“Damn it!”

The woman steered the car to the window, looked at the wide open window, gritted her teeth, and said, “It seems that he has escaped!”

“This kid is really fast.”

The bearded man pursed his lips, nudged the spectacled man next to him, and said, “You still need to develop your mental strength.”

After a while, several vehicles with the logo of the White Marsh royal family rushed over, led by two eight-star powerhouses.

Although one felt very strong, his power was unstable. He seemed to have just reached the late stage of eight stars, while the other person was in the middle stage of eight stars. They opened the door and went in.

Roscoe woke up from his sleep groggily.

Seeing the roomful of White Marsh royal family, he jolted to his senses. He was about to call for Philip when he found that Philip had disappeared.

“So you don’t know anything about him.”

“I was just hitching a ride with him, so how would I know anything?”

Roscoe guessed that these people must be up to no good. Philip had been a great help, so he could not betray Philip like this.

"What?" Hearing this difficult challenge, the guy hesitated.

"Are the people of Lily Sword Court all talk but no action?" Seeing no response from the other party, Philip said.

"I'm not afraid of you!"

With that said, the guy raised his sword and chanted under his breath.

The guy's sword intent soared, and his clothes flapped in the blowing wind. It was not bad for a seven-star practitioner to produce such sword intent, but it was not enough for Philip.

Finally, the man's sword intent reached a certain peak, and he opened his eyes. His face was red as he slashed his sword at the lake.

Bang! Crack!

The lake water splashed more than ten feet high following this green sword energy.

The man gasped and yelled at Philip, "What do you think?"

Philip applauded and said, "Not bad, not bad... Not bad at all..."

After Billy was taken away, the sound of whipping was heard not far away accompanied by Billy's painful howls.

The court master turned to Philip and said, "Our court rules were created to protect our members who have just learned how to fly with the sword, but it'll be organized collectively and then notified to all parties to restrict the airspace. It's really inappropriate for Billy to change the rules privately. As for the rules, we'll make some changes, so you may rest assured."

The court master saw Philip's imposing manner and explained patiently.

The rule was not as bureaucratic as Philip thought, so it did not matter if they made no changes, but Philip was happy to have taught Billy a lesson.

"If there's nothing else, I shall take my leave. I'll visit again if there's a chance in the future."

Seeing that Philip was about to leave, the female sword practitioner from earlier stepped up and told the court master about Philip's sword strike just now.

"Are you serious? Did you exaggerate at all?" the court master was shocked and asked calmly.

"Billy and the rest of us were flying in the air at that time, so we saw everything clearly. There's no exaggeration at all," the female practitioner said with certainty.

"Why didn't you say so earlier?"

Seeing Philip unmoved, Chase asked, "What is the purpose of your trip this time?"

"Special herbs," Philip replied.

"In that case, you should really go to the First Continent. You can find all the special herbs in the territory of the fire phoenix royal family that can't be found in the ancient dragon royal family."

Philip did not reply. He could not reveal his whereabouts to others.

After the meal, Chase noticed that Philip had no intention of staying. He insisted on giving Philip an elder's token with Lily Sword Court engraved on it.

He said, "Elder Clarke, please leave us your contact details."

Unable to argue with this person, Philip had to exchange his contact information with him.

He set off again. After a while, he received the names of several forces sent to him by Court Master Nunez, complete with their leaders' information. Presumably, these must be the friendly forces mentioned by the court master earlier.

Philip felt a little creeped out as he looked at the old man with only half a body intact holding his thigh. He said, "What are you talking about?"

Suddenly, black mist exuded all over the old man's body.

He cackled and said, "I said I can live!"

The old man's mental strength suddenly jumped out and attacked Philip.

"Oh no!"

As this mental strength invaded, Philip realized that the other party was trying to take possession of his body. His consciousness went black, and he fell into the bottomless transparent mucus below. Philip's body was like transparent white jade, and only the hair on his body was corroded.

