

The Deadly 20

Chapter 20 What I Do Is None of Your Business

"Get lost!" Rygar roared, kicking Shawn away.

He then pointed at his bewildered subordinates, "Tie him up and take him back. We'll deal with himter!"

Two members of the Abyssal Dominion immediately seized Shawn and dragged him out of the Violetcrest Club. Only then did a slight smile grace Rygar's cold, aged face.

"Ms. Dunn, is this resolution to your satisfaction?"

Shirley was momentarily stunned.

The situation had taken an unexpected turn.

Since Rygar had already made concessions, she saw no need to escte matters further.

She nodded slightly and said coldly. "Mr. Todd, how you discipline your subordinates is your own affair."

Thank you for your understanding, Ms. Dunn, Rygar said with a slight bow, clearly relieved.

If the esteemed guest hadn't been satisfied, he would have killed Shawn on the spot without hesitation.

"Ms. Dunn, with so many subordinates, it's difficult to ensure they all behave appropriately.

"Some are bound to cause trouble. It's my fault for not managing them properly. I didn't expect them to offend you and your friend. Please ept my sincerest apologies." Shirley nodded coldly, "Mr. Todd, let's put this incident behind us."

Rygar breathed a quiet sigh of relief. "Ms. Dunn, we originally came to Violetcrest Club to discuss the investment project for the Eastvale Ecological Project.

"Before arriving, I noticed that some of thend managed by Abyssal Dominion in that area conflicted with projects you've invested in.

"This was due to the ipetence of my subordinates, and I was unaware of it. I sincerely apologize.

"To make amends, I nowmit to epting all of the Hamiltons" projects and will proceed with the original investment n.

"Any projects that have already started will be halted immediately and corrected until you are satisfied!"

Shirley was slightly taken aback.

For the past six months, the Dunn Group had been negotiating with Abyssal Dominion about project investment types without reaching an agreement.

But today, why was Rygar offering to halt construction and make corrections himself?

"Ms. Dunn, since my subordinates offended you and your friend today, as a gesture of my apology, I'm offering the southern area project of the Eastvale, which I recently acquired, to you for free." Shirley was even more astonished.

The southern area project was worth hundreds of millions!

It was well-known that Rygar had paid a hefty sum to acquire the southern area project from the Universal Group.

Yet, he was now offering it to the Dunn Group as an apology for Shawn's actions.

It was an incredibly generous gesture.

Shirley doubted that the Dunn Group held such sway over Rygar.

Could he have ulterior motives involving the Dunn Group?

"Mr. Todd, I can't halt and correct the investment projects in the Eastvale Ecological Project as needed.

"But giving the southern area project to Dunn Group for free is far too generous. I think we should forget about that."

Rygar quickly interjected, "Ms. Dunn, I'm not joking! Please rest assured that when I say "free, I mean it, no strings attached!

After the meeting with the four companies this afternoon, I'll have two contracts prepared and delivered to you in writing. I insist that you accept them!" Shirley hesitated.

Before she could respond, Rygar continued, "Ms. Dunn, it's settled. Thank you for accepting my goodwill

"I have some urgent matters to attend to, so I'll leave now. We can discuss this further when we meet this afternoon.

With that, he swiftly departed with his subordinates, heading toward another area of the Violetcrest Club.

His haste made it seem like he truly had an urgent matter to attend to, as if dying any longer would put his life at risk. What Shirley didn't know was that Rygar was trying to avoid Robin.

He had managed to resolve the issue with Shawn without provoking Robin further, so he needed to get out of there quickly.

If he made even the slightest mistake and offended Robin again, he would be in serious trouble.

Shirley's eyes shed with confusion as she watched Rygar's hasty retreat.

What was wrong with this underground kingpin of Harmonield?

He hade in with such aggression, seemingly determined to destroy Robin and severely punish the Dunn Group.

But to everyone's surprise, he ended up punishing his own subordinate severely.

