Chapter 1531

“How... How did you know?” Pete’s face was pale.

In a casino, it was the most taboo to cheat.

However, the level of gambling skills was also equivalent to the level of cheating skills.

If one cheated and was not caught or spotted by others, the person could be considered a true master.

For a cheater, being caught meant losing a hand. Otherwise, they would be a true master!

The foreigner’s cheating technique was actually not too bad, but it did not escape the eyes of Philip, who had been playing with top local gambling masters since childhood.

Truth be told, such games were just a simple form of entertainment for magnates like the Clarke family!

The Clarke family’s charity gambling gala!

All the top domestic and international gambling masters would be invited to this event where everyone would use the money they won for charity.

Since Philip was ten, he had mastered his skills in poker, dice, and pai gow, making him at the top of the country.

Randolph's face went red when he heard Victor say that. He was thinking inwardly that Victor had better not fall into his hands one day.

Since the boss could no longer do anything, all blood drained from Pete's face. Now, even if Philip really chopped his hand off, he could only resign to his fate!

His life was over. He could only live as a disabled person with one hand in the future!

Pete's heart froze as he allowed Philip to press his hand down.

Philip smiled at Pete and said, "Are you ready? I'll do it on the count of three!"

When Philip returned to the hotel, it was already late at night.

The door of the hotel room was left wide open, seemingly waiting for Philip to return.

It was a suite. When Philip walked into the living room, he saw Martha sitting in a wheelchair. Her face was full of anger.

"You piece of sh*t! You're getting bolder now, huh? How dare you hang up on me?! Who gave you the right?" Although Martha could not stand up or hit Philip, she still had a sharp tongue. She immediately started cursing.

Philip did not want to kick up a fuss with her either. He was most worried about Wynn right now.

"Mom, what's wrong with Wynn?" Philip asked.

Martha said with a huff, "You still dare to ask? Just now, Wynn received a phone call and her face suddenly changed. She started crying not long after she went to her room. What the hell did you do to her, huh? You punk, don't think that just because you're the boss of some small investment group that you can bully my daughter! She's pregnant now!"

Philip's face froze as he said indifferently, "I know my limits. Wynn is my wife. I don't need you to point fingers at me."

"Charles, just look at this good son-in-law of yours! He's really getting worse! You even told me to get along with him. How can I do that? He and I are rivals. Only one of us can survive!" Martha snorted.

“Hey, what does he mean by that? Oh, I can’t even scold my son-in-law now, huh?” Martha was annoyed. If not for her disability, she would have rushed up to him and given him a few earfuls!

At this time, Wynn was still sobbing in the room.

“Wynn, what’s the matter with you?” Philip knocked on the door and asked softly.

Wynn’s sobs in the room stopped abruptly. After a short while, she choked up and said, “Who told you to come back? I told you not to come back.”

Her voice sounded as if she was suffering a great grievance and it caused Philip a lot of distress.

“Will you open the door? Tell me what happened after you open the door,” Philip said and comforted Wynn.

“I don’t have anything to tell you. You can continue being lovey-dovey with that Bernice woman,” Wynn said with a tear stained face. Her head was in a mess right now.

After speaking, Wynn cried out in agitation, her voice getting louder and louder.
The First Palace held many of her and Philip's memories.
She still remembered when Philip bought her the diamond ring for the first time.
She still remembered the wedding photoshoot with Philip there.
She also remembered witnessing Philip's changes along the way.
However, now everything had changed and became out of control.
Beacon Group was in complete control of the two uncles. Everyone on the board of directors had been changed to their people, and even the security personnel in the villa had been replaced.
In short, Wynn and her family had no place to return to in Riverdale now.
Moreover, the second uncle, Martin Johnston, also filed a lawsuit against Wynn's family. He was accusing Wynn of embezzling company funds to purchase the First Palace in Longford Park. The board of directors then made the decision to officially dismiss Wynn.
third uncle, Bernard Johnston, had contacted some well known underground figures to keep watch over the various entrances and exits

Philip raised his eyebrows, stared at Martha, and said in a grim voice, "Martha, since you're not well enough yet, you shouldn't swagger around too much. Otherwise, I can't guarantee that you can return to Riverdale in one piece."

After saying that, Philip turned around and left the suite.

Martha was instantly angry and pointed at Philip's back as he left. She yelled with a face full of hatred, "Charles Johnston, just look at Philip Clarke! What does he mean by that? Huh? He's not even treating me as a human being!"

Philip left the suite and came to the hotel lobby. He dialed Theo Zander's phone number and his respectful voice sounded from the other end. "Mr. Clarke, how may I help you?"

"You're not in Riverdale?" Philip asked coldly.

Theo quickly replied, "Yes, Mr. Clarke. Something has happened in the Penhart Region. The last chamber of commerce caused an adverse chain reaction. Several forces are eager to destroy the chamber of commerce alliance that you finally managed to unite. I'm here to deal with it. Has something happened in Riverdale?"

Philip just glanced at him without shaking hands and asked Lynn instead, "Your new boyfriend?"

Toby's hand froze in mid air as he narrowed his eyes a little. He smiled awkwardly and withdrew his hand. Lynn, on the other hand, looked at Philip smugly and said, "Yes, how about it? My boyfriend is a band three lawyer with an annual salary of ten million dollars! He runs a law firm and is famous in Riverdale! He even has friends in Uppercreek! "

When Lynn said this, her face could not contain her triumph like a child eager to show off her toys.

Philip frowned and looked at Toby, who was still smiling faintly. However, Philip had caught the chill in his eyes just now.

Hehe, he wanted to see what kind of a person this lawyer was.

"Tell me why you asked me to meet up," Philip asked as he settled into his seat naturally.

Lynn tilted her head, looked in the direction of the door, and asked, "Why isn't Wynn here?"

“Mr. Clarke, it’s useless for you to intimidate Lynn. I hope you can consider this matter carefully and decide on the best course of action for Madam Wynn Johnston,” Toby said with a smile.

In his eyes, Philip was nothing more than a dodgy little punk.

Since just now, Toby thought he had Philip figured out. He was nothing to be afraid of!

Philip smiled, looked at Toby with scorching eyes, and asked, “Where is the incriminating evidence you mentioned? My wife is a good law abiding citizen. How could she have embezzled company funds? Don’t frame her.”

Toby already expected that Philip would ask this question. He took out another document, handed it to Philip, and said, “This is the bank transfer record. You can see it for yourself.”

Hearing this, Toby's expression changed in an instant as his gaze turned grim.

Bam!

He slammed the table, got up, and pointed at Philip while roaring, "Are you trying to scare me? Are you saying that someone will come to arrest me? Hehe, you should know that I'm a band three lawyer. I have many friends in the Uppercreek law circle!"

Philip chuckled. "Yeah, that sounds great, but I wonder if you can scrape through this. Since you said so, I'll tell you that in the next ten minutes, everything you have will all fall apart. Starting with you. Your law license will be revoked and your law firm will be investigated for shady business. Then, all those friends of yours will start to shun you. Finally, your reputation will be ruined."

"Hahaha!"

Toby laughed aloud. With his face full of chills and a menacing smile at the corners of his mouth, he said, "Ridiculous! Do you think I'll be afraid of you with just these few words of yours? You're still too immature to destroy me!"

"I can tell you that my father is a band two lawyer and my grandfather is a band one lawyer. He's also a special counsel specifically hired by certain organizations!"

"My father and my grandfather are also members of the Holton Law Firm. Do you know the Holton Law Firm? It's one of the four largest law firms in the country and belongs to the Rainbow Society! How can a fool like you try to bring me down? Dream on!"
