

My mate's a human!

Makahi POV:

"ROGUES SPOTTED AT THE EAST BORDERS!"

Blaze mind linked the pack! "Shit how many?" I asked running out of the office towards the east border, taking my shirt off as I ran. I had no time to discard my pants, so they will just get shredded when I shift. "Looks like maybe fifteen or more." Blaze responded. "Hunter make sure all the women and children are in the safe houses." "Copy that." Hunter responded. "I need at least five guards on each border NOW, to make sure there is no more waiting to attack. "Everyone else at the east border." I yelled cutting off the mind link. As I approached, I see Shadow grabbing a rogue wolf by its neck and snapped it like it was nothing, he hadn't even shifted yet. Wait, what the hell is he doing here, and not on the west with the human women. Just before I could ask, I see my mother running toward me frantically. " Mom why aren't you in one of the safe houses? Where are the human women?" I asked opening up my mind link again, as I broke into a run towards my mother. I could see Shadow and Montego following right behind me.

"I don't know, they were out back training, when I heard the growls. I looked out back and they were gone. Kahi, we have to find them, they can't die, please find them. Oh, my Goddess Razor, I didn't see him either, he must have gotten out somehow. He was so fond of Ji'lahni he must have run after them." My mother cried and fell into my arms. "Damn it mother, I told you to keep your eyes on them. Go to the safe house with dad and I'll find the girls and Razor." "No, those girls were my responsibility, I can help search for them, I can fight." "Mother there's no time to argue, I can't search for them and worry about you, now please just go." I said handing her to one of the guards that were helping some of the other women and children to the safe house. So far, my men were keeping the rogues at the border, they hadn't made it to the community yet. With any luck they won't, I heard a roar that came from the west. Shadow roared and shift in the blank of an eye and took off towards the west borders where we had the humans housed.

Me and Montego broke out running, we didn't want to shift and scare the humans any more than they already were. We weren't going to shift unless completely necessary. When the house came into view, I immediately heard Razor barking, which let me know he wasn't in the house. He must be in the wooded area where I can only assume the human women were. "SHADOW THEIR IN THE WOODS BEHIND THE HOUSE! GO IN FROM THE BACK!" I mind linked, he let out a roar and broke off from us so he would come up behind them, while we headed to the wooded area behind the house. All in a matter of seconds, which felt like minutes. I smelled the scent of watermelon and something else, I still couldn't put my finger on. Maka immediately pushed forward trying to take control. I could see from a distance three rogue wolves and Razor barreling towards the biggest rogue. I looked up just as I heard one of the women yelled. "Raz, get your ass back to the house. I swear if you get eaten, I'm gonna spank your little wolf ass!" Just Before she broke out into a run pulled out her crossbow aimed and shot. The other two women followed suit aiming at the other two rogue wolves and did the same.

The bow hit the wolf's neck and slowed him down enough to allow her to scoop Razor up, cradle him, just as the wolf recovered, and swiped at her left arm that held Razor. The rogue immediately yanked his paw away as if he'd just got burned. I saw his paw smoking, she screamed out, pulled a knife out of nowhere, and stabbed the rogue wolf in his neck. As we got closer to them that smell hit me square in the chest so hard it caused me to stumble. Maka roared "MINE!" in my head. I let out a roar that shook the ground, sprinted trying to get to my human mate. Goddess be damned, my mate is human. She tucked Razor into her shirt to free up her hands. The wolf was dying but not dead, he got up, shook his head, and knocked my mate across the ground. She grunted from the blow, curled her body around Razor at the last second before she hit the tree. I grabbed the rogue wolf by the neck before he could reach my mate to finish her off. I let Maka come forward enough to rip his throat out. I could see Shadow and Montego making quick work of the other two rogues as I rushed over to my mate. 1

Her arm was bleeding badly, I needed to get her to the pack doctor before she dies. I lifted her easily into my arms, frantically moved her braids out of her face. She had the most beautiful smooth milk chocolate skin, full lips that looked like they were soft like clouds. "Hey baby, wake up, please wake up for me, come on open your eyes, and look at me please. You can't die now, especially, when I don't even know your name." I whispered about to go into a full-blown meltdown. I could hear Razor whimpering still hiding in her shirt. "Hey Razor buddy, you can come out now it's safe." I said lifting her shirt careful not to expose her to Shadow or Montego. Montego scooped Razor up into his arms and squat beside me. Both of her cousins were shaking like a leaf, in shock even though they almost single handedly taken out three wolves by themselves.

I would be impressed, if I wasn't scared half to death that my mate could have been killed. Once this was over, I'm locking her ass up in my house, so she will never to do something like this again. I thought angrily. I could see Shadow slowly approaching one of the women who look like she wanted to bolt. I guess she figured he was ok, since he damn near ripped the wolf she was fighting neck off.

His wolf was checking her for injuries, but she was trying to push him off which he completely ignored. Growling in warning, she immediately froze as he continued to check to see if she was hurt. Lost in thought, still trying to wake up the woman in my arms. I barely heard Montego. "Alpha your hand." Montego said stepping back. Huh? What about my hand? I looked down and notice that my hand was burning, from where her blood dripped on me. I yanked my hand away but didn't let her go. "What the hell is that?" I yelled wide eyed. "I don't know, but we better get her to the pack doctor to find out. Because that's some freaky shit."

Montego said, putting even more distance between us as Razor was squirming trying to get back to my mate. but Montego held him firmly. Just then the other two came running over.

"Oh my God, Lahni please wake up, you better wake your ass up, if you die I swear I will never forgive you!" They both cried. The women all favored each other, you could tell they were family. "Hey, she's going to be fine, I'm going to take her to our doctor. He's the best in the state, but I have to hurry. You guys go change out of those bloody clothes and my Beta will escort you both to the hospital once you've cleaned up. I promise she will be fine; nothing is going to happen to her." I said lifting her into my arms and hissed when more of her blood burned my skin. I didn't know what the hell was going on, but I needed answers. "Mine" my wolf said worriedly, he was just as afraid as I was of losing our mate. Lahni is what her cousins called her. It was a beautiful name for a beautiful woman. I squeezed her closer to me but let go a little when she groaned, at least she was still breathing.

Bursting through the pack hospital, the doctor saw me and immediately stopped what he was doing. He let the nurse take over to finish helping with one of my men. "This way alpha is she breathing? What happened?" He asked going into a room. I laid her on the gurney but held her uninjured hand. "Rogue attack, it sliced her arm open then knocked her into a tree. She was trying to protect Razor. Once she hit the tree, she passed out, and doc her blood burns us." I said, the Doc looked shocked and took a step back, away from her. "Wha- what do you mean burn us?" He asked. I lifted my hand where her blood dripped on it. It was healing, but you can still see the red skin where the burn was. "I have never seen anything like it. I will have to test her blood once I get her stable. My gloves should protect my skin from her blood. Maybe you should put some gloves on too, so you want burn yourself again alpha." He said grabbing gloves and scissors.

"No." I growled; I refuse to let go of her hand. I needed to stay connected to her. The doctor cut her sleeve to see her wound. When he touched her skin, I growled at him. He looked at me in surprise and confusion. "Alpha, I have to touch her to, to make sure everything is alright before I stitch her up. Can I touch her?" He asked clearly shaking up by my reaction. I nodded, I didn't like him touching her, but I know he needed to do it to make her better. She hadn't opened her eyes yet; I couldn't wait to look into the eyes of my mate. I can't explain the overwhelming feelings that were hitting me. It's like when I found her, the emptiness Maka always felt without our mate, click into place as soon as we saw her. "My mate." Maka whispered into my head.