

Rising from the Ashes (Andrew and Lauren)

Chapter 3431

[572 words]

---- Chapter 3431 Eleanor hesitated for a moment. Then, she glared at Andrew with what seemed like annoyance. Andrew was genuinely confused about what was going on." Wait, Mom, you were blaming Dad earlier. Why does it suddenly look like you have something against me too?" Andrew felt guilty. Eleanor snorted. "Of course, I've got a problem with you! Andrew, I heard that you and Ms. Greene already have a child together. So that means I already have a grandson, right?" Andrew did not try to hide anything and nodded. "Yes, Mom. Shiloh and I have a son named Remyn.

When we leave here, I'll take you to meet him." Eleanor sighed. "You little bastard, you're absolutely shameless! Ms. Greene is from the same era as your ancestor, but you two actually got together and made this mess. I..." She simply did not know what to say. All she could say was that her son's audacity was even more outrageous than her husband's by a mile. Andrew laughed heartily with shameless confidence. "When Shiloh and I got together, I had no idea she had lived that long! ---- Back then, she was still pretty innocent." Eleanor huffed. "That's not what I wanted to talk about.

Andy, after Ms. Greene regained her memories, did the two of you sleep together again?" That question instantly made Andrew uncomfortable. He laughed nervously. "Mom, isn't it a little strange for you to ask me about something so private?" Reginald frowned as well. "Eleanor, this is Andy's business. He's, a grown man, so it's perfectly normal. Just leave it alone." Eleanor ground her teeth in frustration. "I'd love not to get involved, but now I have no choice! Ms. Greene is pregnant again! All three women got pregnant around the same time. You're really something, aren't you?

I'm absolutely furious with you. You knocked her up again! "Do you even realize that someone of your generation getting involved with Ms. Greene is already hard enough to handle? And now you're having children with her too? I really don't know what to say. You and your father can figure this mess out yourselves!" With that, she stormed off in a mix of anger and helplessness. Reginald stood there dumbfounded, looking at Andrew with admiration for the first time. "My boy, you're so impressive that even I'm speechless!" ---- Unlike Eleanor, he did not overthink things.

He was just grinning happily. Pregnancy was great news. After all, the Lloyd family line would grow stronger and stronger. As for Andrew, he could not even process what Eleanor said after that. Because all he heard was that Shiloh was pregnant again. She had given him Remyn, and she was now carrying his child once more. Andrew's head was buzzing, and he could not help but ask, "Dad, why is it so easy for people to get pregnant in the Veiled Paradise?" A moment later, Andrew was sitting in the magnificent hall of the Royal Court. Dalton was the undisputed ruler here.

Together with two other peak-level powerhouses, they formed the triumvirate of the Veiled Paradise. And now, led by Dalton, they were all chatting and laughing with Andrew. From time to time, Dalton even tried to get closer by calling Andrew his grandson. However, Andrew barely reacted to that. After thinking for a ---- while, he finally asked Dalton, "The spiritual energy here in the Veiled Paradise is extremely dense. It helps martial artists cultivate, right?"

Chapter 3432

[640 words]

---- Chapter 3432 Dalton nodded. "That's right. You've felt it yourself. Is there a problem?" Andrew frowned and thought for a moment before continuing, "Is it possible that the dense spiritual energy here also helps with fertility? Like, maybe it's easier for women to get pregnant here?" Dalton frowned, not expecting Andrew to ask such a question. Another powerhouse chuckled.

"Well, there's no convincing evidence for that, but dense spiritual energy is definitely beneficial for everything and everyone." Andrew made a sound of acknowledgment and thought to himself that the rich spiritual energy was probably not the reason. After all, three of his girlfriends had gotten pregnant so easily. Shiloh was even expecting their second child. No matter how he looked at it, that was the reality. Since that was the case, it was time to return to Holtrien. There were important matters that needed to be handled first.

