

The First Heir 1721

Chapter 1721

Fennel was right and Venom was fully aware of it.

Just now, Fennel's kick had injected a lot of vigor into his body. If he dared to activate his energy now and the two forces collided, his internal organs would not be able to withstand it. His organs would crumble! If that happened, he would be rendered an invalid!

The Nonagon would have no use for an invalid!

Venom dared not move around and could only kneel on the floor, enduring the pain in his abdomen. He could hardly believe that a guy who had entered the second or even third zone behind the door would appear here in the outside world!

He and the other enforcers had been given this assignment for the Nonagon's selection this time. He really had not seen Fennel before! In that case, only two possibilities could explain the current situation.

First, he was a member of the Five Pavilions and could freely enter and exit the Nonagon.

Second, he was an outcast of the door, one who was wanted by the Nonagon.

As for which possibility it was, Venom dared not speculate freely!

If he was someone from the Five Pavilions, Venom could only lament his bad luck and apologize. If it was the latter, Venom would have to report this matter to the Nonagon to determine the identity of the other party.

Otherwise, if such a guy caused trouble in the outside world, it would affect the balance of the world structure. While Venom was contemplating, Connie Olsen walked over with an icy expression at this moment. She glanced at Venom who was kneeling on the ground, glared at the nonchalant Fennel fiercely, and asked, "Who are you? Do you know what will happen if you attack an enforcer of the Nonagon?"

Connie’s voice reminded one of a deep icy abyss, making others shiver when they heard it.

Immediately after, she burst into action. Her slender hand carried the force of thunder and struck Fennel on the chest!

Even an uninitiated layman could see that this palm strike contained an overwhelming power!

Everyone believed that with this attack, the guy who seriously injured Venom before would definitely die!

The corner of Venom’s mouth also carried a sneer. Since Connie had made a move, the outcome had been decided!

She had entered the second zone and her strength was above his a cut above!

She might even enter the third zone when they returned after this!

She was only 23 years old and selected by the Nonagon at the age of 19. In just four years, she had already attained such an achievement. Her future was limitless!

However, to everyone’s surprise, Connie’s palm strike did not cause any damage to Fennel at all. Instead, her wrist was grabbed by the opponent.

Everyone was shocked by the words that came out of Fennel's mouth!

What did he say?

What an arrogant tone!

Was he going to kill the four enforcers?

This was simply unheard of!

Was this cocky guy unaware that these people were from the Nonagon?

Moreover, Norris Weil had also said that he was a member of the Five Pavilions of the Nonagon and a member of the Griffin Pavilion!

This status and identity were definitely not accessible to ordinary people!

Even the people of the Nonagon had to be respectful when they met the people of the Five Pavilions!

That was a symbol of status!

Why don't you tell me and we'll see if it can be resolved? After all, our Griffin Pavilion recruits young and special talents from all over the world. With your strength, it's more than enough to enter Griffin Pavilion and get an official position.

Later, Philip had asked Reed about it but Reed just smiled indifferently and replied, "It's still too early for you to find out. The time is not ripe yet. Sooner or later, you'll come into contact with it."

Now, Philip realized that the secret Reed refused to reveal back then was the secret of these people before him. The Nonagon must be in control of something that was not accessible to ordinary people. Specifically, it was being displayed by Norris Weil in front of him.

It was the so-called vigor that Fennel had mentioned just now.

Vigor?

What exactly was it?

After this matter was over, he must find out from Fennel in more detail. He must know more!

While Philip was thinking about it, Fennel had already stepped forward. Without doing anything else, he stared closely at Norris with firm and domineering killing intent. "You're not my opponent. Why are you seeking your own death?"

Although Norris had fully unleashed his aura at this moment, he still felt infinite pressure from Fennel!

This guy obviously had not unleashed his aura. Why was there such overwhelming pressure?

Everyone was filled with horror at this scene!

The other three enforcers who stood behind Norris were all dumbfounded!

They were fully aware of Norris' strength!

He was the only one among the four who had entered the third zone to study. Although it was only half a month ago, it was enough to display his strength. Among them, he was definitely a heaven defying existence!

Moreover, given that he was a member of the Griffin Pavilion in the Five Pavilions, he was naturally stronger than the others who entered the third zone. That was because Griffin Pavilion had more structured and professional lectures and training.

However, at this moment, Norris' full blow was so easily blocked by Fennel!

What terrifying strength!

