

The Deadly 129

Chapter 129 Robin Is a Troublemaker

Outside the Harmonfield branch of SunEast Bank, there was a sudden buzz among the crowd.

"Isn't that Mr. Rygar and the Devil?"

"Why are they surrounded by so many people carrying cases? That looks like it could be billions in cash!"

"Is Mr. Rygar here to give that young guy, Robin, some money?"

"Who is Robin anyway to attract such high-powered figures?"

"Rygar? Delivering money to him? Is this young guy from a powerful family?"

"Harmonfield really has some hidden bigwigs!"

The bank staff in SunEast Bank were equally shocked to see Rygar and the members from the / Dominion.

Everyone in Harmonfield knew about Rygar-the notorious underground power who truly lived up to his reputation as a ruthless devil.

For those who crossed him, there were no second chances, Compared to the Dunns, he made no secret of his viciousness.

With his ck-d bodyguards close behind, Rygar approached Robin directly. "Mr. Ramsey, I saw the video online-I didn't expect someone in Harmonfield to have the nerve to mess with you. "What do you want to do about this? After settling the debt, we can tear this bank apart if you like. And if that's not enough. I'll deal with that troublemaker, Dominic!

As Rygar's voice fell, Dominic turned pale and began trembling.

He wished he could just die.

If he drew the attention of the Abyssal Dominion's Rygar, there'd be no ce for him in Harmonfield.

He tried to slip away to hide behind the counter, but Shawn seized him and dragged him before Rygar.

With a mocking grin, Rygar lightly tapped Dominic's chubby cheek. "Do you know who Mr. Ramsey is? How dare you treat him this way?

"Not to worry, Mr. Ramsey's a principled man. I won't do anything that might harm his reputation. But as for what you've done-you know what that is.

In five minutes, your infamous reputation will be burged into the minds of everyone in Harmonfield."

Dominic shuddered, unsure which of his many wrongdoings Rygar referred to.

Rygar continued patting Dominic's face, saying. Today I'm here to settle the score. I never expected a lowly bank president like you to have so many wrongdoings.

"Ever since you became president at SunEast Bank, you've been keeping mistresses-more than a dozen. I believe.

"My men are investigating the exact number as we speak. Each of your mistresses has already shared your dirty secrets with us.

"Oh, by the way, the whole conversation is being live-streamed. Soon, your story will be all over the Inte.

"Congrattions, Mr. Stone. You're about to be a star!"

Only now did Dominic realize the full scope of his predicament. He was utterly trapped.

Seeing Dominic's despair, Rygar pped him hard. "Hurry up and count the 1.5 billion I brought!"

Dominic stood there, overwhelmed by shock and regret. For a moment, hepletely forgot that he was supposed to get someone to count the cash Rygar had brought. Rygar gave him a hard nudge. "What are you just standing there for? Do you think we're here to wait all night? Start counting now!"

Quickly, Dominic scrambled up and directed a group of men in suits, each carrying briefcases, toward the counter.

Not long after, another eight luxury cars pulled up outside the bank. Daphne and Rita stepped out, both with the poise of models. Twenty bodyguards, cach towering at least six feet tall entered the bank with their briefcases.

Daphne went straight to Robin "Mr. Ramsey, the moment I heard. I rallied Violetcrest International to get the funds. I've brought two billion. "There's another two billion on the way. By midnight, we'll have deposited the full 3.8 billion."

In the distance, Aaron took in the sight of the elegantly dressed women, at a loss for words.

"Dominic is really a fool! What kind of big shot did he bring in today? It disgraces SunEast Bank!"

He thought the scale of the situation was enough to completely ruin SunEast Bank.

Meanwhile, in the lobby of SunEast, a scene unfolded as billions were being counted.

Across town, at the Springlight Hotel in Harmonfield's center, Vera, Alice, and Zachary were enjoying a luxurious meal after wrapping up the Southvalend transfer.

As Vera overheard people at the hotel talking about SunEast Bank, her curiosity got the better of her.

She pulled out her phone, only to find that the trending news was all about the SunEast repayment, and it directly involved Robin.

Alice moved over and caught sight of the same news. After piecing together the story, she let scornful sigh.

roul a

"Robin is truly a troublemaker. He doesn't seem to feel relevant unless he's stirring things up.

"People like him always do crazy things just to stay in the spotlight. The Infinity Tower was already a lost cause, yet he convinced the Dunns to take it on. "Thonestly don't get what Ms. Dunn sees in him that makes her keep him around. Someday, the Dunn Group will be on the edge of copse, thanks to him."

Zachary joined in,ughing. "That's typical of people who can't do much-they act out. The bank rejected Robin's transfer repayment and tried to seize Infinity Tower, so he stubbornly decided to pay back 3.8 billion in cash. He just doesn't think!" Zachary scoffed, taking a sip of wine.

Vera shot them both a disapproving look. "Alice, you should at least acknowledge that Robin resolved your immediate problem. For you, I also invested billions."

Alice shook her head. "Vera, I may have sold mynd to Robin and fixed my crisis, but that doesn't mean I appreciate it.

He's just trying hard to impress me, blowing this way out of proportion. I still don't think much of him. "Even if he bought mynd for 500 million, he's still a small thinker.

"What can someone like him possibly achieve? It's such a minor issue, but he's making such a show of it. "Does he think he can stay in Harmonfield after picking a fight with the bank? He's just too shallow and clueless!"

Not wanting to listen to any more of Alice's assumptions, Vera turned her attention back to the live stream noting a line of text stating that Shirley, Daphne, and Rygar were all at SunEast Bank.

Why were they there, too?

Then, as she watched, the news about SunEast and Robin suddenly vanished from the inte.

Vera hesitated, realizing that a powerful figure must have stepped in to remove it.

Standing up, she said, "You two enjoy the rest of your meal. I'm heading over to SunEast Bank to check on Robin.