's sand element.

Only The summoner was a Metal Elementalist and Felix felt that he shouldn't be affected as badly as the others.

'There is a high chance that most of them will end up thrown underwater. That might not kill them but it will definitely delay them immensely!' Felix smirked faintly, 'That would be my chance to catch up to them or even surpass them!'

Whoosh Whoosh!

Felix's thought process was interrupted by the raging sound of the wind, making him feel like he was nearby a tornado!

This was an indication that the great tsunami was right upon them!

Neither Felix nor the player knew its exact position due to the boulder hindering their vision.

But the viewers were fully aware of what was going on and they couldn't help but either cheer or pray for their idols' safety.

"The great tsunami is about to reach the frontrunners!" Dallas stood up and stared deeply at the five players who were each using a unique method to clasp tightly to the boulder.

But when the tsunami towered over them like a god, even the players themselves didn't believe that was going to be enough!

'Shit! Shit Shit!' Speedster kept cursing with cold sweat coursing all over his body.

He already stopped looking at the Tsunami as he made sure to close his eyes and affix his head with the boulder to not freak himself.

The rest could only do the same because they knew that if they saw the Tsunami now, their hearts would probably stop beating!

30meters...20meters....10meters....SPLAASHH!!!.

Everything had been engulfed inside the tsunami's belly, making it impossible for the viewers to see if the frontrunners had been cast away or were still holding the boulder!

But Dallas was prepared for this as he made sure to highlight the players' bodies with a red aura! This shocked the viewers alike as they had noticed three red bodies flailing randomly while inside the tsunami that had yet to stop!

They appeared like they had been caught in the current without any way to save themselves out of it! When Dallas highlighted the names of those caught, their idols let out despairing cries as they knew that the game was over for them.

The c.o.c.ky Speedster was one of them...Sure, he was the fastest on the ground, but this wasn't a race but an obstacle marathon!

Only those who prevailed to the finish line had a shot at emerging victorious!

Splosh Splosh!...

Before long, the great tsunami reached the pitch-black boulder where Felix was taking cover!

Without lifting his head, Felix knew that it was upon him...literally!

Olivia, Robert, and the rest held their breaths in nervousness while staring without a blink at the tsunami that was only a couple of meters away from Felix!

Before they could pray for his survival, the pitch-black boulder had disappeared out of sight just like the rest.

Against mother nature, everyone was equal to her wrath and it was time for Felix to have a small taste!

.....

Chapter 432 - The Great Tsunami!

Meanwhile, inside the tsunami, Felix kept holding his breaths even though he still had Melon fins to breathe underwater.

He understood that the tsunami would pass by in 30 seconds max and there was no need to breathe in water in such a situation.

As for his Boulder? It wasn't cracked at all since the hardened pitch-black sand took the brunt of the collision, resulting in it getting destroyed from the front.

But the back was still safe, allowing Felix to stay affixed with the boulder!

'14, 15,16,...'

Felix kept counting from the moment he got hit, wanting to give himself some indications of the tsunami's current position. So he could move the moment he was out of its range instead of waiting until it reached the shores.

When he counted to 30 seconds, he realized that the water pressure on him had been reduced immensely, making him able to move his head without an issue.

'It's time to make a move!'

Without an ounce of hesitation, Felix deactivated his Desert Domain which ended up turning all of his sand into particles, freeing him in the process.

However, he was still clasping tightly on the boulder's surface, not wanting to let go now.

He felt that he would be swept away with the tide the moment he released himself!

But, instead of remaining in his position, he began climbing to the boulder's peak one step at a time.

When he reached the top, he waited there until the pressure gets reduced even more.

Since he was at the peak of the boulder, he was finally able to see in front of him and scout the situation of the frontrunners!

Whoosh! Whoosh!...

The moment he peeked with his X-ray vision, he was shocked to find out that only two skeletons remained affixed in their positions.

The other three? They were gone!

'They must have gotten swept away!' Felix reasoned while trying to turn his head and glance behind him.

When he pulled it off, he grinned slightly at the sight of three skeletons getting taken away with the current.

Lucky for them, they weren't in the boulders' path. Otherwise, they would have been gravely injured after they collide with one.

Still, Felix believed that their winning chance in the game had diminished to the bottom as it was almost impossible to bridge the gap again when the tsunami ends up pushing them back to the shore.

A couple of seconds later...Felix lifted his head and focused on the water surface after feeling that the tension had further reduced.

'I can swim upward now.' Felix nodded his head firmly and called in his mind, 'Size Manipulation, Body X10! Tail remains the same!'

He chose this combination so his tail's bulgy end wouldn't add to his weight and act as an anchor!

The moment his body grow to its desired size and shape, Felix immediately let go of the boulder and swam rapidly to the surface!

However, he still underestimated the current since he felt like he was swimming against the current of a waterfall!

He kept pushing upward while the current tried to pull him with the tsunami that was already two to three kilometers away from him!

Even leaving his tail with its normal size wasn't enough.

'I need more! X16!!' Uncaring about his energy consumption, Felix called loudly in his mind!

Immediately after, his body size had grown even bigger, giving him more weight but most importantly more strength to push himself upward!

In his present state, he should be having at minimum 10k BF, a huge increase to his original strength that was equivalent to only 4k BF!

'What the hell?!' Dallas exclaimed in shock the moment he glanced at Felix's small screen that was showing him continuing to swim upward with the size of the biggest whale on Earth!

He quickly switched the camera from the tsunami, which was about to smash the pack of players, to Felix!

Just as the viewers wanted to curse for his abrupt switch, their jaws were dropped in disbelief after spotting that Felix was daring enough to fight against the current!

"How did he become this big!!"

"I watched his 4th game and he was only half the size of his current state!"

"Can he f*cking grow to infinity or what?!"

Maganda Chief and the rest of the Anti-Royalty Alliance couldn't help but lose their shit and comment noisily in their room.

Just as they thought that Felix was out of tricks and had shown them the full potential of his bloodlines, he shocks them once again and makes them doubt their eyes.

The rest of the VIP viewers reacted the same!

"Relax, I doubt he could grow to infinity." Zosia let out a long breath and said calmly, "It must have a limit. He could grow possibly to 30 meters or even 40 meters if we decided to be generous. But he can't grow anymore than that."

"True, mythical ability or not, there is always a limit or a range to them." Maganda Chief agreed with a head nod while gazing at Felix who was about to reach the surface.

"I believe that the energy consumption isn't a joke for such an ability." Gabriel added, "Otherwise, he wouldn't have been saving it always for dire situations."

"Still, this just reinforced our belief that mythical bloodlines abilities are the best of the best." Maganda Chief said, "After the game, contact Landlord and push him gently to contact the Organization for us. The Royal Family isn't braindead to see all of this and not make a move. So we need to secure them quickly."

"Agreed." ...

"Let me do it." Zosia said.

After hearing so, the Alliance stopped discussing the matter at once and focused on Felix who had finally emerged from the surface!

Splloosh!!

The instant Felix's giant head emerged from the water, he extended both of his palms upward and spew a magnificent torrent of blue sand!

An amount unimaginable with his normal body size!

A moment later, Felix deactivated his size manipulation as he could feel that his energy was getting sapped way too fast.

Immediately after his size returned to normal, Felix pushed his Desert Domain to the limit by making every pore in his body release the blue sand!

Naturally, since he was in the water, most of the sand was wasted but those coming out of his head, shoulders, arms, and lastly hands, barely touched the water.

Before the viewers could comprehend what he was going for, they were awed to see him being lifted slowly in the air until his entire body had emerged safely!

"The blue attributed sand had pulled him out of the sea's clutches!! He is out!" Dallas shouted excitedly, "He actually got out!!"

While some viewers might not understand his excessive excitement, the rest understood that what Felix had pulled up shouldn't have happened in this game unless one had terrific underwater-related abilities!

Dallas understood that the great tsunami was designed in this game to force the players into hiding behind the boulders until it passes. Then, they could resume their marathon!

Those who got swept away after losing their grip would end up on the shore and retry again to pass through this zone!

Yet, Felix literally just said f*ck that and emerged while the sea hadn't been pacified!

Upon seeing that he was the only one standing in the air while completely drenched, everyone knew that he had at least 30 seconds of free pass to accelerate while the rest could only wait until the sea calm down!

"Those willing to risk it are always rewarded!" Dallas shouted passionately, "Landlord is about to receive his reward!"

Whoosh!

Felix didn't waste time appreciating the view of the tsunami engulfing everything in its path as he quickly laid down on the blue sandy path and streaked upclose to the water!

He was fast enough he caused small waves to appear on the water surface!

Even though no one was in front of him, Felix kept scouting those two frontrunners' situation.

Upon noticing that both of them were still holding for their dear life, Felix smiled faintly and switched his vision behind him.

'Heh, the rest is doomed to catch up.' Felix stopped paying them any attention after seeing that there were more than 5 kilometers between them.

Worst of all, it was still increasing since he was on the move while they weren't!

"Felix is pulling ahead from the pack while at the same time getting closer and closer to the frontrunners." George smiled widely and said, "If he managed to reach them before they emerge, the game will end in his favor."

Noah and the rest nodded their heads in agreement and continued watching Felix bridge the distance to merely 600 meters or so!

However, just when it seemed like Felix was going to reach and even surpass those two, everyone was shocked to see that a dark shadow had emerged from the sea and a winged woman escapes to the surface as well!

The winged woman could be seen engulfed inside a giant grey aura that was shaped up like an arrow, making the viewers believe that she had penetrated straight to the surface.

Meanwhile, they had no idea how the dark shadow escaped but they still cheered loudly for them as they wanted nothing more but to see Felix lose!

Chapter 433 - And Another One!

"Dreams Nocturn and Valkyrie's Cry have decided to emerge after the tsunami reached a couple of kilometers away from them!" Dallas Commentated loudly.

Their fans screamed in excitement at the sight as they had truly believed that their idols weren't going to emerge until the sea turn peaceful again.

