The Divorced Billionaire Heiress chapter 2594-Eric walked over, looking strong and confident. However, he deliberately restrained his nature so that people would not feel oppressed.

He glanced at Nicole calmly. Nicole consciously took a step back and handed over the things he had prepared.

Eric took it over, took out the contents, and slowly got down on one knee in front of everyone.

Selena's face froze slightly.

Suddenly, someone shouted. "Look, it's a drone..."

Selena could not help but look up.

The night sky, which was originally full of stars, suddenly had countless drones.

The drones formed an image of a man on one knee while the woman was standing.

The large area was lit up by the drones.

Even her skirt and her fingers were clearly outlined.

It seemed that their current actions had been infinitely magnified in the night sky.

They were on the beach, and the breeze was cool.

Selena's heart was racing.

She could subtly detect the movement around her.

However, her ears seemed to be covered by a thin barrier.

She could hear everything, but it did not register.

The exclamation and admiration of the people around them could not be described.

When Eric knelt on the ground and gently took Selena's hand, the drones in the night sky also changed their formation to mirror his actions.

Selena was indescribably shocked and surprised.

Selena would be dull if she still did not know what he was going to do.

Eric asked Nicole to pass him the ring so that everyone could witness his love and marriage to Selena.

This was another way for Eric to prove his sincere love.

Selena's doubts were mostly cleared because of what Nicole said at first, but now, Selena completely let go of it because of Eric's actions.

Perhaps, she should have believed him earlier.

Her heart was aching and pounding with excitement.

Eric knelt on one knee. His lips opened and closed, and he was saying something. Selena could not hear him clearly.

When Selena looked into his dark eyes, which were clear and frank. A warm current surged in her heart.

She wanted to go all out to love him until the end of time.

She would stick to her beliefs and gamble everything.

Eric was worth it.

Selena instantly let go of all her worries.

It was exciting and charming like the waves of the sea.

When everyone witnessing was applauding, Eric gently put the ring on her ring finger.

This brand-new ring was more exquisite, dazzling, and larger than the other ring on her hand.

It was certainly priceless.

Selena smiled. Eric smiled too.

Then, Eric stood up and hugged her tightly.

He whispered in her ear.

"Selena, I will definitely treat you well and risk my life for you."

Selena smiled and put her arms around him.

"Eric, I'll treat you well too."

It was only fair to reciprocate it.

Her whole life was full of ups and downs and loneliness. Finally on this night, she felt settled.

The wedding on the next day was mysterious and extravagant.

Selena willingly changed into her wedding dress this time and asked the makeup artist to help her dress up.

Chatty liked to run around with Chance, and Chance had never let go of her hand for a moment.

He pulled her over to introduce her to this and that and brought her delicious ice cream.

Every time Clayton turned around and could not find his precious daughter, he felt a complicated emotion.

The wedding ceremony was held as scheduled.

Chaz walked Selena down the aisle.

He was her only companion in distress.

Eric had no objections since Chaz liked men anyway.

Chaz was not the enemy.

Many elite ladies were heartbroken.

Even if they did not want to witness this wedding, they were forced to smile and congratulate the couple.

Besides Eric and Selena, Clayton was the happiest person at the wedding.

Clayton was not just happy. He even drank a lot of wine on Eric's behalf for fear of delaying Eric's consummation of marriage.

Eric sneered when he saw this and did not care.

The wedding lasted three days.

Everyone left one after another.

Eric and Selena stayed until the end because they still had to go on their honeymoon.

It was a bit extravagant for Eric, but to celebrate his marriage, he gave himself slightly more than one month off.

The guests left, and Chance went back to school.

Eric was a little tired these days and finally had a chance to calm down. He sat down and wanted to see Selena.

“Mrs. Ferguson, where do you want to go first?”

Eric opened the door, but no one was in the dressing room.

He froze for a moment and went out to find a servant.

“Where’s the madam?”

The servant was stunned. “She was just here. Hasn’t she been in the room the entire time?”

Eric’s expression changed slightly. He felt a faint uneasiness in his heart.

He pursed his lips and felt that he was making a fuss again.

Eric patiently went to every room to look for Selena, but he could not find her.

It felt like cold water was poured over his head after the celebration.

Eric stood at the door with a gloomy face.

“Go find her and check the surveillance.”

He took his phone and dialed Selena’s number, but it was out of the service area.

Selena would not leave for no reason.

She was happy these few days, and Eric knew it.

Eric felt inexplicably flustered for no reason.

He paused and called Mitchell.

“Have you sent off all the members of the Nelson family?”

“Yes, Mr. Ferguson. I watched them get on the plane with my own eyes.”

Eric’s expression darkened. “Find out where they are now.”

“Yes, sir.”

Mitchell hung up the phone. He had a feeling that something was wrong, so he went to investigate immediately.

In the afternoon, the information that the bodyguards gathered arrived at the office.

Selena’s aunt and uncle appeared near Nelson Residence, but Jennifer never showed up.

Mitchell quickly called the private jet company.

“It was three people. Those three people arrived at the destination.”

“Were there any other planes flying to and from the island?”

“We controlled the air traffic during that time. Mr. Ferguson did let some planes transport supplies and drinks back and forth, and pick up and drop off guests...”

Mitchell paused.

He had a feeling that something bad was going to happen.

Mitchell reported the information he got to Eric.

Eric remained silent, and then ordered in an indifferent voice, “Find out Jennifer Nelson’s whereabouts and capture her parents. Send them here.”

“Yes, sir.”

Eric was impatient and loosened his collar.

The security before and after the wedding was adequate.

Eric thought about the possibility of his enemies making a move during this time and had already sent someone to watch them.

The only episode that was unexpected was the Nelson family’s sudden appearance on the eve of the wedding, which upset Selena.

Eric acted uncharacteristically and punished Jennifer by himself.

He did not expect Jennifer to be so courageous to want revenge.

The bodyguard came out of the room, along with the butler of the hotel.

Their expressions were very strange.

“Mr. Ferguson, there is no surveillance in the dressing room, so we can only see Ms. Nelson go from the living room to the dressing room. She never came out again. There are no traces of her elsewhere.”

How could someone disappear out of thin air?