However, as an enforcer of the Nonagon in the Uppercreek region, she naturally could not agree to it so readily. They were members of the Nonagon, after all. No matter how powerful this guy in front of them was, would he dare to make an enemy out of the entire Nonagon?

At that time, what he would face was the pursuit of the organization!

Besides, by dealing such a severe blow to Norris Weil today, he had already offended the Griffin Pavilion. The Griffin Pavilion was one of the most spiteful among the five pavilions. Moreover, the master of Griffin Pavilion was ruthless and vicious. He was protective of his people. Once, someone disrespected the people of the Griffin Pavilion and the pavilion master directly sent his people to the outside world to exterminate the enemy's entire family. No one was spared!

Now, this guy in front had injured Norris so seriously. He must have offended Griffin Pavilion.

Thus, Connie's face was cold as she said, "By hurting our people like this, aren't you afraid that the Nonagon will hold you accountable? Aren't you afraid that Griffin Pavilion will issue a kill order against you? Besides, you used to be a member of the Nonagon, right? With such strength, you shouldn't appear in the outside world. Thus, there's only one explanation you're an outcast of the door and a defector of the Nonagon!"

Connie quickly analyzed the situation in front of her with a stone-cold face.

Fennel chuckled and swept a glance at Norris who was buried under the debris, saying coldly, "He won't die. Moreover, as I said, I have a grudge against the Griffin Pavilion. This is just a small lesson. Even if I make an enemy out of the Griffin Pavilion, so what? In fact, I hope that the Griffin Pavilion will issue a hunting order against me so that I can get rid of some people."

At this moment, Connie was at a loss for words. With eyes full of shock, she stared closely at the King Black Iron Token in her hand, her eyes constantly sweeping back and forth. She wanted to compare this debauched man in front of her with the Seven Kings of Disciples, the kind of heroes who stood above the rest.

In just a few seconds, Connie collapsed!

One of the Seven Kings of Disciples, the battle gods in the eyes of all disciples and the kings with the highest honor, was actually this guy in front of her!

This could not be!

Connie's worldview was about to collapse!

The Seven Kings of Disciples whom she had always revered were mysterious, supreme, and able to compel all the disciples to work for them.

He was actually one of the Seven Kings of Disciples!

"A-Are you one of the Seven Kings of Disciples?" Despite her disbelief, Connie still asked with trepidation.

Such an existence was simply not something she could resist!

Following that, Connie, Venom, and the other enforcer discussed it for a few minutes.

Finally, Connie looked at Fennel, respectfully handed him the King Black Iron Token, and said, "He can have the direct access spot, but you have to promise us one thing."

Fennel frowned and stared at Connie coldly.

Before he spoke, his compelling aura made Connie's heart tremble!

When she was unaware of Fennel's identity earlier, she was still able to resist. Now that she knew Fennel's identity and was thinking of all the legends about him, Connie could not bear it any longer. Her legs went weak and she quickly said, "It... It's a request from us."

Only then did Fennel abate his aura and ask, "Do you want to ask about the third zone?"

Connie looked at the other two and quickly said with a bow, "We hope you can enlighten us."

Fennel thought for a moment and said, "This request is not excessive."

When Sheryl caught up with them, she saw Fennel looking at her maliciously with a wicked sneer at the corner of his mouth.

This guy actually appeared here!

Sheryl was furious. Stepping on her high heels, she strutted over and raised her hand to slap Fennel harshly.

Smack!

Unfortunately, this slap fell short.

Sheryl's delicate jade-like hand was grabbed by Fennel in mid-air. With a faint smile at the corner of his mouth, he said, "Larson, you don't slap someone in the face. We just met and you're already so angry at me?"

Philip looked startled. The meaning behind Fennel's words was obvious. This was similar to a herdsman who should just let the livestock graze. Why tell the sheep that they could still graze outside of this area and there were in fact many other places that they could graze?

"In that case, what's the world like in the one ten-thousandth?" Philip continued asking.

Fennel thought about it and decided to tell Philip in the easiest way to understand. He took out a dagger from his pocket and handed it to Philip while saying, "Use the dagger and slowly approach the middle of your eyebrows with it."

Philip took the dagger, looked at it glittering in his hand, and did as he was told.

In that instant, Philip suddenly felt a strange sensation in the middle of his eyebrows. It was a tingling sensation of oppression, stinging as though electricity was passing through.

Fennel saw the change in Philip's expression. He took a sip of liquor and said, "This is the human body's self-protection. You can also understand it as a kind of energy, an aura."

It only depends on whether you can develop this potential yourself. Such people are exactly the and that discomfort in
