

The Deadly 108

Chapter 108 Having a Troublesome Woman Around

As Howard surveyed the disorder unfolding in the signing hall, a sense of pleasure surged within him, this was precisely the spectacle he had eagerly awaited.

He was eager for Robin to provoke the so-called elite in the press.

If that transpired, the journalists would waste no time in tarnishing his reputation.

To Howard, Robin was nothing more than a crude individual who had stumbled into temporary ses

He remained skeptical about the situation involving Bill Gates and Warren Buffett, suspecting it to be nothing but a ruse.

His doubts extended to the potential fallout affecting Dixon Group.

In Howard's view, the entire scenario could be a cleverly orchestrated fa?ade set up by Robin.

He firmly believed that no one could dismantle a billion-dorpany in mere minutes.

At that moment, he was busy investigating the tricks Robin had used to gain Shirley's trust.

Once he unveiled the truth lurking beneath the surface, he needed to deal Robin a decisive blow.

As he observed the unfolding chaos, Howard sidled up to Shirley and murmured, "Ms. Dunn, we can't allow Robin to continue causing this disruption. I'm concerned it might place the Dunns in a precarious position. What I'm implying is- Shirley raised her hand, silencing him with a stoic gaze directed at the reporters swarming around them.

She was well-prepared for this very situation.

If she couldn't navigate a minor incident like this, how could she possibly manage a vast enterprise like the Dunn Group, worth billions?

Previously, she had instructed Amber to contact the PR department of the Dunn Group, just in case things escalated.

If Robin's side truly fell apart, she would have the Dunn Group's marketing and public relations team ready to intervene at a moment's notice.

This trivial situation did not faze her in the slightest.

Robin, eyeing the irate Grace, said, "Since Haven Realty is so keen to understand why the Dunns turned down your proposal for the Eastvale outsourcing project

"Let's take a look at a video detailing Haven Realty's operational history!"

With that, he forwarded a video to Amber. "Ms. Jennings, please disseminate this information about Haven Realty."

Grace and Daniel exchanged puzzled expressions, uncertain about Robin's intentions. Then, they looked up at the large screen at the front of the signing hall.

The video, sent to Robin by an intelligence agency operating on the dark web, contained insider details regarding Haven Realty's recent operations.

Since its inception, Haven Realty had engaged in questionable practices in the city, using cash and charm to bribe officials in order to secure high-yield projects. Haven Realty had undertaken numerous residential and commercial ventures in Westvale, Eastvale, and downtown.

Commercial ventures, including projects in

Over the past decade, they had handled more than fifteen residential developments and four commercial properties.

The construction quality of these developments had been subpar

Almost half of the residential buildings exhibited signs of cracking.

Investigations revealed that the cracks resulted from Haven Realty cutting corners during construction.

In recent years, their practices had be increasingly brazen.

They consistently employed underhanded methods to bribe inspectors and officials, obscuring their illegal activities.

This allowed them to utilize inferior building materials in their residentialplexes andmercial buildings, often without facing consequences.

Thetent dangers gradually emerged over time.

Last year, two residential buildings in Westvale copped, leading to 40 fatalities and over 300 injuries. Authorities discovered that the copse was again attributed to poor construction quality.

Despite public outcry for severe penalties against Haven Realty, they found ways to sweep this matter under the rug.

Now, the repercussions of those events were still reverberating....

The video Robin disyed contained extensive data on the projects Haven Realty had managed.

It also included recent actions taken byw enforcement, detailing penalties and deadlines forpliance.

This information left the attendees in stunned silence.

In the signing hall, several journalists familiar withw enforcement procedures responded affirmatively, "With such dismal credentials, it's no surprise the Dunn Group refused to partner with Haven Realty for the Eastvale Ecological Project." "If we hadn't viewed this report, we might have mistakenly thought Haven Realty was qualified to coborate with the Dunn Group!"

The Dunn Group turned them down, and they still expect the Dunns to justify their decision-what audacity!"

"Fraudsters like these deserve to be imprisoned!"

"We strongly urge the city"sw enforcement agencies to shut down disreputablepanies like Haven Realty and impose heavy penalties!" "This is criminal!"

The reporters present, along with the bidders, erupted in a wave of indignation

All attention turned sharply to Daniel and Grace, who were at the center of the turmoil

Shirley, who had maintained her impassive demeanor at the front of the stage, now felt a spark of amusement flicker in her eyes.