But it seemed like those two weren't any pushovers as they managed to achieve Felix's feat.

Though it was much easier for them since the tsunami had reached them first.

Thus, when they emerged, the tsunami was way further, causing the current to be much peaceful than when Felix attempted to breakthrough.

Plus, they both had wings allowing them to fly above the water without needing the boulder.

Meanwhile, the last players who remained hugging his boulder probably wanted to emerge as well but he had no ability to keep himself in the air.

'Whatever, I have already bridged the distance.' Felix didn't react much to their emergence as he simply stood back on his feet, returning to his original surfing posture.

He had to do so since he was expecting retaliation when he gets too close to them.

'Bloody hell, how did he reach this far!' Valkyrie exclaimed in shock and terror after she turned around and noticed that Felix was surfing on the blue sandy path towards them.

Since it was impossible to go beyond ten meters above any surface, all three of them were flying at the same height.

This made it easier to spot each other even though the distance between them was in the hundreds of meters.

'I am not waiting to receive that devil!' Dreams Nocturn sent a message while flapping his darkened demonic wings rapidly.

Upon receiving his message, Valkyrie stopped paying Felix any attention and chased after Nocturn, fearing for her life.

She was fully clear about her strengths and weaknesses.

Hence, she understood that fighting against Felix was a death wish, and the only way to win this game was by pushing through her limits and reaching the finish line before him!

'Let the hunt begin!' Asna laughed evilly while eying those two like they were flying corpses.

She expected that Felix would close the half-kilometer gap in no time and kill them, but the end result was far from that as minutes went by and Felix barely closed the distance by 40 meters.

The tsunami had already ended and the players could be seen like tiny dots chasing behind him.

The Speedster who was left behind due to his lack of flight abilities was using all he got to jump from a boulder to another, hoping to catch up to Felix and the rest.

Too bad, he might be the best runner in leveled land due to his lightning speed boost but in this zone, he wasn't really outperforming himself.

Meanwhile, a couple of players had taken the underwater route, swimming with fish-like morphing abilities.

They were actually ahead of the pack.

But, they were still slower than Felix and those two frontrunners, since a fish could never outspeed a bird.

This made the game enter the 2nd stalemate as each one was chasing after the other without random fights between them.

Seconds went by then minutes...Kilometers were crossed and the horizon had finally turned into a visible land.

'Queen, distance to the 3rd zone?' Felix asked after noticing it.

'5 kilometers give or take.'

'Weird, we are about to arrive but there is no second obstacle.' Felix frowned his eyebrows at the thought.

Based on Dallas's words, each zone had two obstacles. So, it was expected that they should have experienced another in the past minutes.

But, they were getting closer and closer to the land, yet still there was no sight of it.

4kilometers...3kilometers...2kilometers.

The land had already expanded in their line of vision, making them see the spacious grass field but not the desert after it.

'Shit, we are about to enter that demon's favorite environment while he is too close to us.' Valkyrie's Cry sent a message to her ally while glancing behind her in worry.

'I don't know about you but I am planning to go all out in my speed when I reach the grass field.' Dreams Nocturn informed, 'I just need to create a long-distance between us and he might not even reach or touch me in the desert.'

'But, if you did so, you wouldn't have enough energy to do one last sprint to the finish line.' Valkyrie's Cry sent a message.

'I would rather lose in the last sprint than get caught by him in the desert.' Dreams Nocturn said, 'It is already hard enough to deal with the desert beasts and sandstorms.'

Valkyrie's Cry went quiet after hearing so. She understood his reasoning and realized that he might be right. At this instant, winning should be considered only after they feel safe.

But with Felix breathing down their necks, that wasn't happening anytime soon.

'I am doing so as we...wait, am I seeing things or the water is increasing in front of us?' Valkyrie sent a message while edging her head closer in front to see the ongoing peculiarity.

She could see that the water near the land was rising slowly. Dreams Nocturn also noticed this and knitted his eyebrows, 'Could it be?'

He had a guess but he didn't dare to believe it. Alas, the sea didn't care about his thoughts as it kept rising up and up until a medium-sized wave had been created.

By now, even Felix knew what was about to come and got into his surfing posture with a solemn expression.

"The 2nd Tsunami has emerged!" Dallas commentated excitedly while zooming out on the frontrunners until the tsunami had joined the frame.

Seeing how it was still rising while heading towards the players, the viewers knew that a 2nd wave of players was going to be sent packing!

Truly, some players within the pack had an ugly expression at the sight.

Although they knew that the tsunami wouldn't be as strong as the last one due to the distance. Still it was going to be tough to survive it since their energy and stamina had already started taking a toll on them.

How were they supposed to keep hanging to the boulder when their body was semi-exhausted?

While the pack were worrying about this, the frontrunners had different thoughts entirely!

'We can speed past it before it gets too high for us! I am going all out right now!'

Dreams Nocturn left this message behind while manifesting two smaller demonic wings right above his rear!

The moment they emerge, they started flapping with the main wings, increasing his speed substantially, pulling away from Valkyrie's Cry and Felix.

"Dreams Nocturn is attempting to fly over the tsunami while it is still small!" Dallas shouted, "Can he pull it off?!"

Before the viewers could cheer for him, Valkyrie's Cry accompanied him in his attempt as she had also gone all out in her speed to pass over the tsunami.

She had covered herself in that arrow-like aura that helped her penetrate the wind like a real pointy arrow!

Only Felix was left behind. Unlike them, he didn't have any other secret way to increase his speed.

He was currently flying at his best acceleration and he could only watch them pulling away from him.

'Damn it, if they succeeded in passing over it while I hug the boulder, it's game over for me!'

Felix understood that it was going to be impossible to bridge the gap if that happens since he would have given them at least a minute as a headstart.

This meant unless both of them ended up getting heavily hindered in the desert, the game would conclude with his loss!

Felix had no intentions of relying on luck to help him win this game!

'I can do it as well!' Felix knitted his eyebrows while lifting his head, staring deeply at the tsunami that had grown already past 200 meters, appearing like a monster ready to devour all things alike!

By now, only the three of them were still on the move as the rest of the players had already latched into a boulder to protect themselves.

While Dreams Nocturn and Valkyrie were almost under the tsunami and about to attempt climbing over it, Felix was still hundreds of meters away!

However, he didn't flinch or tremble in fear at the apocalyptic scene that would turn any commoner's legs into jelly.

He simply narrowed his eyes in focus and kept going at his fastest speed.

He understood that even if he failed to go over it, he wouldn't really die since he could simply turn around and surf on it until it reaches the shore and disappears.

Though, if that happens, it's a game over for him as he would be placed with the last players!

But he would rather end up losing like that than hope for a lucky strike to help him win the game!

'They are going to make it.' Felix concluded after noticing that both Dreams Nocturn and Valkyrie's Cry had already traveled half the tsunami while its arch hadn't been manifested yet.

He understood that curve or arch was the only thing that was going to stop them and him from passing over it.

That's because the players were able to only fly 10 meters past any surface.

This entailed that it was possible to fly horizontally with the tsunami but impossible to do so if it had a moonlike curve extending outward!

That's why no one bothered to attempt and pass over the 1st Tsunami since it had already been developed to its maximum height and already had a curve.

Though, it seemed that the game had made the tsunami unable to fall on them even though it reached its peak so the players wouldn't get killed when it fall over their heads.

"They did it!"

"Good shit Nocturn!"

"Haha! That bastard's loss is secured now!"

"I can't wait to see his expression!"

As expected, those two had gone past it successfully under the cheers of Dallas and the viewers.

Their speed and close distance made it appear easier than it should have been.

"It's Landlord's turn! Is he going to achieve the same or flop?" Dallas tightened his fists and said eagerly, "I for one can't wait to find out!"

Chapter 434 - Risk it or Lose The Game!

Meanwhile, Olivia and the rest of the team were already standing on their feet while having their wide opened eyes affixed on Felix who appeared as tiny as an ant in front of the towering tsunami.

They could see that he had already reached the bottom of it and was beginning the climb.

He was keeping merely five meters away from the surface, making it extremely hard to notice his blue sandy path due to the color being the same as the water.

This made Felix appear from that frame like he was truly surfing on the tsunami but upward, going against the current!!

But when Dallas zoomed in the camera on him, that illusion was gone as the screen started displaying his serious and focused expression.

It didn't seem like it was a fun experience as the raging wind was making his messy golden hair flail around, hindering his vision.

Water drops kept landing on his drenched clothes that were sticking to his defined and firm muscles.

When those drops land on his face, Felix merely ignores them, keeping his entire focus placed on the peak of the tsunami that had yet to shape up an arch.

But, everyone knew that would happen soon since the tsunami had already reached 400 meters in height!

Based on the 1st time, it looked to everyone that the tsunami was limited to only 500 meters as it couldn't really grow to infinity.

This meant the tsunami would grow for another 100 meters before forming an arch and dooming Felix to lose the game!

Seeing that he had just crossed half of it, the viewers weren't too optimistic about his chances!

Surprisingly, Felix also calculated that based on his current speed, it was almost impossible to cross 200 meters before the arch forms! At least some of it!

'What do I do?!'

Instead of letting the news affect him negatively, Felix started brainstorming for a method to help him pass over the upcoming arch.

He already gave up on increasing his speed any further since the raging wind was going against him, making it impossible to even reach his previous peak speed.

Asna, the J?rmungandr, and Lady Sphinx, all perked up their ears and listened to his thoughts in intrigue, wanting to know how would he solve his problem.

Upon hearing the crazy ideas that were swimming quickly in his brain, they looked at each other and laughed together.

Felix didn't even hear their laughter as he quickly picked a plan with the highest success rate and started acting on it.

'Guardians of The Temples, Eagle Guardian emerge!' Felix called in his mind while extended his other palm in front of him!

Pitch-black sand was projected tens of meters in the air without dropping!

That's due to Felix's mental control. But since the Eagle Guardian was eight meters tall, Felix's mental energy was draining rapidly to keep him from falling!

