

The First Heir 1581

Chapter 1581

There was no decorative playacting, they were all ruthless deadly moves!

Just a little inattention and one would be killed!

In just half a minute, 17 and Vivian had already exchanged a dozen blows!

Bam!

Suddenly, 17 kicked Vivian squarely in the chest, causing the latter to take several steps back!

Philip could not help but feel a pain in his chest when he watched this.

Such delicate looking women, how could they be so brutal in a fight?

He thought it would last for a while, but the next second, the winner was already determined!

The butterfly blades in 17's hands were pressed directly on Vivian's fair and delicate neck. She said proudly, "Hmph, the young master said that your skills aren't bad, but I think they're just so-so..."

"You!" Vivian's eyes widened in anger as she clenched her fists, seemingly unconvinced.

Thump, thump, thump!

In an instant, dozens of heavily armed combatants rushed out of the hall. They were all ready to fight and were staring at Philip intently.

It was just that the weapons in their hands were pointed downward.

The corners of Philip’s eyes froze. He stared at Vivian before glancing around, laughing as he said, “Why? Do you want to make a move against me first?”

Giada put the teacup down, keeping her eyes on 17 who was next to Philip.

The little girl seemed unconcerned with what was happening in front of her.

It was as though in her eyes, these people were just toys. “That’s enough. Back down. Why is it so difficult for me to talk to my son?”

Giada said at this moment. With a smile blooming in her eyes, she looked at Philip tenderly and lovingly, saying, “Philip, you can be considered my half-son. Why can’t we sit down and talk?”

Chapter 1583

Philip left Cirrus Villa and headed back to First Palace. It was getting late, and Riverdale was not peaceful tonight.

Theo had arranged for people to monitor all of Riverdale. Theo had arranged for people to keep a close watch on those directors who were involved in the incident with Beacon this time, in case they would be of use to Philip.

After Philip returned to First Palace, Theo hurried over and said, "Mr. Clarke, Martin and Bernard have privately contacted several members of Beacon's board of directors for a secret private meeting in the Hyatt Hotel. Do you want to go over and take a look?"

Philip frowned and asked, "A secret meeting? Have you found out who's attending?"

Theo quickly and respectfully handed the information of the people he had looked into to Philip and said, "It's all here. These are all the investors who invested in Beacon at the beginning. They're also members of the company's board of directors. However, after investigating their financial transactions, I found that these people didn't come to invest in Beacon at the beginning. They're backed by a powerful consortium with the purpose of multi effect integration. They're constantly controlling Beacon as an individual director shareholder. After they've gained a certain amount of equity, they can directly override Mrs. Clarke's right to speak in Beacon."

After Theo finished speaking, Philip's gaze fell on the investigation report. His brows furrowed as his face darkened.

He had not paid attention to the situation in the beginning, but to his surprise, everything was cropping up now.

Very well, how interesting.

Philip put the information away, got up, and said, "Let's go and meet Martin and the rest to see what they're really up to."

Hiss!

The atmosphere in the small conference room became extremely somber all of a sudden.

"Why is he back all of a sudden? Did you detain him?" Mr. Jenkins from earlier asked nervously at this moment.

Another person also followed and asked, "He'd better not ruin our plan at this juncture or all our efforts will be wasted."

"What exactly is the situation, Mr. Johnston? Quickly tell us."

Martin nodded and said, "According to our plan, our people would detain him and Wynn as long as they appeared. But now there are some problems. Philip is not as simple as we thought. Even Webster Shaw has been arrested because of him. Moreover, according to the information I received, Theo Zander is also working for Philip most likely for Wynn. He came back this time and brought a lot of people with him. Theo also arrived in Riverdale not long ago and helped Philip resolve the crisis. Hence, our operation has failed this time."

After Martin finished speaking, the entire conference room fell into a flurry of chatter.

Everyone looked anxious and worried.

This furious roar shook the entire room until it was buzzing!

Everyone followed the sound and saw Philip with his hands in his trouser pockets, followed by Theo who respectfully stood at his side. They were leading a dozen thugs in black suits who were barging in!

