

The First Heir 1141

Chapter 1141

The head of the Gold family in Uppercreek, Jameson Gold!

The people who knew Jameson all looked astonished at this moment.

Who would have expected that the head of the Gold family would personally come to deal with such a small matter?!

It seemed that the incident today was going to be big news.

“Patriarch.”

Hubert immediately walked to Jameson’s side with a respectful expression on his face and spoke to him in a low voice.

Clifford was like a drowning man clutching at a straw. He ran behind his father in a hurry and said, “Dad, you’re finally here.”

Jameson nodded. Leading the eight private bodyguards, he stood there and exuded his presence.

The people around inadvertently took a few steps back.

Jameson first looked at Seamus, then at Philip. He said with a smile that did not reach his eyes, “Young Master Clarke, let’s just forget about this matter. My son will apologize to you. How about it?”

Overbearing!

The arrogance!

The reason why Jameson was so arrogant was because of the boss standing behind him.

When he was done speaking...

Behind the crowd, a few big shots who remained and were nonchalantly drinking tea started discussing in a low voice.

"That Jameson Gold is really audacious. If not for the Larson family of Fernvale standing behind him, I'd have taken care of that guy a long time ago."

"The Larson family of Fernvale, huh? Although they've withdrawn from the domestic market, they still have power. What's more, the head of the Larson family is here tonight."

"Seamus Lowell and that Young Master Clarke have met their match tonight."

The few big bosses glanced at each other, eyes filled with anticipation as they watched the drama unfold.

Each had an agenda of their own.

Philip raised his brows, thought for a while, and said, "No."

Hearing that, everyone shuddered.

They had witnessed the arrogance from Jameson, but who would have thought that Philip was even more arrogant!

Hitting someone in public!

He was completely disregarding the Larson family of Fernvale.

How dare he speak like this?

Could it be that Young Master Clarke's origin was more terrifying than theirs?

That was everyone's question.

However, Seamus just sneered in his heart.

The arrogant Gold family was completely ignorant of Philip's identity and dared to act so boldly. Only the worst results awaited them.

"Young Master Clarke, I have to say that you're very brazen. However, you may not be aware of the power and methods of the Larson family. I'd advise you not to step out of line. Do everything within your means and you can go far."

Did he think the capital market was child's play?

Many people who knew the Gold family and the Larson family shook their heads one after another.

“Alas, Young Master Clarke is taking it too far this time. Although his method of destroying the Hull family is unforgettable, we’re talking about Uppercreek after all. Furthermore, the Larson family is involved. It’s not going to be easy.”

“No doubt about it. Uppercreek is going to be a tough nut to crack, made even tougher now that the Larson family is in the picture.”

“The Gold family is very influential in Uppercreek and well-connected with the other families. Making a move against the Gold family means breaking the Upperglade Chamber of Commerce Alliance!”

Among them, some ignorant wealthy second-generations in other regions, including some foreign guests, shrugged their shoulders to express their lack of understanding. They asked, “What is the Upperglade Chamber of Commerce Alliance?”

Immediately, someone chuckled and said, “You don’t even know about the Upperglade Chamber of Commerce Alliance? What a daft.”

Following that, someone explained.

Jameson was confused by that question.

How would he know who he called?

“Hehe, Young Master Clarke, stop pretending. It’s not so easy to bring down the Gold family in Uppercreek! To tell you the truth, there’s no need for the Larson family to take action at all. Just the Uppergrade Chamber of Commerce Alliance in Uppercreek is enough to stop you in your tracks!”

Jameson sneered, his face full of disdain.

Philip laughed, took out his mobile phone, and said, “The person I called just now is Hoyt Luther, the chairman of the Uppergrade Chamber of Commerce Alliance!”

Hoyt Luther?!

When everyone heard that, they were shocked and amazed!

“It turned out to be Hoyt Luther, the chairman of the Uppergrade Chamber of Commerce Alliance. He was the main person in charge!”

“How is this possible? He can actually reach Hoyt Luther!”

Not only were the onlookers shocked, but Jameson was also completely dumbfounded at this moment. He was suspicious and nervous at the same time.

