Supreme Doctor son-in-law Dad

Chapter 1 The Divine Physician Immortal, Reborn to Return_1

"This, this is my home!"

"Wasn’t I in the midst of transcending a tribulation? Could it be... I’ve been reborn?!"

Inside the rented apartment, Ye Fei was filled with shock and confusion.

He was a once-in-ten-thousand-year peerless genius in the cultivation world, dominating the cosmos, suppressing myriad tribes, and known as the Saintly Physician Immortal Venerable.

Yet he clearly remembered that not too long ago, he was still undergoing tribulation, and it was the most difficult one to traverse—the Heart Demon Tribulation!

"Right, the Heart Demon Tribulation!"

"In my previous life, I had too many regrets, too many mental entanglements, preventing a steady Dao heart, ultimately leading to the creation of a heart demon."

"It seems that I failed in transcending the tribulation and ultimately perished, but by some stroke of fate, I’ve been reborn before I began my cultivation!"

A flash of realization crossed Ye Fei’s eyes as he figured out the reason.

Then, determination and excitement burst forth in his eyes.

"Good, very good, since the heavens have granted me another life, I must seize it well!"

"The regrets of my past life, I must make up for them all!"

"Little Ye, Yueru... in this life, no one will get the chance to bully you mother and daughter!"

"As for the Chen Family, you are doomed!!"

"And finally, the Su Family... You will pay back everything you owe us!"

"..."

Ye Fei's expression was icy as various memories involuntarily flashed through his mind.

In his past life, due to an accident while drunk, he had an affair with the Su family's noble daughter Su Yueru, which resulted in her pregnancy.

Having learned of this news, he sacrificed his male dignity and became a live-in son-in-law to the Su family.

But the Su family always treated the matter as a scandal, and seized the opportunity to kick them out of the family!

At that time, his daughter was just three months old!

Originally, the family of three, even having left the Su Family, could have lived peacefully.

But at the year his daughter turned four...

His wife Su Yueru passed away from a serious illness, and Ye Fei was schemed against, leaving his entire body paralyzed.

Little Ye was forced to beg on the streets and collect trash.

All because she needed to earn money, to pay for her parents' medical treatment!

At such a tender age, she suffered one hardship after another!

In the end, she was gone!!

When his wife heard the tragic news, she was overcome with such grief that her illness worsened, and she died without a cure!

Ye Fei was the only one fortunate amidst the misfortune.

He also wished for death, but being paralyzed and unable to move even a finger, he could only sorrowfully cling to life.

And it was precisely because of that he encountered his own fortuitous opportunity and stepped into the realm of cultivation.

With his exceptional talent and by using medical skills as his path, he cultivated all the way to the realm of transcending tribulations and ascending to immortality.

In the end, he failed to transcend and was reborn before he began his cultivation.

"All these are karma!"

"Because I had too many heart demons, which led to the failure of transcending the tribulation, I was reborn to the present!"

"Luckily, after being reborn, my paralysis was unexpectedly cured, otherwise, I would have faced great difficulty achieving anything!"

"This is an opportunity for recompense given by the heavens!"

Ye Fei’s eyes blazed like torches; he moved around to feel control over his body.

Then, he took out his mobile phone to check the current time.

The phone displayed April 16th.

He remembered that it was today that Little Ye was in the hospital accompanying Yueru, and when she returned, she had injuries on her, but she wouldn’t say anything when asked.

Moreover, his wife Su Yueru, while in the hospital, was violated by a second-generation rich!

I hope I’m not too late!

"Little Ye, Yueru, wait for me!!"

With a flash in his eyes, Ye Fei didn’t dare delay for a moment and immediately rushed out the door.

On his way past a medical shop, he traded his only valuable possession—an expensive phone—for a set of silver needles.

...

At the entrance of the Yongsheng Hospital.

Little Ye carried a worn-out little backpack, dragging two full bags of chemical fertilizer, which contained collected cans and plastic bottles.

That was her haul for the day.

She wasn’t even as tall as the fertilizer bags, struggling greatly as she dragged them along.

Every few steps, she had to stop and rest.

She lifted her little face, and upon seeing the nearby hospital, a sweet smile appeared.

She had collected two large bags today.

She could buy a box of milk for her mom to replenish her nutrition.

And make some meat dishes for her dad.

Little Ye licked her lips and felt her own tummy.

Very hungry.

After thinking for a moment, she took off her small backpack and pulled out a mineral water bottle that still had a little less than half its water.

Using a lot of force, she managed to twist open the cap.

She carefully poured some of the water into the bottle cap, took a small sip, and contentedly licked her lips before screwing the cap back on.

"Little Ye is young, a sip of water is fine, the rest of the money should be saved for dad and mom’s medical treatment,"

The little one spoke to herself, then patted her stomach, and stubbornly said, "Don’t growl, Little Ye isn’t hungry at all!"

She put the mineral water back into the backpack, slung it behind her, but accidentally knocked over the fertilizer bags.

Luckily, the contents didn’t spill out; otherwise, she would have had to pick them up one by one.

She crouched her little body down to prop the bags back up.

But just then, a foot kicked straight toward her.

Bang!

The fertilizer bag flew far away, and the bottles and cans inside scattered all over the ground.

"Damned brat, your stuff dirtied my clothes!"

A heavily made-up woman, without caring that she was facing just a child, stood with hands on hips and cursed loudly.