

The Deadly 57

Chapter 57 Facing the Real Deal

Vera looked around and couldn't help but sigh.

Being with Robin made the world feel a lot more interesting.

She nodded at Robin's expression and burst into laughter again.

"Alice said you're a walking disaster, and it's true-you can start a fight just trying to eat a doughnut Hahaha.

Robin pulled out a wet wipe to clean his hands, ignoring her,

Vera nodded at Jasper and the others, snorted, and said, "You bunch of losers, do you really think it's funny to bully people? Looks like you've finally met your match today!

"Do you even know who he is? Rowan and Logan would hold his shoes for him! And you dare to say you're Logan's friend in front of him? That's basically asking for trouble!" Jasper felt uneasy, and Vera's words made him even more anxious. "Is he really one of Rowan's or Logan's people?"

Vera turned to the doughnut stand, bought two orders of doughnuts, and handed one to Robin.

"Robin, while you were fighting with them just now, Alice and Zachary were watching the whole thing"

Robin took a bite of his doughnut. "So what?"

Vera wanted to share what Alice had said but found it boring and dropped it

"Alice's grandpa returned so quickly because his health is bad. The doctor says he only has six months left.

"When the Millers heard this news, the relatives and shareholders up top started plotting to fight over the control of the Miller Group,

"Alice's been eager to sign an investment deal for the Eastvale Ecological Project because she wants to secure the chairwoman position of the Miller Group.

"If she can't improve the company's performance soon, her aunt, uncle, and some major shareholders might turn against her."

Robin looked at Vera, confused. "What are you telling me all this for?"

Vera paused for a moment. "It's really not that important. Forget it."

Just then, two Hummers sped in from the direction of Dawnsfire Mountain! They had the Dawnsfire Security Company logo prominently displayed.

The neers were none other than Rowan and Logan. This belongs to NovelDrama.Org.

Robin checked his watch-three minutes, not a second more.

Rowan had been at the Dawnsfire Mountain vi.

After receiving Robin's call, he immediately drove over with Logan, not daring to waste a moment.

The two Hummers, marked with the Dawnsfire Mountain vi insignia, screeched to a halt in front of the doughnut stand, their tires screeching against the ground. Rowan and Logan jumped out of the cars and rushed toward Robin.

"Whoa? Rowan and Logan are here!"

"Oh my gosh, this guy really has some clout! Just one call and he actually got them to show up!"

The crowd around them gasped in surprise, watching Rowan and Logan arrive in under three minutes.

The way they looked at Robin now was filled with awe!

Jasper trembled at the sight..

He never imagined that after pretending to be connected to Logan and scamming money in this area, he'd actually run into the real deal today!

"Did you see that? Rowan and Logan actually look scared of him!"

"This kid must be a big shot!"

At that moment, Robin's status stunned everyone in line for doughnuts.

Those who had been trying to keep their distance suddenly felt utterly ashamed..

After Rowan and Logan got out with six imposing bodyguards, they quickly approached Robin. They stood at attention, respectfully saying. "Mr. Ramsey!" Everyone watching was once again in shock.

These tough characters looked fearsome to others and were so humble in front of Robin.

It was clear that Robin's status was much higher than Rowan and Logan's!

"Today is really an eye-opener! Rowan, this elusive figure, is actually respecting him!"

"Looks like Jasper and Tucker are finished today!"

"Bragging about being Logan's friend, and he runs into the real deal-now that's interesting!"

"Did you see him shaking?"

Jasper fell down,pletely terrified and unable to speak.

He knew all too well that the people under Violeterest International were not average street thugs.

Using their name for illegal activities would definitely get him in deep trouble!

Tucker, seeing this scene, was already preparing to sneak away, quietly backing off.

If Logan asked about what had happened, he couldn't escape.

This was no simple fight; it could cost him his life!

Logan, heh, who exactly are you hanging out with?" Robin said with a cold smile.

"Just ran into Austin at the vi entrance, and now I find one of your friends here.

"Harassing girls all morning-what kind of people are these?"

Logan felt a wave of panic at Robin's words.

If Daphne found out, he'd be finished!

"Mr. Ramsey, I swear, he's not my friend! This jerk's just using my name to scam people!"

"You handle it yourself, Robin nodded.

"Who the hell do you think you are, calling yourself my friend? Are you tired of living?!" Logan kicked Jasper in the face, filled with rage.

Jasper was stunned by the impact.

Logan and his bodyguards didn't hold back like Robin had; they looked ready to tear him apart.

Jasper nced at Robin, aware that this guy was real. He scrambled to Robin's feet, pleading. "Mr. Ramsey, I was blind! Please spare me! I swear I won't do it again! "Didn't you just tell me to lick the doughnut off the ground? I'll do it right now!"

with that. Jasper dropped to the ground, licking up the previously spilled doughnut and food like a dog

Once he finished, he crawled over to Robin and Logan, saying, "Mr. Barrett, please spare me! I promise I won't ever do it again."

Logan replied coldly, "Do you really think offending Mr. Ramsey means I can let you off the hook?

"If I let you go, how will I show my face in Harmonfield again?

"Come on, kid, you should've thought about the consequences before you did this!

"That means death!

"Take him out and get rid of him!" Logan ordered his men.

Two bodyguards immediately covered Jasper's mouth, threw a sack over him, and dragged him into a van that had just arrived.

Then, Logan turned to Tucker and the others, "You guys, get over here! Run to the top of Dawnsfire Mountain in ten minutes! If even one of you is missing it won't just be a beating: it'll be death!" Tucker and the others didn't dare to TUI

Logan meant every word, if they ran, it would definitely be a death sentence.

After all this, Logan bows before Robin, saying. Please punish me, Mr. Ramsey

Everyone was dumbfounded by this scene!

One of Violeterest International's tough guys, Logan, actually bows before Robin!

Just how impressive was this kid's status to make them act like this?

"Get up; it's not entirely your fault. Let's move on from this, Robin said, finishing his bite of doughnut.

He pulled out a wet wipe to clean his hands and walked towards the van.

Vera was also shocked by what she had just witnessed.

She had thought Rowan and Logan were just being respectful to Robin.

She never expected their demeanor would surpass Daphne's standing before them!

Who exactly was Robin!

What kind of terrifying background did he have?

Otherwise, how could these once-feared big shots in Harmonfield be so humble and scared in front of him?

As she watched Robin's ordinary figure, her heart raced.

"Robin, wait! Can you show a little decorum? I'm still behind you, and you're walking so fast! Oh no, my heel came

Vera twisted her ankle and fell to the ground.

Robin ignored her and continued walking toward the van.

Jerk! You have no idea how to treat ady. Vera, furious, took off her shoe and threw it at Robin

Robin didn't even turn around; he felt something flying towards him from behind.

With a flick of his arm, he sent Vera's shoe flying

It arced through the air, ending more than ten meters away in a ditch.

"Hey? What the heck! You actually knocked my shoe away!

Vera immediately sprang to her feet and chased after it barefoot.

As she ran, she fumed, "Robin, you jerk!"