At this time, the old man was confronting Philip in his consciousness.

"My body is useless now, so I will use your body to save me!" After saying that, he pounced on Philip.

This old man should be quite close to the holy tier before this, so his mental strength was also very powerful. However, even if Philip was in his consciousness, he could barely withstand the attack.

Philip fished out the green ring and used the rules of space to destroy the restriction.

There were not many things in this space ring, but he was more interested to look at the technique that could produce such strong mental strength.

In the space ring, medicines, precious metals, various weapons, and daily necessities were placed in small piles. They were placed quite orderly among the mess. Most of the medicines were used to enhance practice, which was not useful for Philip. After all, consuming too much medicine could be detrimental.

He found no use for the weapons and daily necessities too.

He probably only had use for the precious metals, so Philip decided to find a place to sell the rest of the items.

Philip started with his existing technique. After one cycle, he changed his energy pattern. Although a nuisance, it was worth a try.

Without further ado, Philip sat cross-legged on high ground and practiced. There was nothing unusual at first, but every time he changed his energy pattern, he would feel pain all over his body at increasing levels.

The pain started from his veins, from internal to external, deep to the bone marrow, and extended to his skin. However, there was no disorder in his technique anymore, so Philip gritted his teeth and persisted.

By using his mental strength, he observed the color of his energy gradually changing, and even his most powerful level 5S elements were getting stronger.

Philip suffered endless mental and physical torture. Finally, after his last energy pattern was changed, the pain completely disappeared, replaced by a sense of exhilaration as if he was on cloud nine.

After opening his eyes, Philip found a layer of stinky grime all over his body. This technique could even help purge impurities from his body. He used his water element to wash up.

Before this, he did not pay much attention to the changes in his elements.

As soon as the water touched his body, however, Philip found that its characteristics had changed. The water became a little corrosive, the wind was faster and more aggressive, the earth was more compact, the metal was more malleable with smaller particles, and the temperature of the fire had increased.

He felt the enhancement of each category. Although the difference was not too big, it was still an increase of level 5S elements by half a level or even one level.

After he realized his surroundings, Philip swam toward the exit with all his strength.
The aquarium employees quickly arranged for some people to jump into the water while others waited at the exit.
Today was the aquarium's first day of opening, so it must not be ruined by the appearance of this naked man.
A blond old man gritted his teeth and looked at the monitor screen where Philip nimbly dodged the employees like a fish.
He slapped the table and shouted, "How the hell are you monitoring this place?"
"Manager, this fish is an opening gift from the former White Marsh emperor," the person next to him said tremblingly.
The former White Marsh emperor had a good relationship with the blond old man. The two were playmates when they were children. The blond old man did not shy away from scolding. "Maybe that old geezer is messing with me!"
In the center, a group of people from the White Marsh royal family surrounded an old man with gray hair and the little girl he held hands with.

Feeling the power from the stone, Philip believed the old man's words a little.

Seeing that Philip was still somewhat doubtful, the old man said to the other members of the White Marsh royal family, "You may return to the Jade Marsh Palace."

The leading eight-star and nine-star powerhouses hesitated for a moment but quickly took their leave.

At this time, a little girl ran over, grabbed the old man's hand, hid behind him, and stared at Philip who was not far away.

"Grandpa, he's wearing clothes now."

"My good child, I told you he's human."

"But he has no hair, and he looks very fierce."

These two did not treat Philip as an outsider and just chatted freely.

"Uh, I can't tell you that," Seeing the old man going straight to the point, Philip replied.

"You should be from the ancestral land. No one here can secretly get the mark of the White Marsh royal family."

The old man's eyes were sharp, and Philip could only answer yes.

The little girl opened a little gap in her room door and peeked at the two people in the living room.

The two were silent for a while before the old man said thoughtfully, "Rather than the land of the sinned blood, I still prefer to call it the ancestral land..."
