

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 321

The kindergarten's playground was massive and had been decorated with holiday ornaments.

Countless colorful pinwheels spun in the breeze. Crystal bubbles floated in the air, sparkling under the sunlight.

The sky was blue with cotton-like clouds.

"Daddy! Mommy!"

Alfie and Diana ran toward them, looking overjoyed.

Alfie held Ivan's empty hand, and Diana had Jennifer's, so their parents were still clinging together.

There were several red arches on the playground, such as Wisdom Door, Intelligence Door, and Happiness Door.

The benches along the wide aisle were fully packed with the students' parents. They were all waiting to hear the experience sharing.

In fact, they were confused.

"Isn't Mr. Marsh going to marry Catherine Collins soon? Are they acting here for the children's sake?"

"If so, they are indeed good at acting. The two even don't look awkward when walking so intimately. Who can tell they're going to divorce soon?"

"They are a perfect match, though."

"Their children are going to elementary school soon. Why will they divorce?"

"Mr. Marsh is indeed handsome. He looks even cuter than on TV."

"I agree. He's gorgeous."

Under the parents' envious gazes, Ivan, Jennifer, and their twins passed through the arches and walked onto the flower-surrounded stage in the center.

Another applause sounded.

As the headmaster gave a kick-off speech, the scene quieted down.

Instead of speaking many cliches, he had a simple opening. After glancing at the family of four next to him, he said, "We elected the family photo of Alfie and Diana to be the first prize out of several hundred photos. Our children saw things clearly, and 90% of them voted for this photo. Let's congratulate them."

The scene was filled with thunderous applause. Jennifer could feel all the gazes on her.

“Now, let’s welcome Alfie’s and Diana’s parents to share with us how they got along with the children and how they run a happy family.”

Then the headmaster passed the microphone to Ivan.

To everyone’s expectation, Ivan took over the microphone. He stood upright under the sun, born a man of status.

“Firstly, I must apologize to my wife,” he said mellowly in a magnetic voice, looking down at Jennifer next to him.

Jennifer’s heart tightened slightly. She looked at him tensely, afraid he would do something surprising.

“She raised our children and educated them so well. She’s the great woman behind me and has suffered a lot of grievances.” Ivan tossed the hair hanging down in front of her cheek lovingly. “I’m sorry, Jennifer. From now on, I’ll be a good father and qualified husband.”

Jennifer gaped at him, wondering what he was talking about.

The next second, Ivan lifted his mouth corner and looked at the audience. “The secret of our happy family is never delaying on resolve your conflicts till the next day. No matter how influential the husband is, he must know how to compromise with his wife.”

Then he added, “In my opinion, if there are any conflicts between a couple, the best solution is having sex.”

The audience applauded, especially the husbands.

All the wives blushed, feeling delighted.

Jennifer gazed at him calmly, wondering if he had been possessed as he was talking wantonly.

She believed Ivan wanted to appear on the headline and drag her into the mere with him.

Right then, Spencer and Catherine arrived, standing behind all the parents. They gasped for breath, sweat oozing on their foreheads. As soon as they entered the scene, they saw the family of four standing on the stage.

They watched Ivan hold Jennifer while speaking. When he looked at her, his eyes became affectionate.

Surprisingly, Ivan knelt to Jennifer on one knee, which raised a mighty uproar on the scene.

“Jennifer, this is my second time proposing to you for marriage,” said Ivan, “I didn’t get well-prepared, nor did I prepare a ring. However, I have a heart eager to ask you to marry me.”