At this moment, everyone panicked!

Martin's face was dark as he stared at Philip who was approaching him. He said solemnly, "Who let you in? I've reserved this room. Get out of here!"

Martin was furious. This Philip Clarke was really lawless!

He even barged into his private room!

Thinking about what Philip had done to him earlier, Martin was very upset.

Martin's face was cold as he waved his hand and shouted, "I have nothing to say. Your words are all nonsense! I'm just talking to my friends. Besides, I'll resign from Beacon tomorrow. What does it matter to you what I do?"

"That's right, what does it matter to you what Martin does? Are you trying to force him or something?" Bernard's face was cold as he echoed.

Philip nodded and looked at Martin before saying, "Actually, whatever you do is meaningless to me. Because all of you are unqualified, even if you join forces."

"Insolence! Philip, you simply don't put us in your eyes!"

They had planned to use divestment as a threat at first, but now, it seemed that Philip was determined to let them divest.

Did he really have the ability to get 1.6 billion in funds to fill the gap after their divestment?

If this could not be done in time, Beacon would face bankruptcy and liquidation!

“Hmph, are you trying to scare me?” Martin roared and threw the agreement in his hand to the floor!

How dare Philip do this? Was he trying to scare them?

Following that, Martin looked at the several board members and shouted, “Don’t let him scare you. He’s deliberately putting up a tough front and trying to deter you!”

The board members looked at the divestment agreement in their hands and panicked a little.

Martin Johnston was a cunning old fox. He was actually trying to come between Philip and Wynn's relationship.

Smack!

Philip put the teacup on the coffee table heavily and raised his eyebrows, looking at the board members who had various expressions in front of him. He said, "I'm afraid to disappoint you, then. I can easily get 1.6 billion dollars in minutes. Do you believe it?"

"Why are you bragging? At this time, do you still want to act tough and suffer in silence? How is a loser like you going to find 1.6 billion dollars worth of investment?" One of the directors jeered at this moment

"Alas, the hat is too big for his head. Now, without our investment, Beacon can just wait for bankruptcy!"

Very soon, ten minutes went by.

There was still no movement downstairs.

Bernard was even standing at the window and deliberately looking outside. Except for a few cars that drove past, there was no sign of any delivery trucks on the streets. There was not even a person!

He turned around, shook his head at Martin, and said, "Martin, there's nothing downstairs."

Martin immediately slapped his hands on the armrests, got up, and laughed unrestrainedly. He mocked Philip, "My dear nephew, what now? Ten minutes have passed. Where are your cash delivery trucks? Where's the 1.6 billion dollars in cash? Hahaha!"

Immediately after, the surrounding directors also spoke sarcastically, "I'm laughing my ass off. It's really fun to watch this drama at night."

"Yes, even though I'm an old man now, I can still watch such funny things happening. I'll remember this for the rest of my life. Maybe I can even live longer from laughing at this. "

"Philip, where's your convoy? We've waited for ten minutes."

The crowd laughed at Philip's ignorance.

Martin also sneered and said, "Philip, it's getting late, so we'll be going back first. You can wait here for your cash delivery team to arrive. I hope that when we meet tomorrow, you can attend the company's shareholders meeting with 1.6 billion dollars in hand. When the time comes, I believe it'll be an unprecedented event if you hand over 1.6 billion dollars in cash to help Beacon. I think Wynn will also be very grateful to you then. Hahaha."

Martin was laughing so hard that he could not stop.

On the other hand, Philip smiled lightly and looked at the clock on the wall. He said, "Here it comes."

There was 50 million dollars in each case!

Seeing this, the hearts of Martin and the others dropped to rock bottom!

Philip actually got his hands on 1.6 billion dollars?

In such a short time too!

This was terrifying!

What kind of strength would it take to do all this?

Martin was flustered and extremely scared.

What kind of monster was he fighting against?

With such strength, why was Philip still in the Johnston family where he had to suffer from the contempt of others?
