

The 80s 372

Chapter 372 Are You Sick?

Cheng Su and Ying Xiaoya balanced accounts for the entire day, and it was only when the quitting time bell rang that the two of them stretched lazily and began to pack up to go home.

"Oh, my mom wants to invite you guys over to my place for dinner. She said it's to celebrate my job change. When are you guys free?" Ying Xiaoya glanced at Ning Ge who was reading the newspaper on the sofa and said to Cheng Su.

Cheng Su smiled, "Is it us or him?"

Ying Xiaoya glared at her and retorted, "Of course, it's you guys. Why wouldn't you be? You're both my bosses. If I don't suck up to you, what will I do if you don't promote me or give me a raise later?"

Cheng Su then said, "I'm free anytime, Taiguo, how about you?" She paused and then added, "Forget it, asking you is pointless, what could you possibly have on? I say we make it tomorrow night?"

"Hey, hey, I'm very busy, okay?" Ning Ge protested, saying, "You guys handled accounts all day, but wasn't it me who bought the meals? Don't I patrol the factory? Didn't I chair the business meetings?"

"Fine, fine, you're the capable one. How about visiting County Chief Ying tomorrow night then?" Cheng Su raised an eyebrow.

Only then did Ning Ge proudly lift his chin, saying, "I'm free tomorrow, let's go!"

Ying Xiaoya looked at him with disdain and then said to Cheng Su, "Call Commander Qi too, since you'll be coming, and there'll be no one at home to cook."

Cheng Su thought for a moment and then agreed.

Meanwhile, Qi Taiguo frowned as he looked at the woman before him.

"How did Doctor Chiang find out about my birthday?"

He hadn't taken the gift that Chiang Qing was offering, instead posing the question.

Indeed, Chiang Qing had come to his office to give him a birthday present, which truly rattled his worldview. An unmarried woman, giving a married man a gift? What was she thinking!

She must be sick!

"I'm quite familiar with Commander Qi's heroic deeds, and naturally, I know about your birthday. I should have given you this present yesterday, but when I went to find you after work, you had already gone home. It wouldn't have been right to drop by your house, so I only could give it to you today. Take it!" Chiang Qing lifted the box in her hand slightly.

Qi Taiguo did not look at the box, but with a serious expression turned to Chiang Qing, "I appreciate Doctor Chiang's sentiment, but I must refuse the gift."

Chiang Qing was taken aback and said softly, "At least open it to see if you like it."

"Whether I like it or not, I cannot accept it. Please take it back," Qi Taiguo said as he lowered his gaze to the day's training report.

Chiang Qing straightforwardly opened the box, which clearly held a watch. She said, "I noticed you don't wear a watch. It doesn't look good for a commander to be without one."

Qi Taiguo was shocked and promptly rolled up the sleeve of his right shirt, revealing the watch Cheng Su had given him, and glared at Chiang Qing, "Doctor Chiang, I have a watch, one my wife gave me." He emphasized the word "wife" and said, "I will only wear and use the things my wife gives me. Thank you, but please leave!"

Chiang Qing paused at the sight, biting her lip, "Is Commander Qi just going to trample over my heartfelt intentions like this?"

Qi Taiguo's eyebrows knitted tightly, unable to understand why she couldn't grasp the situation. He looked up again, glaring at Chiang Qing, "Doctor Chiang, I am a married man, with a wife. How could I possibly accept your sentiment?"

"So what?" Chiang Qing lifted her chin proudly, "Being married doesn't mean you can't get divorced!"

At these words, Qi Taiguo's eyes widened in shock, looking at her as if she were insane, "Doctor Chiang, are you sick or what?"

Actually, she must be a lunatic!