

The Beloved and Pampered Girl

1. Chapter 1

Betrayal

Wow, my head hurts. I feel like it's about to explode.

Jian Dan tapped her temple with the base of her palm...

She forced herself to sit up...

“Last night?? Why did I have that kind of dream?” She muttered to herself with half-opened eyes.

“What kind of dream?” A husky albeit cold male voice rang in the air...

The sudden voice jolted Jian Dan to be wide awake instantly. She looked up and saw a man sitting on the couch in front of her.

His facial features were exquisitely sculpted. He had dark and red well-defined lips, a tall and exquisite nose, and a pair of deep and dark brown eyes under his thick eyebrows. His eyes gleamed with coldness, and his entire body exuded an aura that made people give him a wide berth.

This man?

? Jian Dan searched her mind for a matching identity...

She finally remembered that this man was actually... actually the male lead of her dream last night...

What was going on? Could it be...

“Have you forgotten?” The man said coldly.

Forgotten? Forgotten what? Could it be??

Only then did Jian Dan notice the messy bed...

“Do you remember now?” The cold voice sounded again.

Jian Dan slowly shifted her gaze to Chu Liyuan. She gripped the blanket tightly with both hands and wrapped herself tightly.

“Last night?” The images in Jian Dan’s mind gradually became clearer.

“Don’t you think it’s a little late to cover yourself now? Put on your clothes first!” The man’s voice reached Jian Dan’s ears again.

Jian Dan saw that the clothes she wore yesterday had made the ultimate sacrifice. The “corpse” was lying in the corner.

She also saw a brand new set of clothes neatly placed at the head of the bed... But how was she going to put on her clothes when he was sitting there?

Noticing that Jian Dan did not move, Chu Liyuan approached Jian Dan and leaned over to whisper ambiguously into her ear, “Why? Do you still want to continue?”

Jian Dan shuddered. She grabbed the clothes on at the head of the bed and bolted to the bathroom. She locked the door... Only then did she put one hand on the basin and relax.

She clearly remembered that she had come back from Germany early for her boyfriend’s birthday yesterday, but she did not expect to witness his engagement with Qin Rou. In her sadness, she went to the bar to drink with her roommate. After a drink, her roommate said that she had something on and left first.

However, not long after her roommate left, Jian Dan felt that something was wrong with her body. Her body temperature was getting increasingly higher, and her mind was getting increasingly blurry. Her legs were also starting to turn weak.

With her remaining consciousness, she realized that she was being targeted by a few people. She could only try her best to escape to a car.

The man sitting in the car was the man outside!

Now that she thought about it, the glass of wine she drank did taste strange. Otherwise, why would she be like that?

But who was it? The only person who could tamper with it was probably the bartender in the bar, or... it was... Jian Dan did not want to think further... She did not want to believe that it was her roommate of two years.

After that, she jumped his bones under the influence of the drug...

Looking at herself in the mirror, bits and pieces flashed through her mind. A blush crept up her cheeks in an instant. She quickly washed her face and shook her head to stop herself from thinking about it...

What Jian Dan did not expect was that the man had prepared a full set of clothes. She quickly put on the clothes and tidied her hair. When she saw that she was finally decent, she gave a sigh of relief and came out of the bathroom cautiously.

After coming out, Jian Dan took hurried steps at the door of the bathroom. Her heart was in her mouth, but she pretended to be relaxed.

The man broke the awkwardness first...

“Let’s go!” Chu Liyuan took the lead and walked out. He knew that if he did not leave, he might not be able to control himself and jump her bones again.

After following Chu Liyuan out, she got into the car...