He quickly grabbed the phone in Philip’s hand. Upon glancing at the number, his heart shook and his whole body was chilly. He was holding back a violent panic attack!

Was it just because of one request from him?

Even the Uppergrade Chamber of Commerce Alliance had to follow his orders?

Terrifying!

On the other side of the phone, Hoyt sneered and said, “Jameson, you refuse to accept it? Do you f*cking know who founded the Uppergrade Chamber of Commerce Alliance?”

Hoyt almost roared his words. Jameson trembled in fright and asked weakly, “Who?”

Hoyt guessed that Philip must be standing with Jameson now, so he shouted directly into the phone!

"Jameson Gold, why are you calling me?"

The voice on the other end of the phone was slightly low but sounded very oppressive.

"Patriarch Larson, the Gold family is facing bankruptcy and it's caused by a junior!"

Jameson looked flustered and nervous at the moment.

"What? Didn't you mention the Larson family of Fernvale?"

"I did, but they're not taking the Larson family seriously," Jameson said again.

There was a stunned silence on the other end of the phone, and immediately, with a wave of anger, he shouted, "Who is so bold and dares to disregard the Larson family of Fernvale?!"

Jameson immediately replied, "It's a guy by the name of Philip Clarke."

The phone was hung up immediately.

Before Jameson could say any further, he stared at the phone with dazed eyes. He continued, "Hello, Patriarch Larson?"

Here, after Philip left the front hall, Seamus caught up to him not long after he went out and respectfully said, "Young Master Clarke, things with the Hull family are almost settled. The old master told me to check with you how to deal with this thing."

With that said, Seamus took out a small brocade box and handed it to Philip.

Philip glanced at Seamus, took the small brocade box, and opened it. It was a piece of green jade, obviously a broken fragment due to the sharp corners and edges.

"What is this?" Philip asked in puzzlement.

Seamus hurriedly turned the jade over and gestured. "Young Master Clarke, look at this."

Philip looked at it, and there was a word engraved on the back of the jade.

Although it was not complete, it was vaguely recognizable, forming the word 'Larson'.

"Is this the only piece you could find?" Philip asked.

Seamus nodded and said, "We found this in Colin's room when cleaning out the Hull family's mansion. The old master told me to hand this to you."

He smoked a cigarette, picked up the portfolio, and opened the seal. He saw a picture of his sister Hannah at the age of seven or eight. There was also detailed investigation data and many pictures attached.

They were pictures of Hannah from the age of seven or eight, to the photo of the accident. Then, he saw photos of her when she was about 12 or 13 years old with a face full of fear and trepidation. At 15 or 16 years old, the young girl was shyly making a victory pose at the camera. At last, he saw the photo of the beautiful girl when she was 20.

Philip’s hands trembled more as his eyes became moist.

After so many years, the guilt in Philip’s heart was infinitely magnified at this moment.

“She... is really alive?”

Philip looked at the photo of 20-year-old Hannah in his hand, his eyes already very moist.

Rick hummed and said, “Alive.”

After getting a positive answer, Philip could not speak for a while.

He was very calm.

No agitation could be seen at all.

However, at this moment, Philip’s heart was like the calm before the storm.

The next day, the two booked air tickets and flew directly from Riverdale to Uppercreek.

After landing, Philip arranged for Wynn to go to the hotel first. After all, she was pregnant and not suitable for long-distance travel.

In the afternoon, Philip left the hotel and went to Merry Orphanage as specified on the address alone.

At the entrance of the orphanage, Philip raised his eyebrows and took a few glances before walking to the guardhouse.

“Mister, is this Merry Orphanage?”

Philip handed a cigarette to the old security guard.

The old security guard first glanced at Philip, and not a minute later, he grabbed a baton from the guardhouse before rushing out and shouting, “Go away! Villains like you come here every day. With me around, don’t even think about tearing this orphanage down!”

Philip was taken aback and hurriedly explained, “Mister, you’ve misunderstood. I’m not from the demolition team. I’m here to look for someone.”