Besides, Shiloh's temper had gotten worse after getting pregnant. She had gotten angry at the drop of a hat and thrown tantrums. She was nothing like the calm person she used to be. ---- Andrew felt pretty helpless about it. With that, they picked a date to leave the place. He, his lovers, and his parents were ready to bid farewell to the Veiled Paradise. However, on the very day they were about to leave, shocking news suddenly reached Andrew. At the last moment, Eleanor and Nyx hurried over to join the group. The moment Eleanor arrived, she shot Andrew a sharp glare.

"You little rascal, look what you've done!" Andrew protested. "Mom, what did I do to make you angry now?" Eleanor sneered. "You have the nerve to ask? Nyx is pregnant too! All four of them are pregnant at the same time! Andrew, you really couldn't keep it in your pants for one moment, could you? In this Sacred Realm, instead of properly cultivating your martial arts and improving yourself, all you think about is giving me a legion of grandchildren. Are you trying to exhaust me?" Andrew stood there in complete shock and turned to look at Nyx.

Nyx's face was partly hidden behind her golden hair as she shyly lowered her head. "I didn't know either... She just told me earlier, and apparently... I'm pregnant too." Andrew's face immediately darkened. ---- What was going on here? All four of his girlfriends were pregnant at the same time. Had he somehow turned into a fertility god? It was exactly what they said: the trip there was a breeze. The trip back? A whole different story. Still, pregnancies were good news, and overall, Andrew was happy.

The Lloyd royal family was powerful and wealthy, so they could easily raise them all. Eventually, the group left the Veiled Paradise. Before that, they spent two more days resting in Throne City out on the frontier. After that, they flew straight back to Holtrien, heading for Chetvine. What surprised Andrew was that the leader of Mount Lorneau, Luther, was actually visiting the Lloyd family estate. When he saw Andrew return, he smiled warmly. "Andy, I have been waiting for you for quite some time." Andrew replied politely, "Mr.

Johnston, is there something urgent you wanted to discuss?" Luther paused briefly before speaking. "Well, here's the situation. The Eight Ancient Sects suffered heavy losses during the recent ---- battle against the foreign forces. But overall, everyone's mindset has changed. We want to actively integrate into the modern world rather than hide away like we used to. So we would like to invite you to become the Grand Leader of our Eight Sects. "You would oversee us as a whole and give the final orders. Of course, you wouldn't need to deal with daily matters.

We mainly need someone powerful enough to command respect. And after thinking it over, I realized that no one fits that role better than you."

Chapter 3433

[660 words]

---- Chapter 3433 Faced with Luther's hopeful and expectant smile, Andrew flatly refused. He said, "Mr. Johnston, I absolutely can't take that position. The main thing is, I already have way too much on my plate. My wives are all about to give birth soon. Then, there's Philip from the military and the Divine Dragon Order, constantly keeping tabs on me. "On top of that, there's Throne City in the Outlands, which is also my territory. Honestly, Mr. Johnston, I've become very powerful now, but I really can't handle it all.

"I'm stretched too thin!" Luther looked disappointed, but then nodded in understanding. "You make a good point. The global situation is changing again, and the responsibilities you're carrying right now will only increase. But your wives are pregnant? Well, congratulations!" Andrew quickly thanked Luther for his congratulations. Along the entire journey, Shiloh had kept her brows tightly furrowed. Now she walked over, shot Andrew a glare, and there was a hint of playful affection in her eyes. Then she straightened her expression and looked at Luther.

"Luther, I want to ask you a strange question!" ---- She called him directly by name. Even though she looked like a woman in her late 20s, her tone carried the authority of someone much older. Luther immediately lowered his posture politely and showed no irritation at all. "Please ask, Ms. Greene. If I know the answer, I'll certainly tell you." Shiloh blushed slightly and said, "While we were at The Veiled Paradise, Valerie, Luna, Nyx, and I all got pregnant. This kind of thing, while not impossible, seems odd.