But the moment the Eagle Guardian had been shaped up, Felix let him drop on the blue sandy path while using his mental energy to pull him!

Felix had sand surfing passive, but the Eagle Guardian didn't. That meant, he would end up getting left behind if Felix ever relaxed his control!

As usual, the Eagle Guardian did his greeting ritual even in this situation, making the tenants in Felix's mind laugh out loud at the amusing scene.

"What is Landlord up to?!!" Dallas shouted with a baffled tone, "He is just slowing himself down by adding that giant golem!"

Truly, Felix's speed had been lowered by a notch, making everyone confused by his decision to summon The Eagle Guardian.

Felix didn't bother about how he was perceived as he simply kept surfing close to the tsunami that was already showing signs of curving from the top

At the start, it was barely noticeable but the moment Felix reached 450 meters, the sky darkened upon Felix due to the arch blocking off the sun rays from his reaching him.

Yet, instead of feeling agitated, Felix ordered calmly in his mind, 'Eagle throw me through the arch.'

The Eagle Guardian didn't think twice before clutching Felix in his giant hand and hurling him like a cannon ball!

WHOOSH!!

Felix removed his mental control immediately after he got thrown, making the Eagle Guardian break out of his control and remain on the blue sandy path that was in the process of breaking into blue particles!

Splloosh!!

The entire sequence happened so fast, the viewers could only watch Felix fly in the air with a dumbstruck expression.

Since the camera was zoomed on him, they saw that he was flying in a straight posture with his hands extended in front of him while tightly clasped together, appearing like a swimmer jumping for a quick dive.

His destination?!

The tip of the Tsunami's arch!

Splloosh!!

Before they could even think if he was going to make it to the other side or not, Felix had already penetrated the arch, disappearing out of sight!

Deathly silence had fallen in the stadium and the stream as more than a hundred billion viewers all over the Galaxy was watching the other side of the arch while holding their breaths!

A second later...SPIASH!

A fully drenched Felix had emerged behind the tsunami exactly the same as he entered, appearing like a human missile!

Water accompanied him in the air as he flew a couple of meters due to the remaining momentum!

The camera captured him right when the sunrays had shone over him, making his wet golden hair gleam for a split second just like the drops of water that were dripping down his body.

Felix jerked his hair to the side, exposing his face that had the same c.o.c.ky smirk every time his plan had turned successful!

Whoosh!

Alas, gravity had to ruin the moment as Felix's body began descending back to the tsunami after he reached his peak height.

Felix stopped smirking and quickly snapped his finger, creating a cloud of blue sand that helped him stop his descend.

Then, he extended his palm forward and started pumping more blue sand to create another blue path!

This time it was a path straight to victory as the only remaining zone was the Damnation Desert!!

"ONCE AGAIN! THE DAREDEVIL HAD PULLED IT OFF!!"

Thrilled and agitated, Dallas yelled at the mic with spit flying everywhere, hyping up the stadium and stream even more!

"LAAANDLOORD!!" "LANDLOORD!!!" "LAAANDLORD!!!"

Leader Emma and the rest of the fan club all broke into deafening chants with their cheeks flushed red in excitement and exhilaration!

They didn't care how others perceived Felix or how much they hated him for keeping vital information to himself!

The only thing that mattered to them was supporting their idol wholeheartedly!

Robert, The Maxwell Family, The Council, The Earthling Team, and every earthling who was watching the game with them reacted in the same manner, as cheers had broken out in each place!

"Brother Felix is so cool!" Olivia said, laughing in pure happiness.

Johnson and the rest nodded their heads in agreement while showing a hint of envy in their eyes at Felix's performance.

They also wanted to take part in such a big stage and be viewed by hundred of billions of viewers.

Alas, they didn't have the guts to join the individual games since they were ten times riskier than planetary games.

At least in planetary games, they have teammates to support and help them. Plus, there was the surrender option.

They knew that they weren't built to reach the same heights as Felix in the individual games and if they ever tried to repeat his achievements, they would end up dying in their first game.

Although they envied him, they were still happy that he was in their team as that meant they would be able to win the upcoming games by a landslide, earning them profit and also helping the planet to climb higher on the ladder!

"Impossible! Why is he still behind us!!"

Their thought process was broken by the shocked and agitated voice of Valkyrie after the camera had switched to her and Dreams Nocturn.

Dallas wanted to see their reaction after they notice that Felix was still glued behind him like a piece of gum in their hair!

"Shit! Shit! Shit! He is going too fast!" Dreams Nocturn's expression darkened when he spotted Felix's speed that was at least double their current speed!

Clearly, It wasn't because Felix had magically managed to find a way to increase it but simply because those two were forced to slow down since their energy was already below 20%!

This was due to them going full ham in the 1st zone to create as much distance as possible from the pack.

When they reached the 2nd zone, they were planning on reducing their pace since they were already 3 kilometers away from the rest.

However, Felix's emergence had changed this, as he forced them to keep going at their fastest speed so he wouldn't catch up to them.

The only difference between them was that Felix had consumed way less energy and still had plenty in his tank to keep the same fast pace.

Although he wasted a ton by using size manipulation, Felix still had the purified emergency tank unlike them!

That's why Felix was fully confident in his chance to win the game if he kept being at the frontrunner. If it wasn't for so, he wouldn't have gone all out to fly over the tsunami!

'I am increasing my pace! We don't know how much energy he still has but it wouldn't be too far from ours!" Dreams Nocturn informed with an ugly expression.

Valkyrie nodded her head and started flapping her wings faster, chasing after him.

The reason they were losing more energy every time they increased their speed was that most wing abilities consume energy every second.

That consumption depends on the current state of the wings, if they were dormant, the energy consumption would be at the bare minimum. If they were hyperactive, more fuel would be consumed.

Because the consumption was based on elemental energy, their stamina wasn't really affected by it, making them not feel exhaustion at all.

However, if those wings were based on a mutation and not an ability, they wouldn't consume elemental energy.

But the users would sure feel physically tired when they keep flying for an extended period of time.

Hence, pace and energy management were important in both cases.

Too bad, Felix wasn't giving them the opportunity to do that with his massive energy pool!

"Dreams Nocturn and Valkyrie are 1 kilometer away from Landlord." Dallas said loudly, "But the grass field is right in front of them and beyond it is the desert! Can all three of them manage to survive it with their reckless energy management?!"

Chapter 435 - Semi-God in The Desert!

The camera switched to what lays in front of Nocturn Dreams, making the viewers see the peaceful and soothing grass field like it was taken from paradise itself.

A huge contrast to the raging sea in front of it and the dreadful desert behind it! It was like a piece of land that was meant to bait the players into giving up!

However, when those three reached it, they didn't even spare the grass a glance as they continued flying towards the Desert.

This 'half zone' wasn't made for frontrunners but for the players at the last place who knew that it was impossible to win the game.

Instead of hanging around in those two dangerous zones, it was much better to stay in the grass field until the game ends.

Sometime later, Dreams Nocturn and Valkyrie had officially stepped inside the peaceful golden desert that resembled any regular one.

There were golden dunes that were big enough to be called mounds and...that's all. Only dunes and sand stretched to the horizon.

If it wasn't for a beacon of light that was shining brightly at the other side of the desert, Dreams Nocturn and Valkyrie wouldn't have known where was the finish line at.

Whoosh!

"Finally, I am here." Felix laughed in elation the moment he crossed to the desert.

Without further ado, Felix dropped into the golden sand after deactivating his Desert Domain.

There was no need to create a path when the entire Desert was his playground!

"The hell is that posture!"

The viewers were left speechless when they saw him placing his bulgy tail's end on the sand while he sat on his folded long tail.

He was sitting in a mediation position while stretching his arms behind his back lazily.

As for his speed? He was going only slightly slower than before due to him surfing on dunes instead of flying over them like the other two.

'This is so unfair!!' Valkyrie cried in her mind at the demoralizing sight of Felix catching up to them without wasting a single ounce of energy!

She knew that he was probably relying on passive Sand Surfing since it was a somewhat known ability, unlike the other unique ones.

Although the distance was getting a bit longer between them, she understood that she was bound to get exhausted in the middle of the desert if she kept going at this pace.

When that happens, forget about the marathon, they would either get killed by Felix or the beasts hiding under the sand!

Dreams Nocturn was no different!

Felix was killing them slowly but surely!

"It seems like Dreams Nocturn and Valkyrie are at their wit's end." Dallas sighed, "They are hopeless to reach the finish line and they can't even kill Landlord since their energy is too low. Even if it wasn't, I doubt they were capable of killing him."

"The only chance they got to win the game is by Landlord ending up dying to the beasts lurking underneath the desert."

The viewers agreed with his comment as they also believed that Felix had pretty much secured the win unless he got super unlucky with the desert's obstacles.

Unbeknownst to them, Felix was able to feel the vibrations in the sand, making him sense the beasts' positions from kilometers under the sand!

Even if he didn't have it, he could easily utilize his vision abilities to spot them beforehand.

Hence, the moment he noticed that a two meters scorpion-like beast was about to emerge tens of meters in front of him, he changed his direction slightly to the left.

Splloosh!

As expected, a brownish-scaled scorpion had emerged right next to Felix instead from beneath him.

Before the viewers could exclaim at its sudden appearance, the scorpion straightaway attacked Felix with its gleaming red sting!

Whoosh!

Alas, the golden sand rose in front of the sting and blocked it automatically without Felix even glancing at it!

Looking at the frozen stiffly scorpion, Asna couldn't help but feel bad for it. 'Why are you bullying the little thing like this?'

'You want him to hit me?' Felix asked speechlessly.

'I see no issues with that.' Asna laughed.

'Too bad, in this desert even if I wanted to let them hit me, they wouldn't be able to.' Felix said while glancing at the poor scorpion who was chasing after him.

If this wasn't a race, he would have started farming the beasts here.

While Felix was being chased by a couple of new desert beasts that failed to kill him, Dreams Nocturn and Valkyrie weren't having the best time either.

