

The 80s 348

Chapter 348: This Guy is the Villain

Cheng Su returned to the building and saw Hualing looking at her with a gossipy expression, her eyes hovering over the military uniform in her hand. She showed a gossip-hungry look, and was just about to speak when Cheng Su said, "Off to work? Take care, bye!"

Without waiting for Hualing to reply, she went upstairs, came home, closed the door, and threw Qi Taiguo's clothes into the basin in the bathroom. She poured a basin of water into it, added a good amount of laundry detergent, and scrubbed furiously, creating a sea of suds!

Cheng Su furiously tossed the uniform into the basin, causing countless bubbles to splash around as she cursed, "Qi Taiguo, you bastard!"

She had just smelled the perfume on Chiang Qing, which was the same scent she had noticed on Qi Taiguo's clothes that day.

Having encountered Chiang Qing just now, she was sure that Chiang Qing was definitely the villainous role from TV dramas, and moreover, one with a significant background.

Usually, in a life full of cheats and shortcuts, there are always some obstacles, and she understood that. Thus, having been here for over half a year, it was time for such a villain to appear. Cheng Su bit her teeth, somewhat ready to throw punches.

But if Chiang Qing is the villain, then what about Qi Taiguo?

This villain, with her figure, beauty and competence, might even come from a background of a rich and influential family, an ideal dream lover for all men. Having such a wife would save a man thirty years of hard work!

Take Chen Shouwang for example. Isn't Hualing just the same type as Chiang Qing? So, Chen Shouwang broke the bank to marry himself a Bodhisattva-like wife, and Hualing isn't even on the same level as Chiang Qing!

So, Qi Taiguo, can you withstand the test, or will you succumb?

Cheng Su thought about Chiang Qing's words. He stayed at her place last night; was he truly out on a mission yesterday, or was it something else...

Cheng Suxin felt a tightness in her chest, suddenly afraid to continue her line of thought. Considering the fact that Qi Taiguo hadn't been acting out of the ordinary recently and that Chiang Qing had only just arrived, it seemed unlikely that they could have hooked up so quickly!

So what was Qi Taiguo up to, not coming home last night and spending time with another woman, even leaving his clothes at her place?

Carrying a heart full of doubts and worries, Cheng Su went to the restaurant and the factory in succession. By noon, Ning Ge returned in a whirlwind of dust and fatigue.

"Did you go to war or dive into the ocean? What happened to you to come back looking like a mess?" Cheng Su pointed at his face, now darkened and thin, and asked.

Ning Ge said, "I had some matters to attend to!" Seeing Cheng Su's doubtful expression, he quickly added, "Personal matters!"

Since it was a personal matter, Cheng Su didn't inquire further. Besides, she had her own concerns and wasn't in the mood to pry into his.

"What's wrong with you?" Ning Ge drank a couple gulps of water, noticing her unusual silence, and asked.

Cheng Su sulked with her chin resting on the table and said, "A 'third party' has finally appeared in my marriage, and it looks like I'm going to have to fight this mistress quite soon!"

Ning Ge choked on the water in his throat, "What? A 'third party'?"

Seeing his bewildered face and realizing that the term 'third party' hadn't yet been coined in this era, she remembered to use 'Fox Spirit' or 'home-wrecker' instead.

"Some Fox Spirit has taken a liking to Qi Taiguo. This morning, she even came to show off and provoke me!" Cheng Su corrected herself.

Ning Ge was taken aback, his expression turning solemn as he said in a deep voice, "Are you saying Big Brother Qi did something to wrong you? And that woman even came to your door?"

Uh, not exactly!

Cheng Su saw his serious face, which was cold, stern, and like nothing she'd seen before, and was somewhat taken aback herself.

This kid, he can actually look so serious? Did she and Qi Taiguo both fail to see this side of him?