For all four of us to conceive at once, could there be some special reason?" Luther was shocked, and he carefully looked Shiloh over. Then, he glanced at Nyx, Luna, and Valerie. The three women's faces flushed red with embarrassment. Only Shiloh remained calm. After living for 1000 years, she feared nothing anymore. In fact, Andrew was the only person who had ever truly subdued her. Only when facing him did she ever show helplessness. As for other people, Shiloh simply ignored them. Anyone who defied her, she would deal with directly.

After a long moment of careful thought, Luther finally said, "This probably isn't because of the Veiled Paradise. In other words, it has little to do with that Sacred Realm. It should be related to ---- Andrew. The root of the issue is most likely Andrew himself." Andrew and the others all looked confused "The issue lies with me? Mr. Johnston, how do you explain that?" Luther thought for a moment before smiling. "This is only my rough guess.

Based on what I know, the great powerhouses of ancient times possessed extremely strong bloodlines, and one effect was that they could produce descendants easily. It was a natural advantage that only supreme powerhouses possessed. "Now that you've already surpassed Beneath the Gods, calling you a god wouldn't even be an exaggeration. Because of that, your physical constitution and even your genetics may have undergone a fundamental transformation. So when it comes to producing offspring, it naturally becomes much easier for your bloodline to continue." Eleanor suddenly spoke up.

"That actually makes sense. I remember seeing something similar to that theory before. Mr. Johnston, you really are incredibly knowledgeable." Luther smiled modestly. "You flatter me. This is only my personal speculation. As for the real answer, that would still depend on Andrew himself." Andrew fell into thought. "Maybe we should test it." Nyx giggled. "Sure, then I'll go call Lauren, Rowan, Natasha, ---- Aspen, Chantelle, and Francesca. After they found out that a few of us were pregnant, they didn't look very happy." Andrew looked speechless.

"What I meant by testing isn't that kind of test. Don't get it mixed up." Nyx snorted softly. "Well, that kind of test wouldn't be a bad idea either. Besides, with so many of us around, having babies together would be a wonderful thing. Luna, Valerie, Shiloh, what do you all think?"

Chapter 3434

[612 words]

---- Chapter 3434 Nyx was a foreigner, so she had no shame or reservations about such matters. Meanwhile, Valerie, Luna, and Shiloh were all from Holtrien, which made them different. They all instantly turned red with embarrassment. Valerie mumbled, "I don't know..." Luna said, "Nyx, you brought it up, so you go talk to Lauren and the others about it." Shiloh argued, "I'm not getting involved. I already have one in my womb!" Luther laughed heartily. "Andrew, you're about to have a house full of children.

The Lloyd family residence is going to be lively!" Even though he no longer needed to worry about anyone else's opinions, the whole situation still felt ridiculous. It was unbelievable how they got pregnant so easily. He could not help but marvel at how powerful his bloodline was. Donovan had already handed over the Lloyd royal family's control to Sheena. When he heard the news, he was overjoyed. "Andy, just keep making babies! As long as your wives can ---- handle it, go all out! Sheena, that stubborn gir, is driving me crazy.

She won't get married and says she'll only marry a man who can keep her in line "Where am I supposed to find a man like that for her? She's also the head of the Lloyd royal family! If this continues, how will the Lloyd family lineage survive? We'll eventually run out of descendants! "So the task of making babies and strengthening our Lloyd royal family rests on your shoulders. Just keep having them, and have as many as you can.

I'll raise the children myself; I've got you covered." Listening to Donovan's hearty laughter, Andrew could only respond with an awkward chuckle, not knowing what else to say. Just like that, two months later, Andrew finally confirmed Luther's theory.

"Honey, I'm pregnant!" "Andrew, you big jerk! You knocked me up!" "The Lloyd family is adding more members!" "I think I'm having twins! Goodness, honey, are you really that powerful?" ---- All of Andrew's other lovers had gotten pregnant too.

In just two short months, every single one of them had conceived Andrew sat in the Lloyd family's main hall and let out a long sigh. From now on, his days would be filled with caring for babies and looking after each of his wives. Nonetheless, the world was now at peace. Holtrien no longer faced any external pressure. With Andrew's presence, the three great empires would not dare make any moves. When he thought about holding so many beautiful women in his arms every night while sleeping, Andrew felt that life really wasn't bad at all.