Giant paige-colored worms kept emerging from the dunes and reach up to those two who were 10 meters in the air!

Felix wasn't exposed to the same worms since he was racing on the ground obediently.

Naturally, to balance things out, the game made it harder for those with flying abilities since it wouldn't make sense that only the players on the ground get exposed to the beasts.

Those worms weren't easy to deal with as they were long and flexible, forcing those two to continue evading even when they pass over the worms!

'I can't do this anymore.' Valkyrie said in dread, 'I am at 15% energy and I will drop to 10% soon if I kept dealing with those worms.'

'Same.' Dreams Nocturn frowned his eyebrows as he sent a message, 'I suggest we turn back to the grass field before the 2nd obstacle begin and we get left stranded in the desert without energy to defend ourselves.'

'My thoughts exactly.' Valkyrie said.

'Sigh, it was a close game.' Dreams Nocturn glanced at Felix and complained, 'Mythical bloodliners are truly too unfair to play against.'

The moment he noticed that Valkyrie had made a sharp turn, Dreams Nocturn stopped thinking about those disheartening matters and followed after her.

Their lives were far more important than forcefully trying to secure a win with all of those disadvantages stacked against them.

'I guess their energy tank had finally given up on them.' Felix smirked as he gazed at them flying towards the grass field but not from his direction.

They weren't stupid to come near Felix since he could simply fly up and force them to fight him.

While they didn't know how much energy he had, they understood that it was much more than theirs.

"As expected, Valkyrie and Nocturn were forced to make a tactical retreat." Dallas leaned against his chair and shook his head slightly, "You can't just sprint in a marathon from the very start and expect to finish it."

While those two idols fans were sighing in dejection or booing for Felix, Emma and the rest of the club had already started an early celebration by chanting loudly;

"5 WINS IN ROW FIVE MORE TO GO!"..."5 WINS IN ROW FIVE MORE TO GO!"..."5 WINS IN ROW FIVE MORE TO GO!"

"It seems like Landlord's fans are believing in their idol's chances to break the current win streak record in the SG Human branch." Dallas commentated while switching the camera to Emma, Markus, and the rest.

It was common knowledge that the highest win streak record was 10 wins. It was currently held by a retired SG player who became a bloodline clan leader in the Bardot Empire.

However, unlike Felix, he didn't skip to gold from silver and he also didn't win the first four placement games, making him obtain a single-tier advancement in each win and also have a shitty MMR.

That made it easier for him to win four games in bronze and four more in silver just to end his winning streak after winning two more gold games.

But still, to achieve so, he was extremely strong and skilled. But most importantly, he had a stroke of defying luck to get games that he was good at and advantageous to his abilities.

Meanwhile, Felix could care less about the record as he was playing to climb as fast as possible.

'Another win in the bag. I wonder how much revenue would I be getting for this one.' Felix pondered while scratching his chin.

Felix believed that he should be getting at least 40 billion SC since the expensive ticket prices alone were going to net him 30 Billion SC. Don't even mention the stream, the recorded game earnings...etc.

If it wasn't for the SGAlliance deducting 5% taxes from his total, he would have earned more.

Thankfully, the SGAlliance gave him straightaway the deducted amount to not piss him off after seeing how much he was getting robbed.

'40 billion SC.' Felix thought, 'I should donate 1 billion SC to the planet's bank account for the troubles I brought to the citizen. It truly won't be fun for them to know that most backgrounds are sending their people over. But, if everything went well with the Anti-Royalty Alliance, they wouldn't need to worry at all.'

Felix still felt responsible for the plight he caused by his exposure. Though it was going to happen sooner or later.

Honestly, he felt that it was much better that it happened now instead of later since the planet was still locked from outsiders.

If he got exposed months or years later, the planet would have already integrated with other kingdoms, giving their bloodliners permission to roam the planet freely.

By then, the citizen would truly get harassed by those bloodliners due to Felix.

But now, as long as the Council never gives permission to anyone, those citizens wouldn't be approached by the non-natives.

However, those backgrounds could still potentially hire natives and make them do their bids like the Gama Organization.

Nevertheless, Felix wasn't worried about this as well since the 2nd planetary game was just around the corner and when he wins it, they would order for a Planetary Defensive Grid that helps them strike down spaceships that either land on their soil or in space.

If those background fleets got destroyed or kicked out from the planet, those earthling gangs and criminal organizations wouldn't dare to provoke the Council after they see their means.

Surveillance Tower and Planetary Defensive Grid were the backbones of every planet in this Era.

Only by having both of them could primitive planets afford to focus on their citizen without worrying too much about non-natives. That's why he wasn't worried about his grandfather and Olivia getting kidnapped.

As long as his grandfather and family remained in Pearl Island, they would be safe from criminals, aiming for them.

Even if someone made it to the island, Erik and Malak were going to wipe the floor with them.

As for Olivia? She was staying in the Earthling Headquarter, the safest place on the entire planet.

Whoosh Whoosh!!

Felix's thoughts were broken by the sound of the wind that had noticeably increased in speed.

Sand grains were lifted in the air and drifted by, making Felix rest his chin on his hand, 'It seems like the sandstorm is approaching.'

Not a second later, Felix managed to spot a massive brownish cloud that was edging closer to him from the front.

It was long enough, it stretched past Felix's line of sight. In terms of size, Felix didn't know how big it was but he believed that it was even bigger than the tsunami!

Yet, not a shred of fear had resurfaced on Felix's face as he kept surfing on his tail.

"This game might not be over after all?" Dallas said, "If by some miracle, Landlord ended up dying in the sandstorm, the players behind him who had yet to surrender, could still win it!"

Alas, Dallas regretted those words the moment Felix had entered the sandstorm.

Felix's body didn't even get hit by a single sand grain as the moment they reach one meter to him, they freeze like he had some sort of a godly aura blocking them off!

But in reality, those sand grains were simply reacting to Felix's passive absolute sand defense. How could sand harm Felix when he has this passive?

Hence, the creation of a mindblowing scene of Felix surfing in the middle of a raging sandstorm without having a speck of dirt on his face or clothes!

"He truly became a semi-god in the desert with his abilities." Dallas commented with a wry smile, making the viewers envy Felix for his sand bloodline that caused all of this.

When Dallas saw that Felix had passed through the sandstorm successfully, he murmured near his mic, "Maybe he will reach beyond the four greats in the Universal Individual Supremacy Games."

Chapter 436 - The Largest Sum He had Ever Won!

The moment his voice resounded in the stadium and the stream, most viewers shuddered in shock and alarm.

The same thought couldn't help but go through their minds. When they recalled Felix's abilities, experience, skills, and other assets that separate him from the rest of the players, they started to see that he might actually be able to pull it off!

"It's been really a long long time since we had a bloodliner climb to Diamond Rank of the UISG." Maganda Chief sighed.

"Indeed, the only four bloodliners who made it to that rank are being named the Great Four." Zosia shook her head, "But in reality, there is nothing great in having only four humans from a quadrillion population in the Galaxy make it to Diamond Rank."

"Well, it's really not easy to climb the UISG where it was infested with hundreds of different races that were built for combat from their birth unlike us." Gabriel said, "It is already a legendary achievement in my eyes to go beyond Platinum rank in that hellish competition."

"Do you think Landlord could actually go beyond them?" Maganda wondered.

"I don't know." Zosia said, "We don't even know if he was going to accept the normal promotion and stay in the SG human branch or break off and join the UISG."

"I believe in the latter." Maganda nodded his head firmly, "If his Organization truly wanted to gather data about the strength of the bloodline then testing it against other races is the best course possible. Clearly, Landlord is overpowering bloodliners easily and he shouldn't be even in gold rank."

"True, he is too strong and the Organization wouldn't be getting useful data against those bloodliners." Berry agreed.

"This meant, he only needs to win one more game against bloodliners before playing the promotion games in the UISG platform." Maganda smiled faintly, "I won't lie and say that I am quite anticipated to see the reaction of other races when they fight against him."

"Hahaha, same, same."

"Our race has been bullied more than enough in UISG gold and platinum rank." Gabriel smirked, "It's time for our turn."

"Though his integration is too low currently." Zosia chimed in, "He needs to integrate in the next months to a year until he reaches peak 3rd stage of replacement. I believe he would have enough strength to place his mark in gold rank by then unlike the rest of the bloodliners who get trampled on like children."

The rest of the Alliance agreed with her.

"That's if he isn't caught by then." Berry added one last time before focusing back on Felix who was just about to reach the 'finish' beacon without any dramatic occurrence.

He just crossed over it and when he emerged on the other side, the beacon had exploded into bright lights, leaving behind a single notice for the incoming players:

>Congratulations to The Champion Landlord for finishing the Marathon first!<

Immediately after the players saw it, they smiled bitterly while slowing their speed down until they stopped at once.

Meanwhile, those chilling in the grass merely dusted their hands and stood up, preparing for the teleportation.

Although battles were allowed in the grass field, no one bothered to provoke another without benefits that were worth risking for.

Hence, this marathon might have apocalyptic natural disasters, but not a lot of players ended up dead in the game.

'Now that you are done, get some rest, and continue your training.' The J?rmungandr said after he saw that Felix was in the process of teleportation.

Felix's joy from winning the game was replaced with dread after remembering the grind that was waiting for him.

'I will be on it after a nap.' He said after opening his eyes back in the rumbling stadium that was filled with boos and cheers....But mostly boos.

'You have two hours break.' The J?rmungandr informed calmly, "There is much to learn and time isn't our ally in your situation.'

Felix nodded his head slightly while waving his hand to his fans and the angry mob that was booing him.

He understood that even if he trained his poison manipulation for a year, it was nothing compared to serpent half-lings who were training with their limited manipulation since the moment they were born.

Naturally, those were the remaining descendants of the J?rmungandr and god knows how they would react to him when he meets with them in the UISG.

After all, he was a f*cking human with poison manipulation just like them...No, he had the complete version unlike them.

Still, at this moment, they were a hundred times better than him in manipulating poison.

