

Sweet love 71

Chapter 71

Joyce's heroic dive was quickly festered throughout Khebury.

A girl saving a man was not something you could see every day!

Trending topics, headlines, and major network platforms were overwhelmed with news about her for several days.

Khebury was in full swing with the first "Khebury Shining Star" contest. It was not like some Khebury Lady contest, and it was not about qualifications, but a real selection of the best image for the city of Khebury. It was a truly public event and was absolutely fair.

There was no need for registration but votes from the citizens were required to be shortlisted. So there would be no forms to fill out and no propaganda to worry about.

You just needed absolute strength, charisma, and public recognition. The elected representatives would represent the Khebury government in various public service activities in the future.

Then there happened to be Joyce's heroic dive.

It's simply, a perfect match.

Although the selection was almost over, many people named Joyce at the same time, so Joyce is like a horse coming out from

For a while, the crowd around seemed to be boiling.

People were talking loudly and exchanging pleasantries.

"Joyce actually got married? Is it a hidden marriage?"

"I didn't hear about it, why so suddenly?"

"Why didn't we hear anything about it before?"

Joyce was confused for a moment, and her heart missed a beat.

Her bright eyes swept back and forth to the bottom of a circle, only to see the crowd mingling, talking, and countless suspicious eyes are looking at her.

For a moment, she could not help but felt at a loss.

What's going on? They knew she had got married? How should she answer this question? If she answered no, it would be inappropriate for her to lie as a "shining star" in case someone else had evidence.

But it was even more impossible for her to say yes.

Farther away from the podium, Charlotte also opened her phone and quickly browsed through the photos and news of the forum, which was about to explode with tens of thousands of comments in a short time.

Shelly heard a commotion outside and finally she felt that she could not wait any longer.

She ran out of the car and walked over to Luther and Charlotte.

Luther glanced at the phone in Charlotte's hand.

A few lines jumped into view.

“Orphan girl into a rich family.

How she did it?”

“Rabbit Or Fox? The unknown new wife of the president of R&S Group.” His eyes darkened steeply and burned with anger.

Charlotte saw that he did not look right, and as if she sensed something, she hurriedly wrapped her arms around him.

She didn't want him to come out at this time, since once he did, he would be admitting the whole thing, and it would be more difficult for the two to get a divorce.

"Don't go."

Luther gently covered her ear, "I'm here, don't say a word."

Joyce bit her lip tightly, lowered her head, and had to admit that even her fingers were shaking at this point.

The two walked off the podium together.

Seeing that they were about to leave, reporters swarmed around them.

The magnesium lights kept flashing, almost blinding the people around.

"Luther, are you acknowledging it?"

"Luther, are you in love for real?"

"Luther, may I ask when did you get your license? When are you planning to have the wedding?"

"May I ask why you chose to marry secretly, Luther?"

Luther put his arm around Joyce and walked away from the reporters with one arm to protect Joyce.

Immediately, she told the two colleagues the whole story of Charlotte's pregnancy.

All three of them had a soft spot for Joyce, and none of them liked Charlotte very much, and all of them felt indignant.

Simply put, Charlotte looked gentle, usually also polite to them, but they always felt that the woman had a lot of secrets and won't really be friends with them.

So the three privately plotted to expose Luther and Joyce's marriage status at the awards ceremony.

They wanted to help a little.

Anyway, it would stop Charlotte for now.

They had sort of helped Joyce a little.

"No, it won't harm Joyce.

Just now you also saw Charlotte's livid face.

She's angry.' A colleague smiled and pointed to Charlotte and Shelly not far away, with a naive smile.

In the Bentley, Luther sped along, driving out far from Canal Square before he stopped at the side of the road.

Joyce placed the lily bouquet in her hand in the back seat of the car.

She unbuckled her seat belt to relieve the pressure and used deep breathing to calm her disturbed heartbeat.

"There won't be any more reporters coming after us here" After Luther finished, he got out of the car, went to the trunk to get water, and handed a bottle of water to Joyce.

Just after all the mess, he noticed her dry lips, and the thirsty and tired look on her face.

She didn't think he could be quite considerate.

Anyway, Joyce took the mineral water, since she was indeed very thirsty.

"Thank you for helping me out just now." Joyce took a few sips of water, gently wiped the corners of her lips, and asked, "Are we still going to the Civil Affairs Bureau next?" Luther turned his head and his deep eyes looked into her eyes.

He snorted, "How is that possible? A divorce now?"

"Charlotte is pregnant, you two love each other, what am I in the middle of you two?" Joyce stared at Luther incredulously, "You're not in a hurry? Even if I can wait, can she wait?"

She's right.

He had decided to be responsible for Charlotte.

Also he had made up his mind to get a divorce.

But, he did not expect what happened today.

Apparently annoyed, Luther opened the mineral water bottle in his hand with such a great force that the water spilled out a lot, staining his expensive suit.

"Damn."

He let out a low curse.

Joyce saw this and pulled a few napkins to help him wipe up.

She felt his solid chest, firm belly, long and slender legs.

She looked down and wiped carefully, completely unaware of the changes in his eyes.

After the Khebury Shining Star award ceremony.

The R&S Group headquarters is filled with journalists almost every day.

Joyce didn't think she would have to wear a black mask, sunglasses and a black baseball cap to sneak into the building one day just to work.

The major social media apps, news apps, forums and blogs were all dominated by news of Luther and Joyce's marriage, with tens of millions of comments all over the place.

R&S Group's public relations department stayed up all night for several days working on a press release, preparing statements, announcements and Q&A conferences for them.

Overall, they had handled the matter perfectly and had improved the image of the president of R&S Group.

The perfect romantic love story of a domineering and golden president and a multi-talented and artistic Cinderella with a beautiful heart was being hyped up like wildfire.

In just a few days, R&S Group stock shot up nearly 20 percentage to its all-time high.

In one fell swoop, Luther's value increased by tens of billions.

"Wow, Casey, Club Haven, did I hear that right."

Some colleagues were the first to shout out.

"Cool, cool! Club Haven! Khebury luxury private club, for VVIP only! I heard they had a collection of top dishes from various countries, which would cost 10,000 each person.

Someone like me only heard of the name, but never had the chance to step into the door!"

the colleague excitedly jumped up in place, jumping around several times.

"Yeah, yeah, it's all thanks to Joyce.

Thank you Shining Star for shining on us." Juanita exaggeratedly ran up to Joyce and gave her a big hug.

The warm and harmonious atmosphere of the project team was Joyce's greatest comfort in the past few days.

No one asked her why she married Luther, no one gossiped, and no one pointed fingers at her.

In the project team, the relaxed environment relieved her of all the pressure.

In the evening, after the cheerful dinner, a large group of people began to drink and karaoke.
It must be said that Club Haven was of a very high class.
The decoration was extremely luxurious, with the magnificence of a palace.
The meal just now was also an eye-opening experience.
They had all the delicious food one could ever find on earth.
There were Russian caviar, French foie gras, Japanese Kobe steak, king crab, abalone, shark fins, sea cucumber, Cook's champagne, Lafite, just everything.
As an ordinary staff, they may not be able to eat such a luxurious feast in their lifetime.
All thanks to Joyce.
Everyone tasted the dishes happily but no one dared to drink much, for fear that after drinking too much, they would forget the taste of such delicacy.
Juanita was particularly happy today.
Her almond eyes were now squeezed into a thin line with her smile.
She picked up the microphone and sang.
The first song she sang was "Marigold by AIMYON" Her voice was refreshing and pleasant, crisp and cheerful, like a mountain stream of spring water bubbling down.
