Chapter 1061

“What?”

Everyone’s expression changed.

The whole yard suddenly turned silent as if there was nobody there.

Samuel’s words hit them like a bolt from the blue.

Everyone’s smile instantly stiffened.

Only Kent, next to Fion, leaned back in his chair, looking happy.

He knew Sean would have plans.

Sean would make sure the Quinn family knew that they were blind.

Sean did not let Kent down.

“No way! Uncle Sam, your joke isn’t funny.”

Simon was the first to react after a while.

“No, it can’t be!”

Faye nodded along too.

“No way!”

Old Madam Quinn and the rest were also unconvinced.

“I don’t think it’s possible either, but it’s true!

“When I was there, Sean was sitting in the Reach For Will Group’s chairman’s office.

“Mr. Harry Clarke greeted him and called him their chairman!

“Could this be fake?”

Samuel slapped his thigh and shook his head as he spoke to the crowd.

“Well...”

The crowd froze again when they heard that.

Old Madam Quinn widened her eyes as she froze on the spot.

River City business circle was now at Lennon Group's command.

The underworld's ruler, Flint, was at Sean's beck and call.

The government departments also had a close relationship with Sean. After all, they had a special relationship.

Jason, stationed in River City's army, was also friends with Sean.

It was no exaggeration to say that he had conquered the entire River City.

Even if another Jen-Bond Holdings appeared, they would have trouble entering the River City's business circle.

Many people knew Reach For Will Group had Lennon Group's back. It was why it was so capable.

Sean also got to where he was today by relying on Reach For Will Group.

Few people knew the truth about it.

Larson Pharmaceuticals' Homer and Chadwick Summers knew that Sean did not get to where he was with Reach For Will Group.

They did not know the details of Sean's relationship with Reach For Will Group.

However, they could feel that even Harry was respectful in front of Sean.

Therefore, Sean was not as simple as others think.

Even if he wanted to use someone to get to the top, it would not be Harry but someone more influential than him.

The biggest possibility was that Sean was close with the chairman behind Reach For Will Group.

"Old Madam also asked us to go to Sean if we have no other choice.

"So this meeting is important. You must go."

Fion said to Kent as her tone relaxed.

"I said no!

"You can go alone!

"I won't interfere with you, and you should do the same.

"I'd like to see how long you'll ask for trouble."

Kent immediately got up, turned around, and walked into his room, slamming the door.

"You!"

Fion's hands trembled with anger, but she gritted her teeth, said nothing, and turned around to walk out.

Kent quietly called Willow.

He was asking about Reach For Will Group.

"Lennon Group's relationship with Reach For Will Group? Why do you ask, Dad?"

Willow asked casually without a shadow of a doubt.

"I just wanted to ask. I meant nothing else.

The female assistant reported promptly.

“Never mind. Arrange it. I’ll head there right now.”

Willow immediately got up. She was swift and decisive.

“Yes!”

The female assistant answered and hurriedly went to prepare.

Afternoon.

The office building of Jen-Bond Holdings’ River City branch.

The signs had been renamed Lennon Group.

Jen-Bond Holdings was indeed financially powerful. Even their branch’s office building was imposing.

The location they chose was also interesting. It reflected Reach For Will Group in the distance.

The distance and location of the two buildings were unique. They would confront each other if they were enemies, and neither would give in.

If they were friends, they would complement one another and help each other.

After fighting with them for so long. Sean finally resolved Reach For Will Group’s crisis.

“Whew!”

In the office, Sean put down the phone and exhaled gently.

He contacted Jason again just now and said some things.

Many things were imminent.

Sean must also start preparing for his return to the Northwest.

In short, he had to do it before Blaze did.

He must catch him off guard.

“Commander, what did Jason say?”

Zander asked quietly, offering Sean a cup of coffee.

“Things aren’t looking too good.

Sean's always calm heart finally began to tense up.

"It doesn't matter.

"You can call her first."

Jon looked confident as he spoke to Sean with a sneer.

Sean and Jon looked into each other's eyes for two seconds. Sure enough, the line said her phone was turned off.

Unwilling to give up, Sean called again.

“Hello, the number you dialed is unavailable. Please try again later.”

The voice prompt came from the phone again.

Sean’s heart rate gradually increased, and his expression changed

Jon looked at Sean, sneering.

He knew there was no turning back after he was reported.