He had to work hard every day to bridge the gap lest he ends up shaming the J?rmungandr in front of other primogenitors when they see that the champion he chose was worse than his descendants.

'Two hours of nap, better get going.'

Felix smiled one last time to the spectators before flashing away, leaving behind him disgruntled Dallas, who was just about to jump down for a quick post-game interview with him.

Too bad, Felix wouldn't be the same without leaving unanswered questions behind him!

...

One hour and a half later...In The Androxa House...

The game's highlights were already spread all over the network in the galaxy for those interested in SG news.

The moment Felix had won the game, he received another bunch of invitations to interviews, threats, insults, troll emails...etc, making Emma drawn in them. Though, she clearly filtered only the useful ones and left the rest in the spam.

Since Felix had fully blocked communication with George, Olivia, Johnson, Mr. Rodrigas, and the rest of the people close to him, he ended up receiving congratulations emails from them.

To which he read them after waking up from his nap. Felix chuckled when he read that Olivia was threatening to cut all relations with him if he didn't unblock her.

Too bad, Felix had no intentions of unblocking them for now as he had no time to deal with their questions and inquiries.

He understood that they were eager just like the rest to know his secrets and possibly benefit from them as well.

That was completely understandable behavior but Felix didn't have time for it.

When he dealt with their emails, Felix jumped to Chief Maganda's email that was sent in the past hour after they failed to get in touch with him.

A minute later...Felix closed the email while rubbing his chin, 'It seems like they are getting a bit impatient with meeting the Organization.'

'I guess it's time to put them at ease that the Organization is the real deal. I can't lose allies like them and especially when I can take full advantage of their resources.'

After making his decision, Felix sent a small message to Chief Maganda, entailing that he got a video meeting with them at 12:00 AM, next Friday...So, in seven days.

Upon doing so, Felix waved the inbox from his face and requested, 'Queen, please show me the game's earnings again, I want to do a quick calculation.'

When Felix had just teleported to his house, the first thing he did was glance at his earnings, but since he only had two hours of rest, he left it after he wakes up from his nap.

//

>Winning Wish

>Total Streaming Revenue (0.01% from game points/1% from popularity/3% from victory): 47.5 Billion SC(With Taxes)

>Game Points collected solo: 600 GP //

Although the earning list wasn't as long as the previous ones, it was still the best-earning list Felix had ever gotten!

47.5 billion SC! That's after the Alliance took their taxes!

Felix couldn't help but smile foolishly after seeing the amount again.

He understood that with the 11 billion SC that he possessed right now, he would have 58.5 billion SC in his bank account!

That's liquid assets that could be used anytime and any day!

But, Felix understood that this was merely a one-time occurrence due to the viewers fighting for tickets to see the appearance and abilities of 1st mythical bloodliner.

However, in the upcoming games, the ticket prices would return to somewhat normal as well as the streaming viewership.

98% of people would rather watch the highlights in the VRVideos platform for free than watch an entire game.

'Hehe, even if the amount would be lowered in the next game, it would definitely not get lower than 15 billion SC in each game.'

Felix rubbed his hands together like a sleazy salesman, making Lady Sphinx roll her eyes at his poorness.

In her eyes, coins wouldn't even get her the cheapest material in her current state. Thankfully, she kept those thoughts to herself.

'Queen show me my profile.' Felix requested.

Name of the participant: Unpaid Landlord_6996

Age: ???

Address: ???

Integration Level: ???

Rank: High-Tier Gold (Placements are finished)

Games Played: 005

Wins: 005

Loss: 000

Win streak: 005 (click to obtain rewards)

Loss Streak: 000

Eliminations: 047 //

'Hopefully, I have gotten some good coupons this time.' Felix rubbed his palms in anticipation and pressed on the >Win Streak< button.

Immediately after a hologram emerged before him:

//1) One-tier Advancement Coupon: Allow the user to jump a tier in any rank. You can't skip promotion games. (One use/365 days before expiring)

2) X2 Game Points Coupon: Allow the user to double all earned game points in one game. Only game points farmed in the game are counted (One use/365 days before expiring)

3) World Announcement Coupon: Allow the user to send a message into the sky, visible throughout the entire game world. (One use/365 days before expiring)

4) Format Pick Coupon: Allow the user to pick a format of his own choice. (One use/365 days before expiring)//

"Not bad, not bad at all." Felix grinned.

All of those coupons were useful in their own moments. Especially, the X2 Game Points Coupon! If he had it in his previous games, he would have earned at least 20k GP!

Meanwhile, the one-tier advancement coupon was almost perfect for Felix in this situation as he could skip straight to the promotion game...But, he wasn't going to do it.

He wasn't a retard to let go of a chance to brutalize those peak 2nd stage bloodliners one last time and earn tens of billions SC of their backs!

Plus, he would be able to continue his winning streak, giving him more coupons!

'Hehehe, I will activate the format pick coupon and choose the battle format in my next game.' Felix licked his lips, 'Let's see how many game points I will earn from hunting them.'

Chapter 437 - Methods To Enter The UVR!

'Kinda feel bad that I missed the PPFT market gathering.'

Seeing the pitiful GP amount in the list made Felix remember the PPFT market that was going to be held in seven days.

Although it was seven days later, Felix still had 'missed it' since by the time the players gather in the market, his prize pool items would have already been purchased by other players in his game.

Honestly, it was for the best that Felix didn't go since he was probably going to be harassed by the players when he places his shop.

Those players would not buy shit from him and also annoy the rest of the players who actually wanted to buy something. To avoid all of that, it was much better to just not participate in this one.

At least until the situation about his bloodlines cooldown.

Upon seeing that the two hours of rest were about to finish, Felix quickly contacted Goati.

Ring Ring!...Clunk.

After the call got connected, Felix requested the entire epic tier 5 stock of Bird species from Fire and Wind Element. Before Goati could register his request, Felix added, "I also want the entire stock of octopus species with water element and Avion species."

"Are you sure about it?" Goati gulped a mouthful and said, "That would be a total of 26 bottles."

"Just give me their pricing." Felix rushed him.

"Give me a moment."

Goati went silent for a couple of seconds before sending Felix an email that had each bloodline price and the total amount if he bought them all.

9.9 billion SC for seven fire bottles, eight wind bottles, eight water bottles, and lastly three Avion species bottles.

Those water bottles were for the trade he was planning on making with the Anti-Royalty Alliance. He was going to sell them a 75% essence primogenitor bottle!

In return, he was going to make them sign a contract that was extremely beneficial to him.

Felix didn't doubt that they wouldn't accept it since they were desperate to get their hands on a primogenitor's bottle.

Too bad, 75% wasn't enough to awake the primogenitor and their tech wasn't going to discover the secrets of the essence since only beings like primogenitors and Unigins could do so.

'Hehe, I should milk them out of 50 billion SC for it.' Felix grinned widely while disconnecting the call.

If others knew that Felix was going to earn 50 billion SC for a bottle that cost him almost nothing with his reselling scheme, they would honestly cough out blood from envy.

Though, Felix understood that the reason the 1st bottle was expensive as hell was due to its research value.

When the Anti-Royalty Alliance find out nothing from researching the bottle, they weren't going to buy it again at the same price like fools.

Felix merely cared about the one bottle going to the light so he could remove the suspension on him as everyone would be aiming their guns at his Organization.

Plus, he wouldn't receive more public backlash when the news of the bottle's existence spread far and wide.

'The only problem with this plan is my location.' Felix thought, 'Bodidi can't deliver cross galaxies and I don't trust anyone with my coordinates.'

This was the reason Felix purchased those 26 bottles now.

He was planning on waiting thousands of kilometers near the VIP wormhole expressway for Bodidi to bring him his stuff.

Because the moment he enters the wormhole and emerges from the other side, he wouldn't stop until the next Mariana's VIP expressway.

That expressway would be connected to the Witch Forsythia Galaxy's outskirts.

Felix wanted to make two last deliveries with Bodidi before he exits the galaxy.

He wasn't worried about getting located by other spaceships due to his spaceship's excellent anti-surveillance system.

Plus, he would be staying tens of thousands of kilometers away from the wormhole, it was almost impossible to spot him like that.

'Phew, too many things to do and consider.' Felix glanced at his bracelet and cracked his neck, 'But nothing will matter if I don't increase my strength first. Let's start training!'

The J?rmungandr smiled faintly when he saw that he had started practicing the liquifying technique.

"Checkmate." Lady Sphinx drunk a sip while gesturing with her head at the chessboard.

The J?rmungandr's smile stiffened after hearing so. He looked at his chessboard and started to feel despair playing against this monster.

They were already on their 40 games and he had yet to win a single game, making Asna mock him every single day for it.

"Let's postpone for later." The J?rmungandr coughed, "It seems like the kid is requiring my guidance."

Looking at Felix who was training in silence, Lady Sphinx snickered lightly at his attempt to weasel away.

But she didn't embarrass him by exposing it. Instead, she teleported to Asna's mansion, where Asna was currently watching a rerun of the same series in boredom.

"What are you watching?" Lady Sphinx asked while sitting at the side of the bed.

"My Boyfriend Can't Understand Me, a long drama with 3 seasons." Asna said lazily.

"I don't know why you guys like watching people acting fakely." Lady Sphinx shook her head.

"It's not like I have anything else to do." Asna murmured.

"Why don't you enter the UVR then?" Lady Sphinx frowned her eyebrows, "I believe that it is possible to connect to the UVR if you possessed this thief's body for a couple of seconds until the Queen AI binds your consciousness with the AP bracelet."

"No!" Asna shook her head firmly, "At the start, I was trying to hiddenly possess his body by using the purified energy without caring if it was going to work or not. But now, I don't dare to risk it since it might fail and his brain could end up imploding if I switched with him."

"Indeed." Lady Sphinx agreed with her on this point.

She was already informed by Asna about her prisoning situation and the millions of souls that she absorbed their memories.

Those memories were going to be daunting to handle for Felix's brain if Asna attempted to possess his body even for a few seconds.