Not only that, but he also offered to halt and correct the Eastvale Ecological Project that had overstepped their bounds!

And even more shocking, he offered the southern area development project for free as an apology!

Since when had Begar conducted himself with such humility and righteousness in Harmonfield?

"Let's go. Don't overthink it. If he's giving it to you, just take it! What's the big deal?"

Robin took the jacket Amber handed him.

He nced at the still-stunned Shirley and said.

"After a whole morning of chaos, I helped Ms. Dunn secure 45 million dors. Aren't you going to treat me to a drink?"

Shirley smiled faintly, "Alright, I'll treat you at the bar of Violeterest Club.

But I don't want that money, it's yours. Give me a bank ount number, and I'll have Amber transfer it to you.

Robin thought for a moment and then gave Amber his ount number without hesitation.

As they passed by Zachary and Alice, Robin shrugged and said, "Mr. Gill, if you want to bet again, just let me know. I find making money like this quite enjoyable." With that, he and Shirley headed toward the Violetcrest Bar.

Zachary gritted his teeth in anger. "Just you wait! I'll make sure you regret crossing me!"

Alice snorted coldly, ring at Robin's back with disdain. "Hmph! Disgusting!"

"A man who lives off others! What's there to be proud of? If it weren't for Ms. Dunn today, you'd be dead by now!"

However, Veraughed and said, "Alice, have you ever considered that Rygar might have acted this way because he's afraid of Robin?"

"If that's the case, would you regret breaking off your engagement with him?"

"Hahaha... Vera, you give him too much credit, Alice, sneered.

"That loser, clinging to the Dunns' coattails, and you think Rygar would be afraid of him?"

"Even if it were true, I would never regret canceling the engagement! He's just a brute!"

Just then, Rita walked over, and Alice quickly greeted her respectfully, "Hello, Ms. Weston, I am

Rita nodded coldly at Alice, ignored her, and quickly walked over to Robin.

"Mr. Ramsey, please wait a moment. My boss, Ms. West would like to see you!"

Robin replied quickly I don't even know your boss not going"

Rita was momentarily stunned a bit off anger fastening her eyes

She had served Daphne for years and had never encountered a man who dared refuse her invitation course,

Of course, no other man had ever been granted the honor of an invitation from Daphne, except Robin

Alice was greatly surprised

Then, a ser curled her lips

Raben you truly are base

0

In you know who Daphne i

Hermaid permally into you and you respond share hopeless!

"Roben, who"s wrong with your Ms. yton is giving a rare opportunity by inviting you to meet Ms West.
Don"t be ungrateful sice eximed

Horry up and apologize to Ms. yton

Robin smirked, looking at Alice auriously. "What I do one of your business.

"Besides, whether or not I ept her the avitation is up to me. What does it have to do with you?

"Mind your own bailnew"

Alice's face flushed with anger. "Robin you're being completely unreasonable! How could you say something so disrespectful Get down on your knees and apologize to Ms. yton immediately!"

A hint of displeasure crossed Shirley's face, and she walked about to speak when Rita pped Alice across the face

"I'm talking to Mr. Ramsey, and you keep butting in Do you want to die?"

Alice covered her cheek in shock M. yton, I was talking about that ungrateful fool, Robin..."

"Mr. Ramsey is an honored guest of Mi West, and you dare to insult him?"

Rita's voice was cold, her words edged with a clear threat

Who was Daphne? Insulting her guest was like pping her in the face

Did Alice have a death wish?

Alice quickly bowed and apologized

I'm sorry, Ms. Weston. I didn't mean it. Please forgive me..

"Get lost Rita cut her off with a cold shout.

Alice hurriedly left, shooting Robin a venomous glare as she passed.

However, Vera winked flirtatiously at him

Robin felt a chill down his spine.

What was this woman up to?

Rita stepped forward and said respectfully, "Mr. Ramsey, Ms. Weston sincerely invites you. Please accept