Even the best lawyers he could find could not help him.

However, he went ahead and got a lawyer.

Only he knew he did not want the lawyer to fight his case.

It was about getting the lawyer to help him run some errands outside.

It was something to push Sean, of course.

Sean stepped forward and kicked again.

Screech!

Jon lay on his side as he slid along the ground quite far away with his chair.

"Tell me. Where is she?"

Sean's eyes were cold, staring at Jon like an angry beast.

"Any move you make on me will be paid back on Willow tenfold.

"Kill me if you can, and I'll make sure Willow dies of humiliation!

"Try me if you don't believe me!"

Jon lay on his side with a chill in his eyes and threatened Sean again.

This sentence forced Sean to stop for a while.

“Why do you want trouble?”

“I can forgive you for everything you’ve done.

“I can let the Zimmer family off the hook too, but why do you have to go after her?”

“Why are you forcing me to kill you?”

Sean asked Jon, sitting slowly in the chair and looking at him.

“Haha! Go ahead. Do it if you can!

Jon did not listen to Sean’s advice and replied with a sneer.

“Let her go, and we can talk it through.”

Sean frowned slightly. If he did what Jon told him, all his hard work would be for nothing.

Even if someone from Souz River tried to help him, and he admitted to the crimes, no one could protect him!

Sean would probably be called the biggest fraudster of all time.

He would also be locked up and have difficulty changing his fate.

"I'm f*cking talking to you. Do you hear me?"

Noticing Sean's silence, Jon extended his leg and kicked twice.

“I’ll give you five seconds to think about it.

“We can fight to the death if you disagree.

“The Zimmer family has no choice. We have nothing to lose.

“I’m willing to give it a shot. What about you?”

Jon sneered with disdain in his eyes.

Sean exhaled gently and nodded again.

“I agree to all your terms.

“But I need to see that Willow is safe.”

Sean looked at Jon and stated his terms.

“Who are you to bargain with me?

“You’re now nothing in front of me. Got it?”

Jon laughed, his face smug.

“I need to see that she’s safe.”

Sean repeated his terms with cold eyes.

“He sent someone to abduct Willow.”

Sean said coldly, suppressing the irritation in his heart.

“What?”

Jason was also instantly stunned to hear this.

He knew how much Willow meant to Sean.

Sean was supposed to find a way to get back into the army and regain control as soon as possible.

However, he wasted so much time building an empire in River City for Willow.

Everything Sean did was greatly related to Willow

Jon was desperate, wanting to threaten Sean with Willow.

How pissed off must Sean be?

“Mr. Lennon, I’m sorry...

Jason apologized to Sean repeatedly after coming to himself.

He had no choice but apologize.

Sean had the chance to kill Jon.

However, Jason interceded for the Zimmer Family, and Sean did him a favor by letting Jon live.

These employees did not know him, so they would not be cooperative.

The best way was to give him the runaround.

The beautiful woman in a medieval dress froze before asking quietly.

“Give him a call and ask him to come over.

“I have something important to see him about.”

Sean was terse, so he did not sound friendly.

"I'm sorry, sir.

"We don't have the boss's contact information.

"If you're a friend of our boss, you'd better call him yourself."

The beautiful woman in the medieval dress smiled and politely refused.

Their boss was not someone anyone could see whenever they wanted.

If Sean knew their boss, he would have his contact information. He would not need her to call him.

Sean frowned slightly at this.

"Then may I ask if you have seen this woman?"

The young man was also surprised. He had not expected Zander to be so tough.

As the manager, he was in charge when the boss was not around. Therefore, he had to take care of this.

“I tried talking to you nicely, but you refused.

“Then there’s nothing to talk about.”

Sean glanced at the young man before stepping aside and sitting down in a chair.

Zander took the stairs, heading toward the second floor.

No one stopped him this time.

“Do you have any idea what this place is?”

“You’re dead meat if you make any trouble here!

The young man’s face was dark as he pointed at Sean and shouted.

“What is this place?”

Sean looked at the young man and asked in reply.

“You... You...”

The young man pointed at Sean, momentarily speechless.

“I can barge in even if this is River City’s government office.

“Who do you think you are?”

Sean’s eyes were calm, his tone a little dismissive.

“Who... Who on earth are you?”

The young man was silent for two seconds before asking through gritted teeth.

Sean spoke slowly, revealing his identity.