Although she believed that there was like a 10% chance of that happening, she still didn't want to tell Felix about it and put him in a bad position.

"Well, if you promise me something, I can help you out." Lady Sphinx tempted, "I know a potion recipe that allows the soul to be split into two halves for a couple of seconds."

Asna raised her eyebrows in surprise and said, "A potion like that exists? I thought only the Spirits and Souls Unigin Guardian is capable of doing that."

"Well, my limit is just for 3 seconds. Souls and spirits are too hard for me to study since the Spiritual Universe is blocking my access."

Lady Sphinx informed, "But I can tweak the recipe to make it target splitting both of your souls from each other for 4 seconds and that would give you enough time for the Queen to bind your consciousness with the bracelet."

"Is it going to harm Felix?" Asna asked with a worried tone.

"Don't worry your boyfriend will only feel some pain from the process." Lady Sphinx teased after seeing that Asna truly cared for Felix's wellbeing.

"Boyfriend?" Asna humphed, "Like hell I will ever end up together with that pervy prick."

"Haha, aren't you guys together right now?" Lady Sphinx laughed while covering her mouth, making Asna feel annoyed.

Seeing that she wasn't going to reply, Lady Sphinx chuckled, "Fine, fine, just tell me do you want to make a deal or not?"

"What do I need to offer?" Asna tilted her head in confusion and asked, "I doubt I have something that's useful to you."

Lady Sphinx got closer to Asna and requested with a smile, "I simply want you to help me out in the latest discovery of mine when you finally split your soul from this little thief. By then, your peak strength would have been recovered."

"Are you willing to wait that long?" Asna said, "I doubt I will be freed anytime soon."

"Don't worry." Lady Sphinx offered her furry golden hand to Asna and winked, "The only thing I don't lack is time."

Upon hearing so, Asna shook her hand to seal the deal and said eagerly, "When are you going to finish the potion?"

"My clone was already in the process of tweaking the recipe a week ago." Lady Sphinx smiled, "I don't know when she will finish the whole thing but it wouldn't take more than a year."

It seemed like Lady Sphinx had expected Asna to agree to the deal before she even proposed it.

"A year?" Asna nodded her head, "That's not too long."

"Alright, I will leave you be."

Seeing that she didn't mind, Lady Sphinx stood up. However, before she could teleport, Asna asked her suddenly, "How about that old snake? Do you have a way for him to enter the UVR?"

"What are you talking about?" Lady Sphinx looked at her speechlessly, "Unlike you, he can enter the UVR anytime he wanted. He is a separated consciousness and he only needs a bracelet and call for the Queen."

"The hell? Was it always that simple?" Asna was left at lose for words at the sound of that.

"Of course, your problem is that the Queen AI considers you and Felix as one person due to your soul being merged. That's why splitting your souls would do the trick. But for J?rmi? He doesn't need to do any of that." Lady Sphinx clarified.

"Old Snake did you hear that!" Asna shouted from the window at the J?rmungandr who was sitting on a tea table while watching Felix train.

"Yes!" He shouted back without turning his head.

"Then why don't you enter the UVR?!"

"Didn't I tell you many times that I don't want to?" The J?rmungandr said.

Upon hearing so, Asna realized the reason why neither she nor Felix knew that it was so easy for J?rmungandr to get access to the UVR.

The old snake never gave them the chance to even try since he always expressed his disinterest to enter the UVR.

"J?rmi stop being stubborn." Lady Sphinx teleported next to him and said, "How are you going to meet with other primogenitors and bet with them if you keep staying here?"

"True." The J?rmungandr glanced at Asna and asked telepathically, 'Did you find a way to help her enter the UVR as well?'

'I did.' Lady Sphinx's eyes widened slightly as she asked telepathically, 'Don't tell me you never bothered with the UVR due to her?'

The J?rmungandr smiled gently while looking at the fuming Asna who seemed furious on his place for rejecting to enter the UVR.

'I just didn't want her to feel left behind.' The J?rmungandr focused back on Felix and said lastly, 'She suffered in the past and is suffering in the present. Sigh, when she gets freed, she will suffer again in the future.'

Understanding what he was implying, Lady Sphinx took a glance at Asna and thought, 'The Origin of Laws, a being that shouldn't have been born.'

She shook her head to remove those thoughts and said, "Don't worry about her, she will join next year in the UVR if everything went well."

"Alright, I will inform the lad after he finishes his training."

The J?rmungandr waved his hand at Lady Sphinx and shouted at Felix after seeing him entering a daze. "Don't lose focus!"

Chapter 438 - Deciding The Newest Element!

After training his poison manipulation for over 8 hours, Felix finally decided to stop for the day as he was mentally exhausted.

Since the results weren't really that obvious, the training truly appeared like a rewardless daily grind.

But, Felix had no intentions of bailing out on reaching 2nd stage of poison manipulation as fast as possible!

When Felix went for a quick shower, the J?rmungandr had informed him about his desire to enter the UVR and the way to do so.

Naturally, the first thing Felix asked was Asna's chances of using the same method.

Although he was told that wasn't possible, Lady Sphinx did inform him about the potion that she was making for Asna.

"Are you willing to drink it?" Lady Sphinx asked, "Your life wouldn't be endangered but the pain both of you will experience would be beyond your comprehension."

"Isn't just pain?" Felix chuckled, "I am used to it by now."

'Let's see if you will say the same when you taste pain based on soul.' Lady Sphinx kept this thought to herself.

She didn't want to discourage him or make him stressful when the potion wouldn't be ready until a year later.

"Elder, I will shop for an 11th generation or hopefully 12th generation Bracelet right now." Felix informed the J?rmungandr, "I only have normal bracelets on me now and they lack too many useful features."

"Alright, you know better." The J?rmungandr said, smiling.

Felix nodded his head while opening a website that belonged to the Metal Race branch in the Galaxy.

This website was responsible for selling all the technologies, equipment, gadgets, devices, bracelets, and every other invention by the Metal Race.

Naturally, Felix didn't have access to everything but just the public items.

He straightaway entered the Bracelets section and scrolled to the most expensive ones that were still available in stock.

Upon finding that 150 11th Gen AP bracelets were still in stock, he quickly purchased two online and obtained their serial codes.

Then, he sent it to Bodidi and told him to bring them with the rest of the 26 bottles.

Two days later...At 11:05 AM...

'Sir Felix, the spaceship has stopped exactly 10,480 kilometers away from the VIP Wormhole expressway.'

The Queen's monotonous voice resounded in Felix's mind, interrupting his training session.

Felix threw a poisonous liquid drop in his mouth and requested calmly, 'Log me out.'

...

The moment Felix opened his eyes in VR Pod, the needles that were connecting to his bloodstream, automatically withdrawn while the glass door opened up slowly.

Felix stepped outside of the Pod wearing only his underwear. His feet were touching the room's carpet naturally like gravity was still applied on the spaceship.

That's because of the Artificial Gravity of the spaceship. Felix didn't bother to look through the science of it but he knows that the centripetal force wasn't required in the technology used.

Anyhow, Felix stretched his limbs for a couple of seconds before walking to the closest window to him.

Since the spaceship was finally not moving and there was no close star to emit light, Felix was left to marvel at the universe's breathtaking beauty.

Stars of different colors, appearing like tiny dots, colorful nebulas of different shapes and sizes filled Felix's vision, making him wonder about their astronomical size.

Although he had been to space many times and experienced its beauty on multiple occasions in his clan's spacesh.i.p.s, Felix always got mesmerized by it.

"Waking up to such a sight is truly a delightful experience." Feeling refreshed, Felix smiled and walked to the spaceship's cafeteria.

When he was seated on a circular milky white table, he pressed on the holographic menu and ordered breakfast.

He wasn't worried about the food or taste being horrible since the kitchen was run by bots and the food stock in the spaceship was loaded to the brim. The stock would probably last him a couple of years.

Naturally, Felix had ordered for his spaceship to be filled with all of this before it reached him.

In a short while, Felix started eating his breakfast while sending the newest coordinates to Bodidi.

Since he was in space, the coordinates were different as there was no altitude, latitude, or four directions.

Instead, it was a long serial code of 1000 letters mixed with numbers. This code wouldn't make sense to anyone but the Queen AI.

That's because the UVR's roots were spread on a universal level.

That made it possible to map out at least 30% of the known universe and make the Queen be the GPS of everyone!

Hence, when Felix sent this code to Bodidi, the Queen would inform Bodidi of the exact place where Felix was currently standing!

Naturally, this wouldn't have worked if Felix's spaceship was in an area that wasn't mapped out.

The way to map out an area was simple.

The AP bracelet of every person was constantly scanning the area around him.

For example, Felix's 11th Gen bracelet was capable of scanning up to a 1-kilometer radius.

This meant right now, he was helping the Queen map out that 1-kilometer around him.

Though, in this situation, the Queen already possessed a map of his area since other people had gone through here for billions of times due to being in one of the directions to the Wormhole Expressway.

The reason people allow this to happen was because it was to their own benefit.

Without the Queen's Map and GPS feature, they wouldn't know where to go and how to arrive at another place fast enough without ending up crashing into a meteor, planet, or another unlucky spaceship in their path.

Only due to the Queen AI was it possible to fly at the speed of light without that kind of worry. That's because she always chooses the perfect path to their destination.

If she couldn't do so, she would inform them to see if they were willing to risk going blindly or not.

This was another reason why the Queen was treated in high regard by everyone!

...

When Felix had finished dealing with Bodidi's situation, he went to the c.o.c.kpit, wanting to see the VIP wormhole expressway. Alas, his spaceship was parked way too far for him to spot it.

Adding to the stars and nebulae around him made it impossible to know which dot it belongs to it.

Felix understood that if this was a natural Wormhole, its size would be noticeable even if he was hundreds of thousands of kilometers away.

Too bad, Felix knew that The Space Worm Race wasn't capable of creating wormholes with that astronomical size.

Only the universe was capable of creating them!