She had not anticipated that Robin would play such a powerful card.

With each of his appearances, he brought a fresh wave of surprises.

It appeared her carefully laid plans weren't necessary.

Robin turned to Grace and Daniel, his voice tight as he inquired. "Are you satisfied with this exhibition?"

Before Daniel could fully grasp the situation, his phone began to ring frantically.

He hastily answered it.

On the other end, his father's furious voice thundered, "You fool, where are you right now?"

"What have you done? You've thrown us into a massive mess!"

"Haven Realty is finished!"

Daniel felt a wave of dizziness wash over him, almost copping under the weight of the news.

In that moment, a realization struck him: Having a troublesome woman around was indeed disastrous!

Grace surveyed the scornful and angry expressions surrounding her, still unable toprehend what was unfolding.

She tugged at Vera's sleeve, asking. "Vera, what's happening? Do they really believe Robin? This is all fabricated!"

Vera gently pulled Grace's hand away, letting out a sigh. Honestly, this oue is a result of your actions...

Grace shot Vera an incredulous look. "What are you talking about? I don't understand! This is all Robin's nder; the information he shared is made up! Don't trust him!"

In a fit of anger, she pointed an usatory finger at Robin. "You scoundrel, using Haven Realty like this - I'll take legal action against you!"

Daniel struck her hard across the face. "You ungrateful woman! You've ruined Haven Realty! I'll make you Grace's vision blurred from the sting of the p, and she yelled back. Daniel, what the hell! Are you insane! Why are you hiting me? It's Robin who has created this disaster! We should confront him" Til strangle you, you arrogam idiot!

Who do you think you are? What right does Haven Realty have to stand against the Dunns?"

Grace held her stinging cheek, stunned, and looked at Daniel in disbelief.

Then she caught sight of the mocking gazes around her.

In that moment, it dawned on her: She had utterly mishandled this situation.

Once she regained herposure, she realized that Haven Realty and the Swans meant nothing in

She had foolishly bragged about exposing the Dunn Group's secrets.

Wasn't that just inviting disaster upon herself?

Regret washed over Grace.

Tears streaming down her face, she hurried to Shirley and bowed, "Ms. Dunn, I was wrong! I shouldn't have-

Shirley coldly gestured for security to escort Grace away.

Within just a few minutes of chaos in the Dunns' signing hall, everyone's phones buzzed with the test news from Harmonfield.

Multiple law enforcement agencies had jointly raided all of Haven Realty's properties to conduct investigations.

Additionally, officials in Harmonfield issued a crucial directive for apprehensive inquiry and strict penalties against Haven Realty's illegal practices.

Soon, a crowd gathered around the news broadcast covering Haven Realty.

Everyment in the live stream condemned Haven Realty's disgraceful illegal actions.

Everyone could see it: Haven Realty was truly doomed,

Alice and Zachary watched, wide-eyed, as Haven Realty's downfall unraveled in mere minutes, their hearts. pounding with disbelief.

They had never imagined Robin would deliver such a crushing blow to Haven Realty.

Now, they could only wonder what he would do next to target the Gills and the Millers.

After all, if Robin hadn't possessed irrefutable proof, how could he stand so boldly on that stage?

And on top of that, he had even called in all of Harmonfield's media to witness the event firsthand.

Watch in and Zachary appeback to their senses

Porr Duw Groups P2 Departmer, uncovering din Haven Realty was practically effortless

Shany resized the her the Gillis nor the Millers could deem spotless records themselves

The rations ill down Alice's spine, the urge to beg for leniency rose within her, fearing the might to these fate as Haven Realty be

Your Retire cold, arrogant stare, the words lodged in her throat

That shameless man is simply riding on Shirley's power, wielding authority that's never his or

How could I ever myself before him

The very thought filled her with fury.

Right then, Alice felt an intense desire to strike Robin's smug frigid expression.

can

He is just a nobody, a person with no real connections or influence, merely a pawn in Shirley's hands.

Wish to look down on me

Even if he dug up questionable actions involving the Millers that difference would it make?

At most, we might suffer a temporary dip in profits!

a man like him"

No matter what, I will never bow to a man

I'm destined to rise like a queen, just like Daphne!

If I bow down in front of a lower man like him today for such a small issue, it will be a stain on my reputation!

Lost in her turmoil. Alice's thoughts collided until Robin's frosty voice snapped her back to the present. "Haven Realty's issues have been made clear. Which of your families would you like me to address next?"