Over at The Veiled Paradise, Dalton had already led a delegation and was preparing to officially visit Holtrien. A series of events kept coming one after another. Fortunately, Andrew now had many people around him who could help. Eric and Jerome had already moved into the Lloyd family estate. Jerome, the former leader of the Southern Martial Union, had now taken on the role of Andrew's chief steward. Everything in the villa, from daily living to social affairs in Chetvine, was now arranged by him. ---- Because of that, Andrew felt a huge sense of relief.

Meanwhile, business at the Medicine God's Covenant was booming more than ever. Many alchemists from across Holtrien had come specifically because of its reputation. Amari handled the pill-making operations. As for Brielle, she managed the entire business. Speaking of Brielle, after Andrew returned to Chetvine this time, he barely saw her anymore. It seemed deliberate, like she was avoiding him. This was understandable. Andrew's lovers were all pregnant now. Those once dreamy hopes and feelings Brielle had carried in her heart could only be quietly buried.

[601 words]

---- Chapter 3435 Victoria and Tiana often came to stay in Chetvine, helping Eleanor take care of the expecting mothers one by one. Among everyone involved, the most awkward person was Reginald. Whenever these situations came up, he always found a way to avoid them Either he went to the military headquarters to guide the martial artists training at Martial Tower, or he hid deep inside the Lloyd family estate and refused to come out. Luna's mother, Bridget, remained in the Veiled Paradise to continue studying martial arts. For the time being, she had no plans to leave.

Because of Andrew's connection, Dalton took especially good care of her. He even laughed and said she could stay as long as she wanted. The months passed slowly. Finally, nine months later, Luna's child was the first to be born, and then Valerie's baby was born. Right after, Shiloh's second child was safely delivered. Next were Lauren's, Francesca's, and the other women's babies. The entire Lloyd family was bustling with activity.

After the children were safely born and all the young mothers had fully ---- recovered, Andrew packed up his large family and left Holtrien. He went to his own sovereign territory, a place where no other power dared to interfere: the Outlands. Throne City would be where Andrew and his family would live for many years to come. Andrew's rule was completely different from the old Ludendorff family's brutal and oppressive control. In fact, he rarely interfered with the affairs of the Outlands. As long as there was peaceful development, that was enough.

Another thing worth mentioning was that Iridessa had indeed settled down in Throne City. From time to time, she would come looking for Andrew. However, he always made excuses to avoid seeing her. There was also Arya from the Lomuia Grand Cathedral. When the Scarlet Cardinal from the Cathedral came to escort her back to Lomuia, Arya flatly refused to return. After experiencing her fall from grace, her personality had changed dramatically. Most of the time, she remained quiet and rarely spoke. Occasionally, she would chat with Nyx, but aside from that, she saw no one else.

One day, she came to find Andrew and said directly, "Andrew, one day, I will defeat you!" ---- With that, she turned and walked away. Andrew was baffled and casually tossed out, "You've got issues!" In this day and age, he truly did not know who could possibly defeat him anymore. The three emperors of the three great empires were still watching like hawks, but his attitude was simple and firm. Whoever came looking for trouble would die! With nothing left demanding his attention, Andrew gradually found himself with less and less to do.

One day, out of curiosity, he decided to explore the massive earth fissure within the Deadlands. Under the dark sky, a faint blue glow seeped out from the depths of the crack. On the other side, it did not seem like the planet's core at all. Instead, it felt more like another dimension entirely. Andrew remembered how the Vampire Queen had once risen from that very place. So, with a light jump, he leapt into the fissure. After some time had passed, he stepped back out, smiling faintly. "So that's how it is." Perhaps one day, Andrew would explore that mysterious place ---- more deeply.

But for now, he had no intention of taking risks. After returning to Throne City, he continued living his relaxed life. Every day was filled with fine wine, luxury, and the company of his beautiful wives. And that kind of life would continue for a very, very long time. 2