"The Space Primogenitor is capable of creating it." The J?rmungandr interrupted, "I have seen him once do it. Heck, I believe that wormhole is still up and running to this day if that fatty worm is still alive."

"He is alive alright." Lady Sphinx said, "He was also part of the primogenitors who decided to enter the illusionary world."

Upon hearing so, Felix clutched his heart in pain as he knew that his chance to use the space element had been forever butchered!

Alive Primogenitor = Bad choice.

If Lady Sphinx wasn't kind and had probably a thing for the J?rmungandr (He assumes), she wouldn't have spared him even if she saw his research value.

Felix had no intentions of testing his luck for the 3rd time with another alive primogenitor.

"I heard you order Avion species bottles before, have you finally made up your mind?" Lady Sphinx asked.

"Yes, there is no point in delaying it any further." Felix nodded his head.

Naturally, to make sure that Felix ends up with a primogenitor that was willing to hand him his elemental manipulation, they discussed it days ago.

After all, Lady Sphinx was going to make experiments on Felix to turn him into the 1st person to host multiple elemental manipulations in the universe.

That wouldn't be possible if the primogenitors chosen refused to give their elemental manipulations.

That's why the primogenitors who were still alive were the first to be eliminated. Followed by primogenitors who were dead but had hostile or unfriendly relations with J?rmungandr and the Sphinx.

Even ones who disliked lesser races were removed as well since they might straightaway kill Felix from disgust.

Heck, even the Illusion primogenitor was eliminated since he was still alive like Lady Sphinx. This made Felix drop any thoughts of utilizing the illusion affinity that he had.

It was a hard decision but it had to be done to avoid getting killed.

In the end, Felix was left with merely 7 potential primogenitors who were dead and also had a familiar relation with either the J?rmungandr or Lady Sphinx.

Those primogenitors were representing 7 elements, ranging from common, uncommon to rare!

But Lady Sphinx told Felix to focus only on common elements first since she explained that uncommon and rare elements were more complex and it would make her research tougher from the start.

It was better to start simple and increase the difficulty as they go.

Felix had no issue with that. He already dropped his prejudice against common elements!

The three common elements he was given to choose from were, Lightning, Wind, and Water.

The lightning element was belonging to Thor.

The Wind element was for the Celestial Roc.

Lastly, the water element as belonging to The Kraken.

Just because wind and water were going to be used by Erik and the Anti-Royalty Alliance, it didn't mean that Felix couldn't use them as well.

After all, 99% of the essence that he gathers from bloodlines wasn't the only amount out there.

In fact, if Felix wanted, he could continue gathering the J?rmungandr's essence from other tiers 5/6/7 bloodlines and create more 99% filled bottles!

But he didn't do so since he never had to and his capital never allowed him to go for side projects like those.

With that being said, Felix had still made his choice in the past couple of days after thinking deeply about it.

"The lightning element is my final pick." He informed calmly, "I will be awakening Thor, the elder's best friend, and rival."

"Good choice." Lady Sphinx smiled, "He is the one with the highest chances of giving you his elemental manipulation."

Felix nodded his head in agreement. But he didn't only do it for that but also because the lightning element was the perfect one for him currently.

After all, the Lightning element was one of the best for destructiveness and also mobility!

Felix was missing both!

The only reason Felix was hesitating to pick the lightning element instantly was due to Thor's unique species.

The J?rmungandr had shown him how Thor appeared and his species when he was given the choices.

He belonged to the Avion species, an ancient and extremely rare creature that lived in planets with thunderclouds raging all year long.

This species was known for their eel-like resemblance as they were long, thin, and had fish-like scales with tiny holes in them. Meanwhile, their scales' color ranges from black and white.

While Eels were known for living in shallow water, the Avions lived in thunderclouds by consuming clouds and lightning!

While clouds were their source of food, lightning was their source of survival. Without absorbing it ceaselessly day and night, their speed wouldn't be fast enough that gravity wouldn't work on them!

Because they never stop wheezing by inside the thunderclouds, it was extremely difficult to catch them and extract their bloodline essence.

Hence, their prices weren't a joke.

But with Felix's win in the 5th game and the upcoming load of coins from selling the water bottle to the Anti-Royalty Alliance, Felix stopped bothering with prices and just went for the pick!

"Cough, elder you told me to pick an element but how am I suppose to land on it when I drink the elemental potion?" Felix asked with a tingle of hope, "Or are you going to gift me a potion that could help me awaken lightning element?"

"Naturally, I can easily make a potion that could achieve such a result." Lady Sphinx said.

Before Felix could get siked to hear this, Lady Sphinx said calmly, "But I don't gift stuff. I make trades and deals...Always."

Chapter 439 - Being Given A Dreadful Mission.

"Deals?" Felix asked speechlessly.

"Yes, the potion is worth 45 billion SC." Lady Sphinx said, "Only I and Sage Witches can concoct it."

Felix drew a deep breath at the price. He expected that it would expensive since he never heard of a potion that could specifically awaken a targeted element but he didn't know it would be this much!

"45 billion SC is the market price for it but it goes for way higher than that." Lady Sphinx said calmly, "This potion rarely gets sold but traded with an item of an equal value. That's because it doesn't just awaken the lightning element but also increase your affinity of it by 30% at once."

"No wonder!" Felix exclaimed.

He understood that if the potion truly provided 30% affinity enhancement then its price was fully justifiable.

Although in his case that 30% was useless since he had Asna but for other users, they would need to spend at least need 30 billion SC for it!

It wasn't easy at all to increase affinity and people would jump on any item that was helping them increase it no matter how expensive it was.

This wasn't just for humans but for other races that were heavily reliant on elemental affinity as well.

"So, am I going to pay 45 billion for it?" Felix clutched his heart at the thought of it.

He just earned almost 50 billion from the game yet it was about to be spent almost entirely for a potion.

"Don't be silly." Lady Sphinx waved her hand and said calmly, "I don't need coins, I have more than enough to create a planet of them."

Tsk, Tsk...

Both Asna and the J?rmungandr clicked their tongues after hearing her brag like this. Unbothered, Lady Sphinx said, "What I want you to do is earn the potion."

Felix sighed in relief and asked, "Oh? What should I do?"

"Not much." Lady Sphinx smiled faintly, "I simply want you to emerge as one of the top three scorers in the 1st semester in The Royal Witch Academy."

"Wait what?" Felix exclaimed in disbelief.

This was honestly the last thing he expected to hear since it was totally random. He expected that he would be hired as a janitor for her lab, an errand boy, or something like that to earn the potion.

But top 3 scorers? Why was she interested in that?

Upon seeing his puzzlement, Lady Sphinx said with a displeased tone, "With each generation, those witches are getting worse and worse in their potion mastery. When I first decided to teach them, most witches were capable of easily reaching Grandmaster rank and even Sage rank. But now?"

Lady Sphinx scoffed, "The majority of them are stuck as Potioneer Masters capable of concocting only Rank 3 potions. Only an exceptional few were able to reach Grandmaster. As for Sage? There are barely twenty of them alive in the entire empire."

"This is an embarrassment to my teaching standards as I haven't introduced the art of potion-making just to let them swim into the wealth those potions were bringing them!"

Felix might be a bit confused about some parts but he did understand other parts. Like the fact that Rank 3 witches were one of the wealthiest people in the entire Universe.

That's because they were capable of concocting rank 3 potions like Elemental Potion with a 30% to 60% success rate.

Rank 3 potions were best for the witches to earn money because they were expensive but also manageable to concoct, unlike rank 4/5 potions.

Those types of potions might be even more expensive but their materials were rare and most witches that were capable of concocting them had a 1% to 20% success rate.

As for rank 1/2 potions? They were the common ones like rejuvenation potions, pain relief potions...etc. They didn't have 3 billions+ prices.

Upon hearing Lady Sphinx's rant, Felix reasoned that witches seemed to pause their advancement to higher ranks after turning Master Potioneer due to the profits of rank 3 potions being the best.

With that being said, Felix still failed to see what's his role in all of this.

"It's simple." Lady Sphinx said, "If the newest generation of witches saw that a human is doing much better than them in the only thing they were truly good at, they would naturally work harder to prove themselves."

"being in the top three of the 1st semester would suddenly change the entire situation?" Felix was honestly at loss for words at her logic.

"Of course not." Lady Sphinx said nonchalantly, "That's why you will keep being in the top three in the rest of the semesters until you graduate. When you graduate, I want you to be a Master Potioneer, unlike the witches who could graduate only if they became Expert Potioneers."

"Cough, I think I might want to pay for the potion with coins." Felix said with a tingle of fear in his tone.

He should be afraid alright as Lady Sphinx was asking him to do the impossible while at the same time start a war against the witches in the Academy!

Felix doubted he could even become an Expert Potioneer in 6 semesters that span for three years even if he invested his entire time in potion-making!

If it was so easy, it wouldn't have been made into a graduation condition!

Yet, Lady Sphinx was telling him to go beyond that and become a Master Potioneer? What a joke!

"Sphinx, you should go easy on him." The J?rmungandr shook his head, "He will be using most of his time training his poison manipulation, combat senses, techniques, playing the games, and more. If Thor was awakened and decided to give up on his lightning manipulation, he would need to focus on that as well for a bit."

"Adding potion-making would merely make spread himself thin more than he already was." The J?rmungandr said.

"Elder..." Felix felt his eyes tear up a bit after receiving some support.

Since he wasn't inside the consciousness space, he didn't know if Lady Sphinx approved or not.

But a second later, she mentioned to the J?rmungandr, "Don't worry, I will feed him some potions that are going to greatly enhance his performance permanently."

"Oh? Like what?" Asna inquired for Felix.

"Photographic Memory Potion, Neuron Enhancement Potion, Veil of Trance, and a couple more that could easily make him absorb knowledge and also smarter." Lady Sphinx smiled, "With them, you would have an easier time studying and also concocting potions."

Felix's eyes brightened up in delight after hearing so. He was always afraid of not having a talent for potion-making.

