T.O.A.F.B chapter 4

Lisa

Oh my goodness! Don't you think the problem lies with you Kira? How could you do a thing like that...?

Maybe the traps pulled off but should've been rightly anchored to the tree, now it couldn't even catch a thing.

It's not my fault Lisa, I did anchored it, maybe the creature let loosed by untraceable chances of luck, you never could have predicted that, do you?

It's obvious today isn't fortunate enough for the both of us, Kira.

Fortunate? Whatever! Spare me, that Idiocy is really jetting through the utmost part of my nerves, but I've got a different plan, let's try this out, and the fortune is ours.

You'll stop at nothing, other than reinventing another false impression Kira.

The last time we caught a huge Rabbit with this traps, the methods weren't so disorganised.

We're sticking to the original methods.

I think Mira will be very disappointed we left her behind mission.

She does it better, you'd got to figure that out.

And Who's arguing about who does it better, I've got my own new methods, just let me introduce to you, how to strategically get a hook into a Rabbit's throat. I and Emma been on, practising this methods for quite some time now. The last time Emma aimed for it, she almost got a huge catch.

But she didn't Kira. It's a waste of precise timing, to think applying this so called new method of yours is going to catch you a damn thing.

I Lisa Roogan Hovah forbids it.

The former methods is still reliable Kira.

Kira: Nope! You certainly don't have to tell me that this methods isn't worth trying. Nothing is going wrong if we but try something out here. Just one more test and maybe it'll turn up, it might just workout.

“Workout, she says, but only interrupting our progress. ”

Lisa: By the way, who's the leader here ?

Kira: You are my lady.

Lisa: So do as instructed.

We're already at Craddo's town, in the woods hunting.

The town is the closest to the Beach-City, with a large forest reserve. It's forest, Harbours wild animals of various kind. Animals that are either hunted for food or captured to be raised in the Zoo or to be trained domestically.

My first hunt-exhibition, was supervised by Nathan my brother, the same day I caught an Antelope with my bow and arrows.

The bow and arrows were specially designed, with ancient curves and marks and symbols of great Archers in Moogolve Kingdom. It was made by my father, who was the Chief hunter warrior of our clan.

The bow and arrow was carried along with a little vessel containing a viper's venom, harnessed from the King Cobra and traded overtime for divers purposes.

Nathan my brother told me, the viper's venom was used to completely incapacitate a target and that it was traditional among the best archers in the world, in ancient times, who knew the secret.

Nathan said, Roogan my father once gave the advice, “when you come across a hard-target or encountering an uneasy target, first, aim at it and then strike with all you've got. “

To strike with all you've got, was simply to dipped the sharp edge of the arrow into the vessel filled with spittle of viper's venom, before aiming at any target and then striking at the precise target.

7 Traditionally, it is belief, targets when hit by a single venomous arrow, becomes completely paralyzed and barely could survived from just a single hit.

Craddo's forest is a dangerous place to stay, mostly in the night.

Rumours of wild beast and animal and werewolf - creatures scares everyone in Moogolve to the bone.

So no one dares even to spent a night for any occasion in the deep forest in Craddo's forest, for fear of looming dangers.

Before nightfall evacuation from the forest might have been completed and every hunting activities deactivated.