That worried him since if he didn't pick it up quickly, he would waste too much time on it. A well-needed time that could have been used efficiently for other matters.

But with those potions, he would honestly be turned into a prodigy even if he was the dumbest person in the universe!

He understood that some of those potions exist and were sold for billions of SC but their effects weren't permanent as Lady Sphinx claimed.

Instead, their duration lasts from months to a year before wearing off and leaving the user to feel like a retard again.

That makes them want to use those potions over and over like they were addicted to their effects.

It was like taking that pill in the movie Limitless.

Felix had just got offered to take a pill that had permanent effects!

For that kind of potions, he didn't dare to imagine their prices since the potions had never landed in the market!

But if he had to give them a price, he would guess that their total would be around 200 billion SC!!

"But didn't you say that you don't gift stuff?" Felix wondered after reeling in his excitement.

"Of course, those potions are your rewards for reaching the top three of each semester. Each potion is counted for a semester." Lady Sphinx warned with a pretty smile, "So you better not disappoint me and get a lesser result. You won't like the outcome."

Felix gulped a mouthful in dread after remembering that he was literally going to be experimented on like a lab rat.

He was already in her hands and god knows what punishment she was going to give him if he failed his end of the bargain!

"I will try my best." He promised with a forced smile.

"You better." Lady Sphinx took a sip, "I want to see those little witches doubt if you are a witch in disguise."

"Hehe, Witch Felix." Asna giggled, "Makes me laugh just thinking about it."

"Then don't think of it." Felix said in annoyance.

He already expected that he would be getting a load of mockery after everyone starts addressing him, Witch Felix.

He honestly dreaded the thought.

'I should probably create a male version witch name to avoid having getting called a witch.' Instead of fretting about it, Felix started brainstorming some ideas.

He spent at least ten minutes eliminating a name after the other until he landed on one that pleased him.

The witcher!

'That has a nice ring to it.' Felix grinned faintly, 'I don't mind being called that at all.'

Chapter 440 - The Meeting I

After waiting for three days somewhat near the wormhole without entering it, Bodidi finally opened up a spatial bridge in the spaceship's cafeteria.

Like nothing ever happened, Bodidi simply threw the bottles and bracelets on the ground and went away just like always.

Felix didn't react much to this since he had spoken on the phone with Bodidi about the whole matter of him being Landlord.

Honestly, Fatty Bodidi didn't seem to give a shit about it since he wasn't a human. Only humans cared about Felix's ability to own many abilities.

The rest of the races?

It either appeared like a joke to races with limited manipulation or a farce to races who never bother with strength and fighting.

Since Felix and Bodidi had a strict lifelong contract that could be signed with only one client, Bodidi naturally wouldn't betray Felix and give away his coordinates since the penalty imposed was nothing like the one in regular contracts.

Hence, as long as Felix was making deliveries with Bodidi, he was in safe hands.

Sadly, he only had one more chance to make another delivery before exiting the Galaxy. Bodidi was too young for cross-galaxies deliveries.

With that being said, Felix decided to think of a solution when he reached the witch empire.

For now, he quickly wore the newest 11th generation bracelet and brought it to his eyes, "Elder, try calling the Queen."

The J?rmungandr was already prepared for this. Hence, he closed his eyes and called Queen AI in his mind.

A few seconds later, the J?rmungandr had opened his eyes in the same basic white room where the Queen AI meet with everyone.

Just like she did with Felix, she asked if the J?rmungandr wanted to bind his consciousness with this bracelet.

To which the J?rmungandr agreed at once.

The Queen congratulated him and asked if he wanted to know more about the UVR, universe, AP bracelet...etc.

But the J?rmungandr had declined and requested with an intrigued expression, "Please take me to this link."

He forwarded a long teleportation link like the ones Felix used to teleport to the yearly auction event.

The Queen did as he asked and his body immediately started deconstructing into light particles. When he opened them up again, he was greeted by a cosmic golden pyramid that was suspended in space.

Meanwhile, he was standing right in front of a wide opened up gate. Behind it, Lady Sphinx was waiting for him with a faint charming smile.

"Welcome to my UVR's territory J?rmi." Lady Sphinx said while extended her hand behind her.

"Thank you for your hospitality." The J?rmungandr smiled faintly and entered the gate with her. The moment he stepped into the other side, the gate had closed up behind them.

"Elder, did it work?" Felix asked after waiting for a minute without a response.

"He is in my place now." Lady Sphinx informed him.

"Pheew, that's nice to hear." Felix sighed in relief while glancing at his 2nd bracelet. Although it was attached to him, he realized that he couldn't even turn it on to look at the time.

It was like the entire bracelet was dead. But in reality, the Queen was considering the J?rmungandr as the real owner and she wouldn't give access to Felix unless she was given permission by the owner.

"Elder, please tell him to make a bank account first so I can wire him a couple billion to work with." Felix requested while heading to the VR pod.

"Don't bother yourself with such matters." Lady Sphinx said, "He is under my care now."

Upon hearing so, Felix didn't bring the matter again since Lady Sphinx's care was a billion times better than him.

"You're next Asna." Felix joked, "Since the elder's bracelet had already taken my 2nd wrist, I will place yours above my left ankle. My favorite place for my favorite girl."

"I dare you to do it you f*cker!!" Asna snapped immediately at the sound of that.

She couldn't imagine how humiliating that would appear but if Felix truly did it, she honestly would still not hesitate to enter the UVR.

"Beggars can't be choosers." Felix snickered while contacting the VIP wormhole expressway. Totally ignoring her second barrage of insults, he spoke politely to the company's employee for a few minutes.

The content of their conversation was about his ID and spaceship license.

When they got approved since he didn't have any criminal records, he was asked about the type of service he wanted. Whether he wanted to subscribe with the company or just pay for one-time entry.

Naturally, Felix bought only one ticket for this wormhole to not leave any trails behind him since if he bought another one for the next wormhole that intel might end up in the hands of his hunters.

They would know exactly where to wait for him. Even now, he wasn't completely safe.

Hence, the moment he received the ticket after he paid 5 million SC for it, he requested the Queen to enter the wormhole!

Because it was a VIP expressway, the spaceship entered it with the speed of light, not bothering with queues and checkups.

That's why Felix entered the VR Pod, he knew that he wasn't going to see the wormhole or experience how it was inside.

But he didn't care about it since he had experienced it plenty of times in his previous life.

If he had to describe being inside a wormhole, it would be quite difficult since he saw only a bunch of merged colors from the windows like he was inside a juice mixer.

That's the closest thing he could come up with.

'Sir Felix, the spaceship has emerged from the other side of the wormhole.' The Queen announced in his mind, 'You are currently near the center of the Mariana Empire. Should I stick to the preset path?'

'Yes please.' Felix agreed.

He had no intentions of making a detour and going to check some of the popular hotspots in the empire when everyone was on his ass.

Hence, he entered another long journey to the next wormhole that would take at least 15 days.

...

Four days later...At 12:00 PM

Felix was sitting in his Androxa House's living room, wearing a suit and a disguise that changed his size, posture, face, voice, and everything else that could remotely associate with his real self.

This was the disguise he was planning on using for the meeting with the Anti-Royalty Alliance.

He had already created a fake name for himself, the Organization, the people working there...etc. He wasn't planning on introducing them but it was better to be thorough in his lie.

"Let's begin."

Felix took a deep breath to make himself focused and immediately sent his newest fake contact information to the Maganda Chief with his real email.

He simply informed him that one of the higher echelons of the Organization was ready to meet him and he should contact him right now.

After sending it, Felix waited for merely a minute before his bracelet started ringing.

"Here we go." Felix fixed his attire and accepted the call with an indifferent expression.

Cluck!

The moment the call was connected, five holographic videos emerged before Felix. Each one belonged to a member of the Anti-Royalty Alliance.

Meanwhile, the image those five were seeing was a totally dark background and Felix wearing a black suit. Naturally, they didn't recognize him at all due to the disguise.

"You have two minutes." Felix said indifferently, not wanting to wait for Maganda Chief to make the mood friendly like he always does.

His tone naturally displeased the seniors but they reeled it since they finally contacted the makers of the mythical bloodlines.

Hence, they decided to respect those two minutes and straightaway jump into the subject.

"There is no need to sugarcoat it. We are interested in your bloodlines and we want to enter a partnership that will ensure a steady stream of bottles for our people." Zosia said calmly.

Felix didn't speak as he simply kept looking at them with a disinterested gaze, making them frown their eyebrows slightly.

Before they could start feeling irritated by his scornful look, they were shocked to hear him say calmly, "Here we are trying to create a path for the human race to surpass other races and remove this stigma of 'A weaker race' from our name. Yet, you are desperate to get this powerup for what? To win a war between you and the Royal Family?"

Maganda Chief and the rest were left aghast at the sound of that without the ability to retort!

'Impossible! How does he knows about our alliance and plans to declare war against the Royal Family?!

'Did one of your trusted subordinates leaked the news?'

'That's not possible for me.' Zosia sent a message while trying her best to hide her agitation, 'All my loyal subordinates are hidden slaves. So, they can't betray me like this.'

'Same .!...'Me too.'

A heated discussion was ongoing telepathically between the five as the bombshell that Felix dropped was too much for them to handle.

The information about their hidden alliance and the declaration of war were fully classified. Only a few trusted people knew it.

They believed that it was possible for the Organization to figure out about their alliance since they had met with Felix together during the auction...But the declaration of war was off-bounds!!

"You have 1 minute and 30 seconds." Felix said nonchalantly, making them break out of their discussion and focus on him.

This time, they were looking at him with a hint of dread as they had no idea how much information did he know!

Upon seeing the way he was treated, Felix smiled faintly and comforted, "Don't worry, my organization never utilizes those kinds of information. We simply collect them for security reasons."

'Terrifying, their roots must be buried deeply in most of the backgrounds if they could even know about our classified information.' Gabriel said telepathically.

'We will discuss this later, we need to convince them to sign a contract as fast as possible in this remaining minute.' Zosia said, 'They are the real deal!'